FORECASTS - July 1971 ... 1

*Gene
Nixon
spl*

The recent New York Times expose of secret military information is part of a much larger plot to destroy past administrations ... but even more, it is part of a plot to discredit those now at the head of our country in order to divide America further, make our people more discontented, and thus make it easier for our opposing forces to change our government ... not our constitution -- but our government.

The documents in question -- as well as other official, top-secret papers already in hand for further exposés -- were taken from government files by members of previous administrations. Copies of these documents are in the hands of our opposing forces as well as unpatriotic newspapers. The results of revealing these defense secrets will not only damage the images of former Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, they will prove devastating to America and the whole world will experience and suffer repercussions from this exposé. It will cause much trouble in Southeast Asia by constantly keeping our government off balance.

However much more important news now being suppressed will be released this coming November. In the fall of 1973, America will begin to reap the full harvest of the damage done by these exposés, and there will be serious revolutionary difficulties. In early April 1977 will come the most serious confrontation America has ever had. A decision will be made then that will drastically change our whole form of government and bitterly affect the whole nation.

... I get vibrations from this current expose ^{will} that lead to someone of importance at a southern university ...

Regardless of this expose or any other mistake former President Johnson has been accused of, he will prove himself a greater statesman now -- and for the greater good of our country -- than at any other time.

Lyndon Johnson is just now beginning to realize the full import of the doublecross given him by some members of his own administration as well as higher ups in his political party.

I pick up vibrations indicating he is most interested in helping President Nixon adjust the economy and bring the country safely through. In fact, it will become increasingly difficult to determine whether President Johnson is ^{Politically} a Democrat or a Republican.

I feel sure LBJ gave his blessing to John Connolly when he accepted the appointment as Secretary of the Treasury.

SOUTH VIETNAM

I see troubled days ahead for the South Vietnamese Government.

Many pressures will be exerted from within and without. President Thieu will be re-elected -- if he lives. There are troubled vibrations around him. I see nothing else for the present.

In Southeast Asia and the Middle East there will be continued trouble and bloodshed. President Nixon has started the path to peace, but the peace will not come easily or as soon as we want it.

EGYPT

President Sadat of Egypt was forced to sign a treaty with Russia -- a 15 year treaty. After the arrest of high officials in his government he waited for us. Because the United States did not intervene the Russians became bold.

Only the Egyptian people themselves can save their country from the Russians, but I do not see them doing it, although they will try. Sadat will not be successful in his peace moves.

I see great danger near President Sadat of Egypt, and feel he has not been forgiven for what he did to the pro-Soviet Egyptians.

Too, I see his name inscribed in a special sector in Moscow -- it looks all black.

He should beware -- especially of doctors and medical technicians.

CHINA

The so-called lifting of the "Bamboo Curtain" spells grave danger. ~~Indeed~~ Communist China will use us to build up their industrial power as the U.S.S.R. refused to help them do so. This power will eventually be used against us. I see that Chou En Lai, the clever Foreign Minister of Red China, who is not our friend, is guiding this movement.

ITALY

... Italy will shortly have a communistic^{-type} government, but not under the U.S.S.R. They will ~~be a major~~ ~~go communist as the first major~~ move of world control by Red China. This will be one of the great steps forward for Red China in making progress on her own. However there will be no really sincere thaw in Red China for many, many years. The communist leaders of Red China have only one purpose in mind -- to conquer and dominate, not only Italy and Russia, but America as well.

GREAT BRITAIN

The British are very sad over what is happening in the United States. I see that for the present their only hope is to join the common market; they will be admitted.

UNITED STATES

I see a revolution[✓] in the United States. The liberals,

what kind of a revolution?

militants and the weaknesses of a conservative government will force a change in our democracy. To survive and lead ^{us} into the new life of the next century I see ^{where} we have learned a very tragic lesson and become more united with a stronger government. ✓

SCHOOLS

A method must be found to prevent extensive busing as decreed by the Supreme Court in accordance with HEW's plans in order to receive federal funds. The whole public school system will be endangered. Parents of both majority and minority groups will lose faith in trying to control the education of their children. This crisis will manifest itself in two ways: 1) Refusal to approve school bond money; and 2) Many children will be transferred to private schools.

I feel that Congress will endeavor to correct this by legislation, but still I see our school system going through a revolution of its own. Eventually the system will adjust to the pupil instead of the pupil adjusting to the educational system ... great changes are in the making. Then back again to disciplined rules and regulations but this will not be settled until after the year 1975.

Great changes in the public school systems will occur -- they will readjust and modernize to fit the times. Added to the three R's -- Readin', Ritin' and 'Rithmetic will be the supplemental three L's -- Life, Labor and Loving. LOVE. ✓

SST AND SPACE

The United States will build an SST (super sonic transport) just as we will build a space platform.

SPORTS

Babe Ruth's home-run record will not be broken by Willie Mays or Hank Aaron.

Heavyweight Joe Frazier will remain heavyweight boxing champion for one year, then pursue another career.

THUMBMAIL PREDICTIONS

1. I see the threat of two major strikes this year. They will be settled and the inflationary spiral will increase slightly.
2. The 4-day, 40-hour work week will not come into being for some years.
3. The dollar will remain strong.
4. Taxes will go up.
5. The volunteer Army is not to be in this century.
6. The newly enfranchised youth vote will have an influencing effect in 1972, but even more so in 1976.

More

7. After "Hot Pants" I see "Bikini Shorts" emerging in women's far-out fun fashions.

8. The basic concept of marriage and family will never really change but there will always be those who want the pleasures of free love without ^{accepting} the resulting responsibilities. But ^{many} some of them will return to the life style of Jesus after finding out they cannot find instant or lasting contentment otherwise. Only through following Jesus will they find this.

9. The "Jesus people" or "Jesus freaks" as they are sometimes called, are a coming force for good in our country.

10. The use of marijuana will not be legalized. The cure for drug addiction will be within the users themselves, and sadly, a cure is NOT just around the corner. Selling drugs has become big business, and drug addiction and deaths from drug abuse will continue.

11. I see no black leader acceptable to all blacks emerging until the latter part of 1975 or ^{maybe} ~~perhaps~~ a few months sooner.

12. There will be no open warfare during the rest of this year at least between factions in the Black Panthers.

13. The future looks rosy for Boeing, but dark for Lockheed -- for the time being.

14. Hollywood should be very happy for I see a great rebirth of highly talented superstars in true traditional Hollywood style ... a re-dedication by all concerned to the art of good moviemaking. We will see meaningful, wholesome, and dramatic pictures emerge with fewer spectacular movies such as those which have in the past emphasized immorality and mudity.

15. The Italian Anti-defamation League and the Jewish Defense League will continue to exist, but will not be too important for the next ten years, nor will they rise to a threatening position.

16. There will be ^{no} ~~no~~ ^{serious} confrontation between the United States and the U.S.S.R. until after 1975. ✓

17. Trade and communications will open up with Mainland China but we will not make an overall gain.

18. Red China will be admitted to the United Nations, and the Republic of China -- Taiwan -- will walk out.

19. After 1975 I see some countries in Southeast Asia becoming neutral and independent, not because of our efforts, but because of upheaval and dissension within communist countries.

20. Regarding our prisoners of war -- it is impossible for our President to announce a definite withdrawal date for our ^{in exchange for P.O.W. releases.} armed forces in Vietnam. Should he by any remote chance do so I see great dangers and much trouble for many countries ... including our own. The prisoners of war will not be released until we complete negotiations with the U.S.S.R. And even when that is accomplished, it will be a far cry from world peace, for we will be under another type of communistic rule.

In foreign policy I see a most significant development.

Recent headlines announced a new round of S.A.L.T. talks about to take place, with the initial agreement concerning the ABM.

The S.A.L.T. talks are of great importance to the United States and to the world, yet I get that our interests there are deliberately being sabotaged.

A few years ago I warned the Administration and Congress that despite a show of meetings and talks, the nuclear test ban treaty would be written by the U.S.S.R. almost entirely in their favor.

Now I see the head of the Foreign Sector of the Central Committee of the U.S.S.R. directing again the writing of a new, similar treaty to be presented for acceptance at Helsinki.

I see further that there seems to be some collusion with a few of our government officials and our S.A.L.T. delegates, who will accept any treaty the U.S.S.R. hands them.

be on our way to that new form of government I keep seeing.

The air is thick with thoughts emanating now that President Nixon will run for re-election with a new running mate in 1972. The present Vice President will voluntarily retire from his post to a more lucrative position. Spiro Agnew has already made his mark in America. I see a great future for him and a happy one.

There will be two changes in President Nixon's Cabinet ... the two most important Cabinet positions.

: J. Edgar Hoover will not retire as Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation for the time being ... America needs him.

I see a streamlining of procedures, plus a gradual downgrading of the congressional seniority system, eventually leading to its elimination.

As for Henry Kissinger, I did not see any physical danger for him at the time of the so-called "kidnapping plot", but I do still see that cloud emblazoned around him even yet with the number 19.

For Father Philip Berrigan and his associates I see people who are THINKING with their hearts instead of their heads ... a tempest in a teapot ...

More

I do not get human life, human vibrations, in our galaxy as far as I can reach out ... but I do feel the vibrations of the heart beat of the Universe far, far out to the highest reaches of the Milky Way.

I see tremendous adventures in space for the United States. While we progress in outer space, I feel it is imperative we keep an eye on platform placements and docking attempts above our earth.

• Recently I had an interview with a Soviet newspaper correspondent and discussed the nature and purpose of their military efforts in space, and asked him to convey to his superiors, the message that I knew of their intentions. The message I gave was never conveyed to either the Russian leaders or the Russian people.

The present Soviet space platform is not yet as stable as desired ... I feel that within the next year they will overcome these stabilization problems, then will mount a M.I.R.V. containing nine warheads programmed to strike at nine U.S. cities simultaneously.

Five years ago I called this the "submarine of the sky."
We will be in serious danger unless we quickly perfect an intercept system.

More

I feel it advisable that the Department of Defense should keep the public informed and narrow the "credibility gap" by telling the American public that already three U.S. scientific satellites have been intercepted and deadened by the U.S.S.R. I see that if the public were made truly aware of the facts we would have greater national unity and understanding in our country.

This would help the public tremendously to understand our international situation ... and one reason why we cannot successfully negotiate peace in Vietnam immediately.

I opened my last column at the beginning of 1971 with the prediction that 1971 would be the "Year of Light" ... specifically, that the people of the United States would begin to understand most of the issues and dangers which confront them, and recognize the emotional uproars, propaganda, radical disturbances, controlled disorders (such as bombings, fires, etc.,) for what they really are.

The dangers of environmental and ecology deterioration and pollution have been exaggerated in some instances. Two examples are the SST -- and the Alaskan Pipeline. It may not be the wisest thing to do, but both will be built. America needs and will build both.

Too, America will solve its tremendous problems about the alarming deterioration of our cities, dangerous water hazards, and air pollution.

Our life pattern of the future ...

Power sources will be from atomic reactors, with enough power to supply all our needs; disposal problems will be solved. Human waste, debris and industrial pollutants will all be eliminated by scientific breakthroughs. Garbage and other waste solids and liquids will be processed and converted into building and paving material.

Liquid fuels will be new, clean types.

Engine and exhaust emission converters will reduce such gas pollutants to a point where Nature can easily convert the small remainder.

Scientific breakthroughs in life-saving bacteria, oxygen and electrically assisted filters will gradually bring our waterways back to normal.

Our cities will gradually evolve into centers of commerce and government.

I see a gradual upsurge in our economic situation. I would

There will be a cure for cancer in the 1970's. The breakthrough of this discovery will lead to a whole new era in medical science.

CHIEF JUSTICE WARREN BURGER comes through with ministerial vibrations, indicating deep religious convictions. He will not stay many more years as Chief Justice because another interest will come into his life. It seems as though in 1973 a very high honor will be conferred upon him, and at that time he will also have a landslide of good luck. I see him retiring after that -- for reasons of health.

A true scholar of jurisprudence, the Chief Justice will always mete out justice with mercy ... but a difficult decision is coming his way. It could concern the exposé of Defense Department secrets published in New York and Washington newspapers, and I get that he will disqualify himself -- seemingly in October of this year -- although my timing could be wrong on this. Timing is very difficult to get.

The Chief Justice is a very, very honest man with a highly developed sense of personal integrity.

His most important decision in the Supreme Court will come in 1973. After that time I get that he will announce his retirement. However, before his life is over he will be the author of some very meaningful poetry.

MAYOR DALY

In meditating on the illustrious Mayor Richard J. Daly

more

of Chicago I am picking up vibrations and thoughts which seem to come from the Mayor himself and which seem to say, 'Why couldn't I be president?'

This is not to say he is definitely going to run as a presidential candidate ... but I definitely get that he thinks in his own mind he would like to be the president.

ERICH SEGAL

I get that the Author of the much talked about "Love Story" is a very lonely person despite the impetus which swept him into the public limelight. Unfortunately he will soon receive some undeserved, unfavorable publicity which will depress him ... and because of it he will seclude himself.

While in seclusion I can feel his thoughts turning to poetry. He will write serious and beautiful poetry, but because of the jealousy and enmity around him he will not appear in public much. He will be a "loner", but will write another book which seems destined to come out about 1973. It will also become a best seller because both his talent and character will improve during his hermitage. His new book will be unconventional as will most of his future writings.

He will continue to be a victim of professional jealousy,

retarded children and their parents.

I see her having an upswing in her career late next year ... an opportunity to sing for people in very high places ... some really important VIP's. However, her career will be slowed down a little bit before that happens. Happily there is a silver lining to her dark cloud ... she will use this time of lessened professional activity as a period of renewal and inspiration to come to the top again.

.. As time goes by she will develop and use her ability for imparting knowledge to teach music and singing to others. She has a talent for language, along with great patience and understanding.

Despite the demands of her pupils she will begin to finish some of her current projects.

A very benevolent and hospitable woman, in the past she has put confidence in the wrong people, but has now learned the fine art of selection from these past misjudgments ... and although she will go through a very lonely period in her life soon, she will use that time to work even harder and eventually gain great professional and personal success. After the temporary lull in her career she will emerge with such vigor and be so inspired that she will have to be careful not to exhaust herself.

more

One day her great sacrifices will be made public -- but by then these sacrifices will have proved themselves the real inspiration behind her true greatness.

WILLIE MAYS

Because of a health situation Willie Mays will make important changes in his present life style. This may displease him for a while but it will be very profitable in the long run, and will turn out to be a blessing in disguise.

Willie will have rough going through the rest of this year and the first part of next, especially in his personal life. But as time goes by things get better and better for him. He will take on some kind of an acting role which will prove important ... and after that he will have a hand in some kind of a government contract. With his great organizational ability he will initiate and organize some kind of a new business group which will add a great deal to his bank account.

However he should be very careful for the next few months not to ride in any private planes. I see danger around him, and the outline of a small plane.

Hidden assets of character and talent will come to his aid even though they may surprise him at first by their very existence. He has great hunches and will take advantage of them for big successes.

more

Also he has thoughts about writing and I see him one day writing for the public although at this time I do not get whether it will be in the form of books or some other medium ... but definitely, he will write.

In the spring of 1972, probably April, his baseball prowess will lessen and although he will not make as many spectacular homeruns, he will have a very good year as a baseball star nevertheless. In the not too distant future he will retire from professional baseball.

I do see an important change coming into his life this fall -- but here is a little word of warning -- Willie should watch the kind of company he keeps.

He is a very fine person, and I believe I am picking up his thoughts correctly in saying that he is seriously thinking of a partnership in some kind of food or restaurant business in the latter part of the '70's -- probably 1977 or 1978. He will make good money in this business as he possesses great patience and good executive ability, although understandably he is not much of a cook.

Besides having an interest in the food business I get that he will have an interest in a clothing business.

Willie Mays will spend the last part of his life as a much-loved, much-respected American, will help in rehabilitation programs, and will leave his country a great heritage.

CHARLES EVERS

The Mayor of Lafayette, Mississippi, has most of his disappointments behind him. I see the "Midas Touch" applying to everything he touches between now and 1974. On an upward spiral of winning, ~~winning, winning~~, he will run for ever higher political office, winning each one ~~by large majorities~~. He will confer with people in top positions, and by 1977 will be prominent politically and very wealthy.

It seems as though somehow, some way, he will be in the liquor business, although at the same time I get that he has deep religious convictions.

In 1972 I see a great deal of luck coming to him no matter which way he turns or what he does. He loves to master, but settles for the best he can get ~~and is grateful for that~~.

As time goes by he will get a presidential appointment and will succeed because he will not permit himself to fail.

More

In spite of his success I get revolutionary tendencies within him ... revolutionary vibrations which do not unite the people, but divide them.

Something of great interest to all is coming up in the life of Charles Evers in May or June of 1972.

LEO DUROCHER

He cannot help having the disposition he has. This spur of the moment decision^s has caused him much trouble...this he cannot help, these are the vibrations he has. Leo very much resents this because he feels he has tried sincerely to do his best in very difficult and tangled situations. Often his decisions were impulsively made even though he seemed not to really want to carry them out. Inside he always wondered afterward if he had done the right thing -- and anguished over decisions that turned out badly.

He will suffer from a back ailment, but it will disappear with time.

SONNY JURGENSON

Sonny Jurgenson will retire from active football and take a job where he will be giving advice and/or instruction. He will not be a full time player this coming season, but will still be important in an advisory role. A great change is coming in his life, but he is not one to complain because of it. September of this year will bring him great opportunities.

MARTHA MITCHELL

Martha Mitchell will continue to give her opinions. The public should heed them and always read between the lines because she is trying to give us, the American people, a knowledge of the issues and trying to alert us to people who do not place their country foremost. Mrs. Mitchell has great psychic and intuitive abilities, and when her husband retires from public office in the years to come, Martha will have a syndicated column, write a very interesting book, and go down in history as one of America's great patriotic ladies.

1975-75-76 (probably 75) there will be an ultimatum to the US from USSR.

Alan King - thoughts turn to him -- I don't know him - he has strong ties in Jerusalem and something that is attached to the ground in Jerusalem. He is responsible for some kind of a hospital in Israel. The thoughts are turned toward him. He could be one of the Jews the terrorists would go after.

Cronkite on the air the other night said he had gotten word that there is going to be some killing here in America - bombing, etc. of Jewish organizations and killing of their leaders.

Very very important -- McGovern will have advantage on the President he will beat him to the draw because he can say anything. Somehow or other it will effect a great deal of money.

The President
The White House
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. President,

My thoughts and prayers have been with you these past, grave days. Time will prove your decision to destroy the enemy sanctuaries in Cambodia was the right one, so do not be too disturbed or dismayed over the campus riots, civil disturbances and the public utterances of loud liberals -- both oral and printed.

History will justify your action ... and your friends, supporters and the American people will stand behind you in 1972.

However it should be called to your attention that there is a leak in your highest intelligence agency. A direct line of communication exists from someone there to Moscow. These are the same people that caused the destruction of a large group of our agents behind the Iron Curtain, and the execution of a high Russian officer some time back (it could have been a few years ago).

Your man at the helm knows of these incidents, I feel, and must quietly but with help clean these people out of his agency. This same official, I think, took action a few years ago when I warned of danger confronting General Westmoreland, and actually saved his life by so doing.

Unfortunately your plans for Cambodia were relayed to the enemy in advance of your public announcement ... this I would call treason -- and should be stopped! I would so much like to talk to you about many things ... for reasons you will well understand it is impossible to go into detail in a letter.

Maybe you could invite Jimmy and me to a Sunday Service again soon, and we could talk a bit then. I cannot shake off the feeling that this is vitally important, Mr. President.

'Nixon Will Be Our Next President'

By
Jeane
Dixon

DURING the 1960 election I saw Richard Nixon as the winner: I stated this in public print and have never retracted this statement. This telepathy forecast was shown as a Nixon victory, taken away from him by a handful of men in the Mid West. However, destiny cannot be denied.

In 1962 after Mr. Nixon was defeated in California and told a press conference that it would be his "last," I forecast that Mr. Nixon's most important role in politics and for his country was still ahead of him, that his work had barely started. He is the nominee of the Republican Party.

Richard Nixon will be our next President. But, of course, he must take security measures at all times. Man's words, plans or commentaries cannot block the path of destiny. The two factors which will determine his election are the main concerns of the American people — their own personal safety and national security. In simpler terms, I see them defined as law and order and communism. Until these two issues are settled, the words peace and prosperity are meaningless. I see the Democrats in great trouble over both.

At present the nation is divided. Richard Nixon will be a unifying force and will restore our strength and determination. Most colored people have little feeling for Mr. Nixon, but as their President he will do more for them than has been accomplished over the last hundred years. Sound economic gains and restoration of pride and dignity are in store for minority groups.

Wallace and Reagan

George Wallace has become an important factor in the campaign, as I predicted last January. But the telepathy waves I am getting from him have less weight than those from Mr. Nixon; I interpret this as Mr. Nixon getting the majority of votes.

However, George Wallace will become increasingly important. He, too, as the other candidates, must have proper security.

His views will be the beginning of the end of the two-party system. Unless the Republicans solve the ills brought upon this nation by the ultra-liberal establishment, there will be a strong third party in the future.

Governor Ronald Reagan's star will continue to rise and he will be a powerful political figure nationally, typifying honesty and integrity.

I continue to see Ambassador Sargent

Shriver's star rising, and it is growing clearer and more prominent.

President Lyndon B. Johnson will retire to private life, and his advice will be sought on domestic issues by those in power. In retirement he will have many regrets that he did not exercise his own judgment.

More Blood in Vietnam

For Vietnam I see more blood, more terror, more heartbreak, there will be no lasting peace. At the present rate of the war there will be an increase in U. S. deaths. I see a grave threat building up within South Vietnam. It is there, but I cannot see it, it is an invisible government. I see these strange invisible cells as a cancer within the South Vietnamese government. They also spread their invisible shadow over the peace talks in Paris.

These cells cast their shadows in threes. So persistent is their presence that no matter what settlement we make in Vietnam, these cancerous cells of the invisible government will kill any democratic body established to govern the country. We can only win this game by using our own democratic elements on the same stage.

I see great changes in Soviet leadership. Premier Aleksei N. Kosygin actually has no real power at this time; his usefulness will soon be over. Leonid I. Brezhnev will be used only as a front. The real power in Russia lies in the hands of Mikhail A. Suslov. I see him in a room marked "special sector." With this group he controls world communism, foreboding ill for the United States. Mr. Nixon realizes this situation and will deal with it realistically.

More on the FOBS

Communist China will continue to be a power in the international racial revolution.

Responsible officials in the Department of Defense believe that the recent Minuteman 3 and Poseidon missile tests had an effect on the Soviet planners. The Soviets passed this stage years ago and do not consider them significant.

While we are experimenting on these smaller missiles and counting on them as a nuclear deterrent in the 1970's, we should at the same time look up to what I call the FOBS (Full Orbital Bombardment System). I have seen three of these. They are virtually invisible to our detection devices. But we should forget trying to detect them and check the tunnels they leave behind them in space. These sparking electrical tunnels will tell our scientists what is inside these three FOBS.

Cities

Our cities are in for more trouble, more riots, more violence. The enemies of our system have found this vulnerability and will exploit it to the maximum. The principal aim is creation of a revolution by breaking down law and order, aided and abetted by external influences.

The answer to the problem of our cities is not rebuilding slums and ghettos with modern facades. The cities as we knew them years ago are relics of the past. I have seen the cities of the future, modern business and trade areas surrounded by satellite cities where people live in comfort and ease.

Pueblo

The release of our men will not come about by negotiations with the North Koreans. Their freedom has to be negotiated in Moscow. The nine or ten men running the North Korean Government are Soviet citizens and Soviet officers. The communist planners have calculated that every mention of our men being held captive is a sign to the world of our impotence and weakness. Until this propaganda illusion is dissipated we cannot expect the return of our men.

Supreme Court

There will be a decided change in philosophy in the Supreme Court. There will be a turn toward conservatism in the court's decisions on law and order, social problems, and subversion. There will be no changes until a new President is inaugurated. There will be reforms in the area of appointments of political judges.

Other Predictions

WIRETAPPING SCANDAL. A wiretapping scandal which I have predicted previously is yet to come. It will involve Richard Nixon, but will show him as a sincere man and will help his public image. I saw a ball going round and round in what seemed to be a roulette wheel; the ball seemed always to stop on a double-O. It seemed to indicate a name or names which I could not interpret. A tall, dark man also appeared to be involved. The entire matter will affect Mr. Nixon favorably and would seem to put him in a position to right a great wrong, which would be for the good of the image of the United States.

KING'S ASSASSINATION. Startling developments will emerge from James Earl Ray's trial for the assassination of the Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr. It will reveal that Ray was used and cleverly set up. The true conspirators are dangerous to the security of our nation; their identity would shock the American people and the world.

ARAB-ISRAELI CONFLICT. There will be constant flareups, but peace or war in the area rests with the United States. If we formulate a definite policy toward the USSR, not the hands-off acquiescence of the Czech crisis, but a definite warning, and prove that we mean it, then the USSR will back away and there will be peace.

The present Soviet plans look toward Yugoslavia and West Berlin. The loss of Berlin will happen, unless we are determined in the next few months. Russian plans are aimed at keeping the new administration off balance.

THE ECONOMY. It will continue high in 1969, production and trade will increase. I only see one cloud on the horizon that could seriously affect our prosperity. That is increased war spending. The communists will try to embroil us in more Vietnams. There will be a slight dip in the economy, because of past policies. Mr. Nixon will correct this.

THE NEGROES. The racial situation will flare up from time to time. The solution still lies in patriotic and strong leadership among the Negroes themselves who will not allow foreign agitators in their midst.

STUDENT RIOTS. The disturbances will increase and will be used by Moscow. Subversive influences will fan the campus agitation. The solution is for the loyal non-hippie students to drive the outside agitators from their campuses. Otherwise anarchy will follow. Our State Department should look into the actions of the Soviet planner named Demichev.

JAPAN. I see Japan emerging as a great power again, based not on military exploits but on trade. Its strength will be patterned on the U.S. model of industry and affluence. Japan will become the United States of the Far East.

SELECTIVE SERVICE. The system will be overhauled to correct inequities, but the United States will continue to have a selective service system because it is essential to the security of the nation.

WEST GERMANY. I see a West Germany cowed and intimidated by the USSR. A high Soviet official, whose name begins with a "Y," already has completed plans which will send Soviet troops marching across German soil.

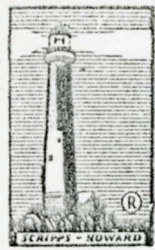

FRANCE. France's President Charles de Gaulle will offer his friendship to a new administration. He will assist politically and also offer sound financial advice. This will occur during the administration's first year, since he will pass from the scene soon after.

HOFFA. Watch for the reappearance of Jimmy Hoffa on the scene. I never saw his star wane all the way. It will begin to ascend.

WOMAN PRESIDENT. There will be talk of a woman President in 1972, but there will not be a woman President elected in 1972.

Dear Mrs. Nixon:

I have both of your books and have read them over and over with great interest. I hope you are planning another for the near future.

I know you are very busy but perhaps you will find a tiny moment somewhere to read this.

My life has been troubled for quite a while. It seems we have been walking down a steep mountain and with so many hurts and disappointments piling up last month in April, I feel we are now at the deepest, darkest part of the valley. I hope we will start climbing back up into the sunshine soon.

But as troubled and

² frustrated as our lives have been, I just can't think about our problems while our President is having so much abuse heaped upon him. I read your second book yesterday, the section on President Nixon. What you predicted has happened, I believe, in this terrible criticism of his Cambodian decision. I believe he is right but those of us who believe in our President are not being heard.

I hope and pray that you will go and see President Nixon and tell him what you know.
He mustn't weaken. He must remain strong and sure and as what he knows is right.

There are a group of democrats and some Republicans who have been trying very hard to destroy our Presi-

³dent and his administration. A great many of these are up for re-election and thinking of themselves instead of our country. Although I can see what they are doing I know it is wrong.

The student activists are dupes of the Communists and don't even know it. They also are juveniles, who haven't lived long enough nor experienced enough of life to really know what they are talking about. They are merely parroting others.

But my greatest puzzle is why the news media is doing its part to hurt our President. They are supposed to be intelligent but is it their hatred of our President that makes them speak as they do about him?

Please help President Nixon. I believe that you can. Sincerely,
James R. Rufford

Dear Mr. President,

In meditating for my mid-year forecasts many things concerning our beloved country and its courageous leader came to me, but one idea especially came over and over again. It emphasized itself in my mind so deeply that I feel it imperative to tell you, and in view of our present economic situation, tell you now!

It involves revitalizing the former RFC.

Wondering just what to do I felt it would have to appear first as an idea of the people ... and the name of our mutual friend, Mr. James Gerity, came to me. He had talked many times in the past about the old RFC and what a firm sense of economic security its work had given our nation.

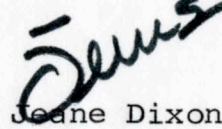

Then I thought if we could get this story on the front and editorial pages of a good out-of-town newspaper we might succeed in stirring up national interest. So I went to another mutual friend, Mr. James Stahlman of the Nashville Banner, arranged for Mr. Stahlman and Mr. Gerity to meet, and urged them to get together on ways and means of publicizing good, sound reasons for revitalizing the RFC. The results are shown on the enclosed tear sheets from the Nashville Banner.

We have gone this far -- actually even a step further-- now we need your suggestions and help, Mr. President.

As you will recall, in 1949 my prognostication was that you would be President of the United States -- for the good of humanity...but to fulfill your destiny you need all the help you can get! You should know what is going on and help, as only you can, bring our economy back to a sound, non-inflationary basis. There are some other ideas about which you will hear later.

As always, my prayers are with you for your special intentions, Mr. President.

Respectfully yours,

Jeane Dixon

P.S. How nice it would be if you could switch around some of your advisors....perhaps even replace one or two.

My dear Mr. Gerity:

The story and tear sheets are under separate cover. I think your plan is on the way, and I certainly hope it works out to a full fruition.

I have sent tear sheets to the following, including all the members of the Senate Banking Committee:

Robert C. Hill, Ambassador to Spain	Jeane Dixon
John Sparkman	William Proxmire
Henry Jackson	Harrison A. Williams, Jr.
Richard Moore, Office of Att. Gen.	Edmund S. Muskie
Hugh Scott	Thomas J. McIntyre
Russell Long	Walter F. Mondale
Harry Byrd, Jr.	Alan Cranston
Ransom Cook, former Pres. Wells Fargo	Wallace F. Bennett
Frank Houston, former Pres Chemical Bnk	John G. Tower
Baxter Jackson, " " " "	Edward W. Brooke
Arthur Burns, Federal Reserve Board	Robert W. Packwood
Ronald Ziegler	William V. Roth, Jr.
John N. Mitchell	William E. Brock
Herbert G. Klein	Robert Taft, Jr.
Harry S. Dent	Adlai Stevenson, III
John B. Connally	David H. Gambrell

This is about as hard a plug as The Banner and I can give it, and I suggest that if you have other friends who can add to the momentum, now is the time to press the buzzer.

With every good wish and kindest personal regards, I am

Sincerely yours,

PERSONAL AND CONFIDENTIAL

Mr. James Gerity, Jr.
President
Committee of One Hundred
P. O. Box 2339
Miami Beach, Florida 33140

My dear Mr. Gerity:

You will be happy to know that I have just had a conversation with Wilbur Mills and Congressman Richard Fulton who represents the Nashville district and who is also a member of the House Finance, Ways and Means Committee.

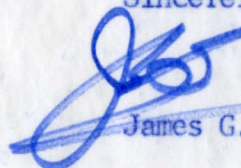

I expressed the hope that both of them would be interested in the revival of the RFC as told in your story of yesterday and The Banner's editorial. Both have indicated deep interest in it and Mills suggested (for Fulton's benefit, I am sure) that Fulton had been working on such a bill for several weeks. It was not until this morning, however, that Fulton's Washington office told us that Fulton was interested in the measure, prompted, I am certain, by the Banner's editorial of yesterday.

They agreed that a revived RFC, under honest management, was the real hope and the only prospect of doing a job absolutely necessary to protect American business in times like these, just as the predecessor did under Jesse Jones.

I think you are on your way. Good luck!

With every good wish and kindest personal regards, I am

Sincerely yours,

A BIBLE THOUGHT

Let your speech be always with grace, seasoned with salt, that ye may know how ye ought to answer every man.
—Colossians 4:6.

For Federal Helping Hand, The RFC Format Is Best

LOGIC UNQUESTIONABLY attends the suggestion of government figures—administrative and legislative—for substantial lending arrangements to assist business and industrial giants, economic and employment pillars, in financial difficulties not of their own making.

Expressly the proposal stems from the plight of Lockheed Aircraft Corp.—whose case for a Federal loan guarantee is before the Senate Banking Committee; and whose threatened bankruptcy if no such relief is forthcoming would disastrously affect related industries at many points over the nation, including Middle Tennessee.

It is unthinkable that that should be permitted to happen needlessly; and significantly two recommendations presented before the committee yesterday could prevent it. They are not identical, but similar—each hinging on a method of operation that is of proven feasibility:

- Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board has advocated a program for up to $2 billion in loan guarantees to prevent bankruptcy of firms vital to the economy of the nation or a major region.

- Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., suggests practically the same thing, but with up to $5 billion in emergency loan backing.

JUST AS LOGICALLY, they and others are advocating in substance another Reconstruction Finance Corporation—in behalf of which a committee of concerned U.S. businessmen are working, and have been even before the Lockheed problem was revealed in its present proportions. The group is headed by James Gerity, of Miami Beach, Fla., as reported in a story on page one today.

Those of the nation whose minds hark back to the '30s will recall favorably the agency that helped tide hundreds of businesses over the rough times of a world-wide depression. No alphabetical agency was more intelligently and responsibly operated, and none more effectively carried out the mission for which it was created.

The RFC was organized in President Herbert Hoover's administration, expressly to "provide emergency financing facilities for financial institutions, to aid in financing agriculture, commerce and industry." Control over it was in a board of directors of five members appointed by the President with con-

PRESERVATION COPY

The late Charles G. Dawes was its first chairman of the board, succeeded by the late Jesse H. Jones, who had been appointed to the board, and was elevated to the top position by Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The brilliant record of the organization, during its entire lifetime demonstrated the practicality of that arrangement, further assured by the quality of its direction, as personified by Mr. Jones and his associates. He was, as Middle Tennessee knows, a native of Robertson County—an enterprising citizen, newspaper publisher, and business leader of Texas in his later years.

In the first seven years of RFC, the corporation had loaned more than $7.2 billion—an astronomical sum in those days—of which more than $5.2 had been repaid. As a responsible operation in trust, and conceived, not to federalize and nationalize and socialize the economy in all its parts, but to rescue faltering economic units, RFC proved its worth. Then it was officially dissolved.

AS THIS NEWSPAPER has observed, and as most in Washington certainly know, Lockheed is in financial straits and facing bankruptcy—not through mismanagement, but by factors not of its own making. It embarked on the SST program, which was cancelled by order of Congress. It was a victim of the Rolls-Royce crisis in England—and the scope of the economic disaster threatened with its closing would involve Avco Corporation, and other subcontractors to an extent injurious to thousands on those payrolls, and to the whole regional economy.

The Lockheed case assuredly illustrates the need for a reinstituted RFC program, or its equivalent.

Certainly if there is justification for outpouring of billions to assist the destitute—or the jobless, whatever the cause of their unemployment—there is every good reason for a proven method of PREVENTING unemployment, by loans that would help keep these essential industries open.

Most members of Congress will remember the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and its splendid record in doing the job for which it was created. Surely they will not need any extensive campaign of testimony to sell them on it.

ATTENTION, PLEASE

OF INTEREST, SURELY, in this period of political euphoria and diplomatic sportsmanship, is this fact of record: At least until recently, Chinese printing was hieratic and demotic—written from right to left.

A sobering thought: The word then would have been gnop gnip.

To Mills' Revenue Plan

Banner Washington Bureau
Washington — Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., today confronted House Ways and Means committee chairman Wilbur D. Mills and expressed opposition to the Arkansas Democrat's proposal for sharing federal revenues only with hard-pressed urban areas.

The Tennessee lawmaker, principal sponsor of President Nixon's revenue sharing plan, expressed this fear.

"Direct general aid to cities only might further erode the relationship between the cities and the states" and "might discourage new efforts by states to aid their constituent municipalities."

While acknowledging many of the nation's urban areas need relief and should be given "the highest priority," Baker argued it would be a serious mistake to exclude rural and small town America from federal revenue sharing.

He cited statistics showing that 49 per cent of all poor persons live in non-metropolitan areas and that 35 per cent of the urban population lives in cities with populations smaller than 25,000.

The Republican lawmaker also called Mills' attention to 1965 census data revealing that 25 per cent of all rural Americans had incomes below the poverty level, as opposed to 15 per cent of urban Americans.

Baker's defense of the revenue sharing concept was made in testimony before Mills and his Ways and Means Committee, which has been holding public hearings on Nixon's proposal and several others.

Mills, who said he would hold the sessions for the purpose of killing revenue sharing has stumped the country opposing the President's program. He addressed the Tennessee legislature on the subject and is scheduled to return to Nashville Friday to speak to the Exchange Clubs

Effort To Renew RFC Gains National Attention

By CHARLES OVERBY
Chief Political Writer

A movement to re-establish the government's Reconstruction Finance Corporation is gaining national attention, with backers of the plan pushing for Congressional action.

Designed to invigorate the nation's economy, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation was established in 1932 to extend emergency loans to businesses, agricultural interests,

Business executive James Gerity Jr. of Adrian, Mich., and Miami Beach, Fla., is heading an effort to breathe new life into the RFC.

In an interview with THE BANNER, Gerity said high interest rates are stifling America's economy and thwarting personal initiative.

"Banks, insurance companies, manufacturing and other enterprises of all sorts can be saved, because they are sound but all very short of cash," he said.

It is "almost impossible" to run a business successfully when forced to rely on high-interest loans, Gerity stated.

Broad Base

"With our men and boys returning from war again without jobs and with this year's graduates facing a tough job market — some with no relief in sight — this (the RFC) in my opinion would be the answer," the business executive said.

"The government can't do this on a piece-meal basis, though," he said, calling for the approval of a broad financial base — from $3 billion to $5 billion — to give the

Presbyterian Defection Forecast

Massanetta Springs, Va. — A chain reaction of defections from the Southern Presbyterian Church, U.S., was foreseen today by a conservative faction as the result of a controversial plan adopted for reorganization.

It means the "death knell" of the Church as a historic entity, said the Rev. Andrew Jumper of St. Louis, executive vice president of an unofficial lay-clergy group, the Covenant Fellowship of Presbyterians.

He and others predicted the break probably would begin before year's end. However, leaders of the barely predominant progressive forces discounted the likelihood of large-scale withdrawals.

The reorganization plan, designed to strengthen subsidiary units by redrawing their boundaries in line with modern population changes, was authorized Wednesday by

In an anteroom off the Senate floor Wednesday, minutes after the Senate rejected the McGovern-Hatfield amendment to set a final terminal date for American participation in the war, Humphrey talked with reporters about the Pentagon papers.

Times Case Is Weighed By Court

New York (UPI) — A federal court judge today reserved decision on whether to order the New York Times to turn over to the government its copy of a top secret Pentagon report on U. S. involvement in Vietnam.

Michael Hess, chief of the U.S. attorney's civil division, contended that the government expedition but "simply demanding property stolen from the Pentagon."

"We have a right to identify what they took from us," Hess said. "They have admitted they have a number of papers in their possession. We merely ask for an inspection of the documents they hold."

Summary of Papers

Federal Judge Murray I. Gurfein, trying to expedite matters, asked Floyd Abrams, attorney for the Times, if his clients would submit a list of the documents they had with a short summary on each subject. Abrams hesitated and said he could produce such a list but would first have to discuss it with the Times management.

During a three-way discussion between the judge and the opposing lawyers, Hess insisted that the

One immediate result of the Senate action was to increase chances of extended debate against the two-year draft extension, vehicle for the anti-war amendments.

Hatfield said there is "a very good likelihood" of a filibuster against the draft bill itself. Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, who has threatened

Senate Rejects Draft Shortening

Washington (AP) — The bill to extend the draft for two years until June 30, 1973, survived another Senate challenge today.

By a vote of 48 to 35, the Senate rejected an amendment by Sen. James L. Buckley, Con-R-N.Y., to limit extension to 20 months — until March 1, 1973.

The purpose of the amendment was to shorten the period before a possible switch to an all-volunteer force, envisioned by the Nixon administration for mid-1973.

to talk the measure to death, said the vote "merely strengthens" his resolve to do so.

Hatfield and McGovern, sensing their amendment would fail, spent much of Wednesday in behind-the-scenes negotiations with Chiles, who had announced plans for a different substitute proposal, and a group of moderate Republicans who oppose the war but have been reluctant to set a deadline.

"This is running out," Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., of the Armed Services Committee, declared. "It will plague us for decades to come."

But Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said: "We've done our share. It's time to get out."

Another attempt McGovern was discouraged but said he would try again later. He said it was clear the Senate still was basically reluctant to impose its will on the President.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said the votes "bode well" for a proposal he and Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., plan to introduce next week. The Cooper-Church amendment, without setting a deadline, would cut off funds for any military action in Vietnam—except for the withdrawal of U.S. forces—and would bar any further expenditures for combat on behalf of the survival of South Vietnam.

Church said he wants the measure attached to the foreign aid bill so the Senate Foreign Relations Committee can have control when the measure goes to conference with the House.

RFC adequate backing to do its job.

Gerity, 67, is a businessman of national prominence, whose successes include a manufacturing company, newspapers and radio stations.

The Gerity proposal closely mirrors plans suggested in Washington this week, although his is broader in concept.

Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur Burns recommended Wednesday that Congress establish federal loan guarantee machinery as "a protective umbrella" to shelter such ailing firms as Lockheed Aircraft Corp.

Burns recommended to the Senate Banking Committee Wednesday a federally-backed loan guarantee board, with the Secretary of Treasury as chairman and the Secretary of Commerce and chairman of the Federal Reserve Board as members.

Testifying before the Senate panel, Burns said: "My aim is to recommend that your committee, with Lockheed fresh in mind, address itself to the question of devising more general standards and procedures to govern credit guarantees in possible future emergencies."

Under the Burns plan, guarantees of private bank loans up to $2 billion would be made only at the President's recommendation and would be governed by tough restrictions.

Burns testified that guarantees should not be used to protect large firms from failure or to bail out bad management.

A similar proposal by Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., would provide up to $5 billion in emergency loans.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation, created in the final year of President Herbert Hoover's administration, was one of the largest of all federal lending agencies.

In its operations from 1932 to 1957, the RFC disbursed more than 140 billion and guaranteed many billions more in loans made by private financial institutions.

Organized during a severe economic depression, the RFC passed through periods of recovery, preparedness, war, reconversion, economic expansion and prosperity, playing a vital role in all those periods.

You may be interested in the enclosed.

If you want Mr. Hunt on your team, I am sure it could be arranged ... but as you say, he may be a bigger minus than plus.

On the other hand maybe over his radio station "Lifeline" he can give a plug that would mean a lot at the right time.

Too, I shall call you about another very important person ... we must do everything we can.

Mrs. Jeane Dixon
1144 18th. St., N. W.
Washington, D. C.

Dear Jeane:

It may be highly advisable to locate strong freedom supporters throughout the Republic who would loosely organize in a movement designed to overcome the Soviets' military superiority. The Soviets have already passed the United States in submarines and are thought to be outbuilding the U.S. in military equipment to a degree that many consider very dangerous. Should the U.S. engage in any war there are few, if any, nations which would become an ally to the U.S.

China might give the Soviets trouble if the U.S. diplomats encouraged the Soviets and China to contest the Communist leadership in the world.

It is not likely that the Democrats would nominate and elect any President who would lead the U.S. to victory in war. The Rockefellers, Fords and some Protestant church groups may already be reading themselves out of the Republican Party race for the Republican presidential nomination. Some nominees if elected might be mistrusted as to friendliness to the U.S. Constitution. Gov. George Wallace may insist on the starting of a third party which he can finance and lead into the presidency. Wilbur Mills, Chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, might be the best prospect for a Republican presidential nominee if he can be persuaded at the proper time to give up his Chairmanship and become available for the Republican nomination for president. He is already considered by many business leaders to be the best Republican in Washington, D.C.

There are enough members of Congress who have an ACA rating of 40 or more that if encouraged to join the Freedomist wing of the Republican Party that wing could no doubt gain control of one or both Houses of Congress, thereby providing freedom-loving Republicans with a voice to replace President Nixon as the official spokesman for the Republican Party.

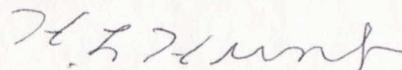

Republicans are becoming recognized as a little bit better officials than Democrats. The Democrat states seceded in 1861 and the Republicans saved the Union in the War Between the States. Republicans have favored a protective tariff and Democrats have been for free trade. Republican Presidents have been more successful in keeping us out of war and in maintaining our economy.

There are governors of states who could become prominent in helping the Republican Freedomist wing of the Republican Party gain a majority in either or both Houses of Congress.

Some political, business and religious leaders could be successfully organized by telephone and letter to quietly arrange to save our Republic. The purpose of this letter is to invite you to accept this invitation to join this movement. There should be one member of this movement in each state and three or more in the states with large populations. If you wish others to receive an invitation, please send me their names and addresses so an invitation may be extended to join this movement. Members of the movement may wish to choose a national leader. When they do, I shall be glad to follow the leader who is chosen and under him pursue the course now under way.

With best wishes,

Constructively,

A MESSAGE FOR PATRIOTS:

What this nation needs today to get out of the fiscal quicksand is more undiluted constitutional leadership.

It is obvious that most of this type of leadership rests within the Republican Party. At least, the records and traditions of Republicanism provide the sound foundations for those who would give constitutional leadership as opposed to centralized government and socialism.

Republicans devoted themselves to the preservation of the constitutional union of states under Lincoln, the first Republican President. They have consistently advocated a protective tariff as opposed to free trade, in order to build and maintain what has become the highest standard of living on the face of the earth. This policy has been directed toward the simple goal of protecting American business, industry, labor, and welfare from destruction by foreign imports usually provided by slave labor.

The Republican Party has also consistently favored utilizing the private sector through free enterprise and the capitalistic system to provide jobs for people and keep government payrolls, welfare rolls, and taxes at a minimum.

Last Sunday on the NBC Meet the Press program, Representative Wilbur Mills of Arkansas, Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee of the House said this was what he favors. He implied that the government could not continue to load the burden of a welfare state and reckless spending on the taxpayers and workers of this country without eventually running out of both. This is a gospel that Americans are beginning to understand. They should understand also that Representative Mills is its greatest living advocate. He is the only man on the scene today who has demonstrated that he has the qualifications to be the next president of the United States.

There is an interesting irony involving Wilbur Mills and President Nixon. The President has abandoned Republican traditions. He has compromised his party's principles toward his goal of attracting voters from the new Left to offset the conservative and constructive voters he has alienated in the first half of his first term. He has reneged on every sound promise he made during his campaign.

In short, Nixon is a Democrat in Republican attire, while Wilbur Mills is a life long Democrat devoted to traditional Republican principles. He so expressed himself on the television last Sunday. This is consistent with his expressions of the past. Mills is probably the most learned student of American government on the political scene today.

Republicans and others who prefer constitutional government should do their utmost to assure the nomination of Mills on the Republican ticket in 1971. This would be a scandal to Nixon-Rockefeller-Javits type of Republicans and might chase them into the Democratic Party where they belong. It could also attract the Allens, McClellans, and Byrds to the Republican Party where they belong.

Wilbur Mills can never be nominated by the strong Left-wing majority which controls his own party, but he is actually what the Republican Party needs. The Republican Party is also what Wilbur Mills needs in order to be politically comfortable.

And both are what the nation needs.

Signal's Mack Trucks, Soviets Continue Pact To Build Truck Plant

Deadline for Federal Clearance Passed Friday, but Both Sides Pursue Plans for Russian Unit

A WALL STREET JOURNAL News Roundup

Mack Trucks Inc. and the Soviet Union indicated they will pursue plans for a massive truck factory in Russia, despite a deadline that has already expired.

The preliminary agreement reached by the Russians and Mack, a Signal Cos. subsidiary, was conditioned on U.S. government approval by last Friday, and the Commerce Department has yet to act.

In Moscow, however, according to the Associated Press, a Soviet spokesman said the Russians are still interested in building the plant and aren't in any hurry to invoke the escape clause.

"We are awaiting the final commercial offering from Mack, and upon receiving it, will consider it," asserted a spokesman for Autoimport, the Russian auto import organization. "We will intend to sign such an agreement."

In Los Angeles, Mack's president, Zenon C. R. Hansen, said he was "delighted" with the continuing Soviet interest. Mr. Hansen said Mack didn't intend to invoke the deadline either. The company will "consider a request for an extension of the date, if it is necessary," he declared.

Signal Cos.' board is expected to formally consider the proposed Russian plant at a meeting set for today.

The plan envisions a facility on the Kama River in Russia that would be capable of producing 150,000 trucks a year, the largest such facility in the world. If built in the West, it would cost about $1.4 billion.

Mack would be both contractor and consultant.

Against Deal

We read that a truck company is considering selling machinery and providing technical assistance to help the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics build an immense heavy truck factory. I sincerely hope this deal never pans out.

I would not even sell these crumbs one screwdriver. Suppose you do. You make screwdrivers and sell them to the crumbs. A leaky radiator on a Russian truck on the Ho Chi Minh trail has its clamp tightened with one of these screwdrivers. It is carrying a load of 122 rockets. One of the rockets is fired into an American outpost and hits a bunker. Inside of the bunker the only son of the brother of the president of the screwdriver company is killed. This man has helped to murder the only son of his own brother.

Far-fetched? Oh no. Change the screwdriver to a truck. A truck used to haul rockets to kill Americans in a battle for control of Europe. Made in a factory constructed by Americans, with methods developed by a company capitalized with savings from Americans and made on machinery manufactured by Americans with technical training by Americans educated in colleges subsidized privately and publicly by American citizens and taxpayers.

Say there, whose side are we on anyway?

Signal Cos. to Decide On Bid for Extension Of Soviet Plant Accord

Deadline for Federal Agreement To Mack Trucks Contract to Build Facility Passed Friday

A WALL STREET JOURNAL NEWS Roundup

Signal Cos. said it will decide tomorrow whether to push for an extension of a preliminary agreement to help build the world's largest truck plant in the Soviet Union.

The tentative accord between the Russians and Mack Trucks Inc., a Signal subsidiary, was conditioned on U.S. government approval by last Friday. That deadline passed without Commerce Department action.

An agency spokesman in Washington said he didn't know when a decision would be reached. But he did add: "The company will find it in its interest to get an extension of its agreement deadline."

A Nixon administration official had said earlier "there is a pretty good chance" that the necessary export licenses would be approved.

Forrest Shumway, Signal's president, said in Los Angeles that, "as far as we know, there isn't any reason for us to pull out." Signal directors, he said, will consider the tentative accord with the Russians at a board meeting tomorrow. "We haven't heard that they (the Russians) want to pull out," he said.

Zenon C. R. Hansen, Mack's president, said the company will "have to find out what the Russians' attitude is" before pressing the plans and that it may be tomorrow or Wednesday before he gets word from them.

According to James Giffen, the president of Satra Consultant Corp. and an intermediary in the agreement, the plans call for construction of a plant about 800 miles southeast of Moscow that would be capable of 150,000 trucks a year. That would be almost 50% more than the largest existing facility in the world.

If built in the U.S., Mr. Giffen said, the plant would cost about $1.4 billion. Mack's share as contractor and consultant would cover some $700 million of the job.

To The Editor

Dear Sir:

An issue most crucial to the life of Republic USA is the plan of Mack Trucks, Inc., to build the world's largest truck manufacturing plant in Russia. The people should make it clear to that company and the Nixon Administration that such a deal will not be tolerated. Mack Trucks should not wish to make profits from a deal which, ultimately, may mean the end of this Republic and the death of Freedom. The Russians are outbuilding us 3 to 1 in nuclear submarines; now we propose to cure another Red weakness. These trucks will be used to transport munitions to kill freedom-loving people who dare to stand up against communist subversion and aggression and, worse, to kill U.S. fighting men. Communists have not changed their announced goal of burying us. This $700 million truck plant would allow the use of capitalist industry and capitalist know-how to destroy all non-communist institutions and our Republic.

The enclosed letter from our friend in Texas sounds most encouraging and I thought you would like to see it.

Any names you can give me to pass on to him will certainly be appreciated ... and of course, held in confidence!

Perhaps there is no need to tell you this, but the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, the Chicago Tribune, and the Chicago Sun-Times seem to be leaning a little toward Wilbur Mills and his views. I know Mr. Mills quite well-- is there anything I can do?

Bless you!

Dear Miss Van Deventer,

Thank you for the nice front-page write-up you gave on my recent visit to Stillwater. I appreciate it!

About the enclosed xerox copy of another article by you asking -- and I quote: "Does Jeane Dixon influence President Nixon?" -- this seems rather a far-fetched conclusion to be based on a coincidence of phrasing ... and all I can be really sure of is that, for both of us, the phrase is straight from our hearts!

That's the kind of man our President is.

Bless you,

Jeane Dixon

Dixon And Nixon Both All 'American'

By MICKI VAN DEVENTER
News-Press Women's Editor

Does Jeane Dixon influence
President Richard Nixon?

It seems possible.

A phrase used by both of them at least indicates they are thinking along the same channel.

Mrs. Dixon in her Friday night address to a Stillwater audience discussed her personal party politics and noted she was no longer Democrat or Republican.

"I'm All-American now," she stated.

President Nixon, in a spirited mood Saturday as he came to Tulsa to dedicate the McClellan-
Kerr Arkansas River Waterway, also echoed the same phrase "I'm all American now".

Mrs. Dixon is a devoted admirer of President Nixon's and once predicted his rise to the top rung of America's political ladder when he was just a newcomer to Washington.

In Mrs. Dixon's Friday night address, sponsored by the Altrusa Club of Stillwater, she inferred that Nixon's rise to the presidency was "ordained by God".

Her reference to the "All American phrase" came after a number of pleas to her audience to take steps to unify America.
She noted that the two party system really works against itself, with the Democrats working against the Republicans and vice versa.

Dear Mr. President:

Enclosed is a document regarding child care problems in the United States from the Professor of Pediatrics at Georgetown University, Dr. Philip L. Calcagno, with suggested approaches to solutions.

Dr. Calcagno is one of the medical advisors for Children to Children's Medical Center for Pre-natal Research (referred to in his paper as the "Jeane Dixon International Health Institute"), and would like to present his ideas to you.

It would appear that the problem of caring for our children is much larger than previously considered and goes beyond health, education and welfare.

Dr. Calcagno's concept of a cabinet post in the United States Government is interesting, and my feeling is it makes a great deal of sense. It certainly could help unify many of the fragmented forces bearing on children and youth. A step in this direction could afford a better opportunity not only for the children of the United States but for other countries as well.

You may already know that I am giving my all to this program which, as doctors agree, is long, long overdue.

Too, I believe that the work to be done in our proposed Pre-natal Research Center over the years will bring a greater understanding to the people of the world, and hopefully, a unity of oneness in concern for the problems of all children -- both the living and the unborn.

Though it may take many more youthful tragedies before this dream of ours can become reality -- because our youth will elicit from us now either our best or our worst -- we turn to you as a leader of both vision and practicality, for encouragement and help in our broad endeavor.

It is still being kept quiet by our Board and has not yet been publicly announced, but we do expect very shortly to accept a gift of ground for our Medical Center in Houston which has been offered by Mrs. Reynolds of the King Ranch Kleberg family. I know you will help us keep this information confidential.

Preference has been given to Houston for our site because there the enthusiasm of officials and citizens alike has been contagious, and the University of Texas Medical School in Houston has also offered both ground for our building and supportive medical and technical assistance. (See enclosed copy of Dean Smythe's letter of August 4th.)

We expect to be working closely with them, along with all other research centers in the world interested in this particular medical aspect of child life, and would hope also to have the interest and cooperation of the National Institute of Health.

Respectfully,

Dear Mr. President:

In your message to Congress on February 19, 1969 you called for "a national commitment to provide all American children an opportunity for healthful and stimulating development.... and no such commitment has ever before been asked in our nation; no such pledge has ever been given".

The relevant facts show;

1. Our nation's infant mortality rate lags behind some 12 other major nations, less than 20 per 1,000 live births. The rate for the black population is significantly higher.
2. The premature rate - births under 2500 grams - has shown a distinct increase from 1955 - 1965, 6.9 % to 7.2%. The premature rate in the black population also shows a rise from 11.8% to 13.8%.
3. Mental retardation was prevalent in over 110,000 births during 1968. In selected communities the 3% per 1000 live births arrived at by the President's Panel on Mental Health is far short of its mark for the population. In a Maryland county study the total prevalence of mental retardation of children up to 19 years of age was found to be 7.2%.
4. Statistical data may be confusing since multiple defects are present in some children, nonetheless it has been estimated that close to 350,000 of 3.47 million children born in this country in 1968 showed a significant congenital handicap.

5. The central core of American life has been disrupted in certain sectors of our country by noting: the extraordinary increase in juvenile delinquency and in illegitimate births.
6. Poverty, as a significant phenomenon, has an impact on premature births, infant mortality, lack of adequate medical care, and a higher prevalence of mental retardation. It has been reported " that over one-fourth of the nation's children..... and one of every three children under six years of age ...were living in homes where the income was insufficient to meet the cost of procuring many of the essentials of life." Poverty is not limited to the non-white population; 21 million white people and 10 million black people are said to live in poverty. The impact of poverty on children can hardly be assessed, e. g.; on the way of life, on nutrition, on cultural environment, on housing, on health services, on illness, and on social community behavior.
7. Infants and children are special people. The vitamin-mineral regulations proposed by government regulators in their original statement for infant feeding was a calcium and phosphorus ratio of 700 milligrams each, this ratio is recognized scientifically as being unsound.
8. Each year some 1.5 million young high school students enter the job market. What special provisions are available for this body?

In 1968-1969 the national health programs show approximately $1.0 billion available for food programs and Maternal and Child health care which does not meet half of the proposed and estimated need of the children. Expenditures for research on the problem of Maternal and Child health and on diseases of childhood show, at best, approximately $150 million spent annually on research related to problems of children. In 1969 the annual budget of the National Institutes of Health was approximately $1.2 billion and the total federal bill for health research was $1.5 billion. It should be clear that the child population, representing 30% of the total population, receives an inappropriately small share.

Although a direct research approach to child health may be relatively expensive in dollar outlay in bringing about a desired result that so far has eluded us, it may in fact represent the most economical investment of fiscal resources. It is for this reason a group of physicians whose interests lie in the developing fetus have chosen to identify and work toward their solutions, the key issues in infant mortality and congenital handicaps of the maturing human fetus and born infant. The " Jeane Dixon International Health Institute " is dedicated to explore what can be done to determine causes and prevention of those processes allowing for the crippling 10% of the national births per annum. Research on the biochemical development of the fetus, organogenesis, amniotic fluid are urgently needed. It is our intent to adopt the research model of "The Manhattan Project " to concise problems of the developing fetus, a most critical phase of human life.

The health problems of children in the United States are related to social and economic factors. This being true, the answer to the improving of child health must, in some way, include these areas as well as health and education. Those elements needed to improve health would be: additional health facilities and personnel, additional research facilities and personnel, improved educational concepts allowing for career education and job qualification on completion of high school, improved transportation, improved sanitary housing, establishment of a main core family unit in those cultures of our American heritage allowing for such stability, improved social adaptation and improved job opportunities, particularly for the 18 to 21 year old group.

What can be done to improve the health of children - " Our most important national product " . Policies for utilization and preservation of natural resources have been established for wildlife, minerals, trees, parks, waterfronts, highways and even city development. Why not save our children?

It is difficult to establish a national policy for children without assigning single major priorities. Many groups studying child health problems have endorsed a National Council for Maternal and Child Health. This council could be charged with the primary and urgent mission of establishing a national policy for maternal and child health.

Alternatively, a cabinet post could be established for children and youth to coordinate health policy decisions among the various agencies and help establish national priorities for children.

I leave you, in your wisdom, to decide whether or not this proposal is of any importance to you and to choose a course of action.

Sincerely yours,

Philip L. Calcagno.

Dear Mrs. Dixon:

Your ideas for the Children to Children Foundation and for its developing an institution in Houston devoted to the prevention and treatment of prenatally conditioned disorders in children are very persuasive. The University of Texas Medical School at Houston is proud of your interest in allying your concepts and the resources to be mobilized by them with the School and its affiliated institutions. Such an alliance could prove mutually beneficial. This letter is not the place to explore in detail the assets each of the many interested parties can contribute to strengthen your concept. As you know, our strengths are technological and operational and our stability and backing those of a great university. I believe we appreciate yours.

We have already made and are continuing to make decisions and commitments relative to pediatrics and genetics. A tie with the Children to Children Foundation could have great impact on these plans and, therefore, the timing of any potential agreements is of more than casual importance.

Of course, before the Medical School or University can make any publicly acknowledgeable commitment, we must get down to details of wants, needs, plans and resources. When your Board, advisors and staff are ready, we would be privileged to meet with you again.

Dear Jeane:

Please advise us as to the earliest possible date for an appointment with you at the Mayflower Hotel on a Monday morning. We have just heard from Dr. Grant Taylor (of the Univ. of Texas Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences at Houston) that some very desirable acreage here in Houston has been offered for your use in building your Medical Center. Dr. Taylor, along with Mr. Dan Kadrovach, Director of Hermann Hospital and the Hermann Foundation, and Dean Smythe of the new university would like to fly to Washington and present you with the details. They would be staying at the Mayflower Hotel and could meet you in the coffee room as is your custom in meeting out-of-town visitors. It might be well to give two dates for flexibility.

We are looking forward to hearing from you soon and hope this meeting will represent the next "rung on the ladder" in our progress towards a realization of our mutual goals.

Our best regards,

Dear Mr. President,

Truly I hope there is no need for me to tell you again of my deep personal dedication to you, your work, and your leadership of our blessed country!

Indeed with each passing day I am more firmly convinced that you have been chosen President of the United States at the precise right time in history ... and that in your hands alone now lies the destiny of millions of peace-loving peoples, not only in our land, but in others as well.

Therefore it seems imperative to make known to you without delay what has come to me about Hungary, its people, and their unhappy relationship with the U.S.S.R. -- as well as our own unresolved problems with the Russian leaders.

RN

All this is preface. The fact is that the symbolic Crown of St. Stephen, which I have reason to believe is now in the hands of our own State Department, can, if used properly, be a vital tool in negotiating with the U.S.S.R. for release of our war prisoners!

For that reason I urge you to get this Crown into your own hands and personal possession without a moment's hesitation! Do not write a memorandum asking for its release ... that would take too long. Rather, upon reading this message, send a trusted messenger for it immediately, Mr. President!

Then keep it yourself!

I cannot emphasize how crucial it is that you obtain the St. Stephen's Crown at once, and keep it safely in your own hands, not revealing to anyone where it is.

Once you have possession of the Crown, do not release it to anyone under any circumstances until such time as you have an agreement with the U.S.S.R. to release ALL our prisoners of war!

Until that time, you must keep it under your own personal control, and negotiate yourself (not through any ambassadors or emissaries), preferably with Mr. Suslov, and NOT with Mr. Kosygin or Mr. Breslov.

This Crown can be a valuable lever in peace negotiations with the U.S.S.R. Once it has played its vital role in our negotiations for the release of our prisoners of war it can be returned, hopefully, by the U.S.S.R. to the people of Hungary who traditionally believe that if the Crown of St. Stephen is safe, then Hungary is also safe!

Armed with both this knowledge and the Crown, the Russian leaders may more easily pacify the Hungarians, and by returning it to them, live with them in peaceful co-existence without the constant unrest and threats they now have.

If you would like to know more about the history of St. Stephen's Crown, and why it is so important and meaningful to the Hungarian people, enclosed is a xerox copy of an article about it.

Once you have successfully negotiated for the release of our prisoners of war -- as I firmly believe you can through using the Crown -- the whole-hearted gratitude of the American people will be yours ... and your re-election will be assured!

Let me reiterate that speed of action is essential ... send someone trusted and loyal to pick it up from the State Department and bring it to you immediately!

I pray with all my heart that you heed these words, Mr. President!

Bless you!

Respectfully,

The President

JEANE DIXON

Dear Rose Mary,

In my haste this morning, the enclosed was inadvertently omitted from my letter. I apologize!

Jeane

op of the head. A single band arched from the front to the back of the crown appears on the crown of Charlemagne, and a single band arching across the head from side to side is on the crown of the prince of Wales. The most frequent type is that with two bands of metal intersecting in the center beneath an orb, which is a sphere surmounted by a cross, the combination symbolizing Christian sovereignty. The velvet cap lining many crowns does not make them closed crowns.

Pre-Christian Era.—Although the 21st Psalm says "thou settest a crown of pure gold on his head," not all crowns were of metal. The material used for the crowns of ancient Egypt is unknown. The open, Red crown of the lower Nile and the closed, White crown of the upper (southern and upstream) Nile were combined into a single crown about 3200 B.C. when the two kingdoms were united. (Fig. 1).

A bronze coronet which in significance if not in form can properly be called a crown has survived from the Bronze Age, about 1000 B.C. Found in the Hohenzollern Province in the Black Forest region of Germany, and now in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, it is one of the oldest crowns in existence (Fig. 2).

In the Mycenaean and Greek civilizations the gods and goddesses were represented wearing crowns, open crowns. The Greeks bestowed wreaths of leaves or garlands of flowers on those they wished to honor. The makers and sellers of garlands formed a distinct trade. Wreaths were worn by dinner guests (to ward off drunkenness), by the bride and bridegroom, and, at funerals, by the corpse. The winner at the Olympic games received a wreath of wild olive. Crowns of leaves, whether for military, naval or civil honors were governed by law. When Athens substituted crowns of gold leaves for the olive garland the city bestowed them more freely than before, showing that while the cost increased the symbolic value decreased. The provinces gave golden crowns to victorious generals and many were bestowed on Alexander after he defeated Darius. The tiara of Saitabarnès, a conical, caplike crown of metal has mythological scenes in low relief. It was believed to be a Greek work of the 3d century B.C. until it was exposed as the forgery of a late 19th century Russian goldsmith.

The Romans gave gold crowns with designs of turreted walls or prows of ships for military or naval exploits. They carried the crowns of emperors or victorious generals in front of them in processions, but not even the emperors wore them. The highest honor was the corona obsidionalis, originally made of grass plucked on the site and given to the leader who saved a besieged garrison.

Ancient and Medieval.—Byzantine emperors wore either a closed crown or a high pyramidal cap of silk almost covered by pearls and jewels in imitation of the tiara worn by Persian kings. This type with one or two, and later, three bands representing crowns around it became the tiara worn by the popes.

Recessvinto, the 7th century Visigothic king, and members of his family are believed to have given the eight gold crowns dug up near Toledo, Spain, in 1858, to some church. These circular crowns hung by chains from their upper rims are votive crowns. The largest has separate gold letters, enameled red, suspended by chains from the lower edge which form the words, Recessvintus Rex Offeret. These treasures were purchased by the Cluny Museum in Paris, but during World War II the crown of Recessvinto was given to Spain as a gesture of friendship by the Vichy régime of France.

The Iron Crown of Lombardy received its name from the narrow band of iron on the inside which was long believed to have been made of nails from the True Cross. The six rectangular gold plates on the outside are decorated with repoussé flowerets and with corner designs in blue, white, and translucent green enamels. It is set with cabochon rubies, amethysts, and sapphires. Only six inches in diameter and perfectly round, this is probably a votive crown, possibly Italian work of the 9th century. It was kept in the cathedral at Monza, near Milan, Italy. Napoleon had it carried in a great procession to Milan where he used it when he was crowned king of Italy in 1805. (Fig. 3).

In the Middle Ages there may have been a real crown of iron at Monza. Some emperors of the Holy Roman Empire had three separate coronations: with a silver crown at Aix-la-Chapelle, with an iron crown at Monza, and with a gold crown at Rome. An iron crown was used in the "lay" coronation of Louis the Bavarian in 1328, and later for Charles IV at Monza, and for Charles V at Bologna.

Charlemagne's crown is more properly called the Old German Imperial crown, or the Golden crown, as it was probably made about two hundred years after Charlemagne. It consists of eight gold plaques, semicircular at the top, which are attached to thin iron bands riveted together on the inside. It is octagonal in shape. Four plates with cabochon emeralds and sapphires in flagree settings alternate with plates with designs in enamel. A cross rises above the largest, central section. A single arch springs from behind the cross to the back of the crown. According to an inscription in pearls on the vertical sides of the arch this was added by the German ruler, Conrad III, in the 12th century. The enameled plaques have Latin inscriptions to explain the designs. They represent the Almighty ("Through me kings reign"); Isaiah telling the sick king, Hezekiah, that he will recover and live fifteen more years; David ("The king's strength also loveth judgment"); and Solomon ("fear the Lord and depart from evil"). These figures and inscriptions show the religious significance of crowns in the Christian countries. (Fig. 4).

St. Stephen's crown is venerated in Hungary where during nine hundred years it was used in the coronation of more than fifty kings. No ceremony was considered constitutional without it. Hungarians believe that as long as the crown is safe, Hungary is safe. It is actually two crowns combined to form one. The upper part consisting of two broad straplike arches is what remains of the Latin crown given by Pope Sylvester II to King Stephen about the year 1001 while the lower part, the circlet, is the Greek crown, and was made about seventy-five years later. Both parts are decorated in cloisonné enamel and are made of gold. At the very top is a plaque with a representation of Christ, pierced to fasten a cross, now askew, at the summit of the crown. On each of the four straps forming the arches are two apostles, the other four were undoubtedly there, but were lost when the lower part of the crown was broken or cut away. When this was made enameling was in its early stages in Italy, and so each of the apostles appears squint-eyed. The lower crown, possibly made in the royal workshops of the Byzantine emperors is only a little later, but the enameling art was more highly developed there. Set between massive jewels, the plaques represent Christ, suitably placed above the circlet in the center front, and below, on either side, the archangels Gabriel and Matthew, beyond them the "warrior saints" Demetrius and George, then the saints Damian and Cosmos, each with his name in blue enamel. Three plaques on the back, inscribed in red, the color of royal signatures in the Byzantine empire, portray the emperor, Michael Dukas VII, with his relative, Constantine, at one side, and Duke Géza I of Hungary at the other. This lower part is known as Michael Dukas's crown because he gave it to Duke Géza. Thus the lower crown symbolized the support the Byzantine emperor gave to a king of Hungary, and the upper crown carried the approval of the pope to an earlier king, St. Stephen. The two crowns were probably combined by King Béla III of Hungary toward the end of the 12th century. Characteristic of Eastern crowns are the short chains, each ending in a trefoil set with polished jewels, which hang from the lower rim, one in back and two at each side.

Hungarian law prohibited the removal of the regalia from the chest in which it was kept, except for coronations, without the consent of the king and Parliament. On the 900th anniversary of St. Stephen's death, in 1938, it was first publicly displayed and scholars had an opportunity to study it closely.

In 1945 the chest in which the regalia had been carefully guarded was delivered by a Hungarian colonel and an escort of twelve soldiers to the United States Seventh Army at Augsburg. When finally opened the crown, scepter, and orb were missing. The colonel admitted he had buried them according to instructions. The next day he had a mud-covered gasoline drum brought from its secret hiding place. When chiseled open, the missing articles were lifted out of three deteriorating leather boxes. When the crown, scepter and orb had been washed and thoroughly dried they were replaced in their rightful box. Later the box was opened and the contents displayed in the presence of army officers and representatives of the press. The box was then locked and sealed with sealing wax bearing the impressions of the dog tags of the Property Control officer. It was taken to Wiesbaden to await its return to Hungary. After 1945 the whereabouts of St. Stephen's crown was kept secret by the Western powers in order to ensure its safety. (Fig. 5.)

The German Imperial crown also dates from the 11th century. It is formed of eight plaques, semicircular at the top, decorated alternately with a cross in jewels and a heraldic eagle in enamels. The two arches rise to meet under an orb. (Fig. 6.)

Constantine Monomachus and the Empresses Zoë and Theodora are identified from the names accompanying their portraits on seven gold plates decorated in cloisonné enamel. Some archaeologists believe that these, with an eighth plaque now missing, formed a similar crown of the 11th century. Consequently these plaques, kept in the museum in Pest, are sometimes called the crown of Constantine Monomachus.

The crown of Philip II in the cathedral of Namur shows a type worn in the 12th century. Two medieval English crowns are preserved on the Continent. The silver-gilt crown used at the coronation of Richard, brother of Henry III, as king of the Romans in the 13th century, is on the Charlemagne reliquary at Aachen. The other is the bridal coronet worn by Margaret Plantagenet, sister of Edward IV, at her marriage to Charles the Bold, Duke of Burgundy. It has her name inscribed around it: Margarita de York.

The crown of Bohemia was used at the coronation of Charles IV in 1347. (Fig. 7.)

The Turkish Vassal crown originally belonged to King Ladislas II of Hungary, and is probably of early Muscovite or Polish workmanship. In 1526 the Turks captured it, hence its name. In 1605 Sultan Ahmed I sent it to István Bocskay, prince of Transylvania, who later gave it to King Matthias. This crown, preserved in Vienna, has a wooden frame covered with silver-gilt plates. It is decorated in niello and set with pearls and precious stones and has an emerald at the top. (Fig. 8.)

Modern Crowns.—Persian.—A Persian crown of the 17th century is described by Sir John Chardin in his book of travels (1686) as a flat bonnet made of cloth-of-gold with a chimneylike projection sewed onto the top. It was covered with an "embroidery of diamonds" and featherlike ornaments on the rim were set with diamonds, rubies, emeralds, and topazes.

Austrian.—The Austrian Imperial crown, inscribed with the date 1602, is of pure gold set with diamonds. The circlet is banded top and bottom with pearls, the upper rim bears four large fleurs-de-lis alternating with four smaller ones, all set with rubies and pearls. Rising from each side to form a cap is a triangular metal plate with scenes in low relief of the coronation ceremony. These are framed with wide enameled

Letters to the Editor

Cardinal's Departure

SIR: The Star editorial written on the occasion of Cardinal Mindszenty's journey to Rome concludes that President Nixon, now that the cardinal is out of the U.S. embassy in Budapest, might consider whether the time is appropriate to return to Hungary its greatest national treasure, the Crown of St. Stephen.

The suggestion of your editorial indicates to me that you suppose that the papal order and the cardinal's obedience of that order changed the relation between the Hungarian people and their government. I would like to call a few facts to your attention:

1. The cardinal's removal from Hungarian soil did not result in the removal of Russian occupation forces from Hungary.

2. The papal order, "the heaviest cross in the cardinal's life," did not nullify the 16 U.S. resolutions, condemning the Hungarian government, put in power by Soviet tanks, for the continuous denial of the basic human rights to the people of Hungary.

3. The Pope could not restore Hungarian constitutionality — not even freedom of choice in appointing his own bishops in the country.

4. The Hungarian government did not fulfill even one of the three basic demands of the Hungarian people expressed during the 1956 revolution, namely the withdrawal of Soviet troops, the declaration of neutrality and the establishment of a constitutional government through free elections, with the participation of multiple parties representing multiple political and economic philosophies and interests.

After the establishment of these facts, even you must come to the same conclusion as did Congressman Hogan and 24 other U.S. lawmakers who on July 30 of this year introduced House Concurrent Resolution 385, stating "that the Holy Crown (the symbol of Hungarian sovereignty and constitutionality) of St. Stephen should remain in the safekeeping of the United States government until Hungary once again functions as a constitutional government established by the Hungarian people through free choice."

SIR, The last paragraph on your otherwise excellent editorial on Cardinal Mindszenty was certainly anticlimatic. Too bad you failed to close with the previous one in which you say: "All honor is due to the man who suffered so much for his church and his people. But . . . the time has come for both Hungary and the Vatican to look to the future rather than the past." In the light of such sentiments it is astonishing to read your suggestion to President Nixon that the time is "appropriate to return to Hungary its greatest national treasure, the Crown of St. Stephen, given to that nation's first Christian monarch in the year 1000 by Pope Sylvester II."

It is true, of course, that the crown was once Hungary's "greatest national treasure," but not for any intrinsic value. It could easily be duplicated for a very nominal sum. The Kadar government wants it back to destroy its meaning because it symbolizes Hungary as a Christian nation and represents undying hope to its oppressed people. There is really something obscene in the suggestion that its return might "provide a suitable occasion" for "an amnesty for the remaining 1956 political prisoners."

You seem to imply that it was by accident that the crown "fell into American hands in the closing days of World War II." Such definitely was not the case. It was turned over to the Americans by the spiritual predecessors of the '56 freedom fighters. Those men considered the United States the champion of all freedom-loving peoples. They were sure the symbol of their hopes would be safe with us. To turn it over to a Communist government would be an unconscionable betrayal of trust.

If the Crown of St. Stephen is the same kind of embarrassment to the U.S.A. as Mindszenty became, the problem has exactly the same solution. Send it back to the Pope where it came from in the first place. Then when freedom returns to Hungary the successor of Sylvester II can return it.

SIR: If President Nixon follows the advice of the Star and "consider(s) whether the time is not appropriate to return to Hungary its greatest national treasure, the Crown of St. Stephen, given to that nation's first Christian monarch in the year 1000 by Pope Sylvester II," the conclusion he must reach is clear. To deliver this Christian relic into the hands of an atheistic tyranny which persecutes the Christian people of Hungary would be an act of callous betrayal and an affront to all Christians.

The United States must hold this Crown of St. Stephen until the sceptre of Hungary is once again restored to a Christian leader who can rule in the tradition of St. Stephen. Then, and not until then, will the Hungarian people rejoice in the return of the crown to Hungary.

SIR: We should not rejoice too much at Cardinal Mindszenty's coming out of imprisonment (that was entirely voluntary), although we should rejoice in the mere fact that this our brother "was lost and is found, was dead, and is alive," in the words of the parable. Yet he himself has said this agreement ending his voluntary confinement would no doubt be "my heaviest cross to bear."

Without a doubt this can be taken to mean that in addition to agreeing never to return to Hungary, he also had to agree to a complete ban on speaking and writing about present and past conditions in Hungary.

This in my mind renders the concession represented by the freeing of Josef Cardinal Mindszenty rather minimal from the Western point of view. The only thing gained has been a physical release from a condition of deprivation that all along we have known was entirely self-imposed.

Nonetheless, I am glad to see Cardinal Mindszenty technically a free man. But bear in mind that this freedom is indeed entirely technical. Also, we have removed a significant symbol of resistance to the habitual brutality of Communist regimes, for nothing in return.

Cutbacks in USO

SIR: I was dismayed at the recent article about cutting down the services of the USO in this militarily-oriented Washington area. Even though the numbers attending have decreased (and this is inevitable at this time and in this society) for those members of our armed forces who do take advantage of this friendly, understanding place of relaxation — no matter how few or how young — it is more important than ever that the citizens of this nation provide at least one comfortable, safe place where the serviceman is welcome, where things are free, where the atmosphere is on the up-and-up and which is available whenever a serviceman needs and wants it.

How very sad that the USO lounge in Union Station, which was a haven and place of rest and refreshment to so many thousands of servicemen around the clock since World War II, was closed recently! How many soldiers over the years knew they could always fall back on this spot any time of day or night, to wait for transportation, to sleep overnight in an emergency, to check heavy luggage free of charge while touring their capitol.

True, we have a different kind of soldier today, but he is still somebody's son or husband, away from home in the uniform of our country. And perhaps I am old-fashioned, but you can't convince me that the majority of us do not continue to love our country. Shouldn't those who are assigned to defend it for the rest of us, whether by choice or by draft, have their own place (home away from home, if you will) where they are always loved and welcomed?

Shame on those responsible for cutting funds or neglecting to provide a suitable location.

PERSONAL AND CONFIDENTIAL

Dear Jeane:

I greatly appreciated the letters you delivered to Marje Atker.

With regard to the letter which you had written in September and then held for our return following my stay in the hospital, Mrs. Ghandi is coming here for an official visit early in November. I hope that the attitude related in the letter from Mrs. Birla will be changed by that visit.

Keep up your prayers -- we have a great leader, but with all the problems prayers are always very necessary.

With warmest personal regards,

Sincerely,

Dear Rose Mary,

The enclosed xerox copy of a letter which came to me yesterday may be of interest to you and your Boss.

The writer, Mrs. B. K. Birla, and her husband are of the renowned Indian banking-political family, and two of Mr. Birla's relatives are currently elected members of the Indian Parliament, so I do not take her comments lightly.

It seems to me that a very serious situation might be improved with a little time and effort on our part. However, I leave it to your discretion as to whether or not to pass this on.

As always, my prayers are with you for your special intentions ... and with our great leader for his continued Divine Guidance.

Bless you,

Jeane

My dear Mrs. Dixon,

I do hope that by now you have been able to finalise your programme to come to India. Weather in India is quite pleasant after October and as such any time thereafter would be most convenient. We shall be able to make arrangements for your visit to His Holiness The Dalai Lama.

In India and specially in Bengal the situation is extremely alarming because of the Bangla Desh. Kennedy is here and his visit has been of great help. Unfortunately, however, your President's attitude is not appreciated in this country, but we do hope that in course of time, specially, with the visit to Kennedy there would be better understanding between our two Governments.

I am enclosing herewith a small note which perhaps will be of interest to you.

Looking forward to meeting you in India and in the meantime with kind regards from Mr. Birla, Manjushree and myself,

Yours sincerely,
Sarala Birla.

(Sarala Birla)

Mrs. Jeane L. Dixon,
Washington. D.C.

P.S. I hope that you have received Mr. Birla's letter of 9th July as also the photos that we had taken in front of the Medison Hotel. Please return one of the photos with your autograph.

MEMORANDUM FOR:

ROSE WOODS

FROM:

Handwritten signature and initials in blue ink, including "file" and "Spt."

Attached is a copy of a letter Jeane Dixon has received in Chinese and English from someone in Nationalist China. She does not know what to do and seeks the advice of the President.

Since she is not a fan of Dr. Kissinger, she would not want this handled through there or the State Department. So, I pass it on to you for your judgment as to how this should be handled.

They offer her a round-trip ticket to visit them.

30 July 1971

Respectable Madam Jeane Dixon :

President Nixon declared on July 15, 1971 that he would visit China Mainland. Quite evidently he will manage to connect with the Chinese Red-bandits. But will he follow the late President Kennedy's way of betraying President Ngo Dinh Diem to undermine President Chiang and we Chinese People ? Only Heaven can know the secret. Won't it be like the old Chinese proverb says, "Heaven doesn't allow human beings to hurt human beings, while Heaven can impose hurt on them direct." We can never figure out why a wise man can carry on eventually such foolish a thing. Probably, this may be that President Kennedy would seize President Nixon as his death-substituting ghost. Alas ! in his inauguration of the 37th U.S. Presidency, Mr. Nixon proclaimed that he would exercise judgement among nations in the world and distinguish right from wrong for peoples. Resulting from wrong judgement, the president has been obsessed. Quite to our surprise, the Yi-Szu-Lu of the 42nd prophecy representation stated in Twei Pei Tu, the most celebrated prophecy book in Chinese history, written by the most famous Chinese prophet Lee Chun-feng of the Tang dynasty, had forecasted very long before that the catastrophe, with that President Chiang and President Nixon and mankind of the whole world will be confronted, can never be plucked away unless you, the Lute Fairy, can be invied by me for three times to alight in Taiwan. Attached herewith is the 42nd prophecy representation, which states, "A beauty will come from the West; then the government gets more and more steady. A long bow that is located on the earth seems at a serious crisis, but actually not." The panegyric of the prophecy states, "The Western beauty, the Lute Fairy, will get more and more colourful. At present she is living partly in a government and partly in a city, and a chaos is caused among the president, officials, and the people." In my opinion, the "bow that is located on the earth" represents "Taiwan" in shape; "the Lute Fairy coming from the West" means you will come here from the West, being well-acquainted with great world events of the past and present and future, and thus being very laudable and "the Lute Fairy"; "the Lute Fairy will get more and more colourful" signifies that when you arrive here on Taiwan, your popularity is bound to be the more assured and celebrated; "at present she is living partly in a government and partly in a city" implies that sometimes you are invited to the White House to participate in policy-making and sometimes you are entrusted with personal affairs transaction; "a chaos is caused among the president, officials, and the people" involves that since President Nixon's future visit to China Mainland became known throughout the world, the freedom-loving warriors of the whole world have lost their guidance, and a chaos among them has ensued. As for myself, my fleshy constitution was born on the 4th of the sixth month of Yi Mao year of lunar calendar, namely July 15, 1915 performing the nameless hare on the right lower corner of the prophecy figure in the Twei Pei Tu, because I was born in the year represented by a hare (according to Old Chinese or the lunar calendar, 12 years was regarded as a cycle, and each year of the twelve was represented with an animal. A person who was born in the year was also represented by the animal that represented the year). As the hare is 3-lipped, this means that before and after President Nixon's announcement on the 15 July of his future visit to China Mainland, I am bound to write 3 registered letters to you to visit Taiwan in order to carry out the sacred mission of world salvation. On condition that you, the Lute Fairy, can arrive here in Taiwan, Mr. Tung Wen Chi must be ready to contribute his share in the sacred mission by transferring the natural Between-Layers of Stone (pronounced as Kai-shek) State Head Bust and the pair of natural Chien Kun Jade Seals. Then equipped with the Divinity-granted Jade Seal, President Chiang will issue a decree to order bandit Mao Tse-tung to surrender. Being subject to the decree, Mao bandits gang are bound to surrender unconditionally just as the Japanese did in the end of the World War II. Won't this perform your prophecy that China will lead the world but not by means of force too? You are urgently expected to visit Taiwan, at your earliest convenience, so as to bring about "Taiwan seems at a serious crisis, but actually not" and lead the world to paradise. Visiting Taiwan, you are supposed to let me know in advancement to enable me to furnish you with a 2-way flight ticket from the States to Taiwan. Best wishes for you.

Very faithfully yours,

National Pious Son, Liu Shih-lun

珍妮迪克森夫人慧鑒：

七月十五日尼克森總統宣佈，他將訪問中國大陸。很明顯的，他要勾結共匪，但是否會步入甘迺迪總統謀害越南總統吳廷琰的後塵，陷害我們蔣總統及中華民國人民，那就只有上天得知！豈不如古語所說：「人害人天不肯，天傷人在目前」！我們真想不出聰明人為何要作這種愚蠢之事呢？也許是枉死的甘迺迪總統擬活捉尼克森總統作他的「替死鬼」。啊！原來是尼克森就職美國第卅七屆總統時宣誓他必在列國中旅行審判，為許多國民斷定是非，結果斷定是非不明，乃一念入魔所致！唐李淳風著推背圖第四十二象乙巳旅早已預測到非世潤三請您一琵琶仙一降臨台灣，不足彈散我們蔣總統及尼克森總統以暨全人類之大厄運！附推背圖四十二象識曰：「美人自西來，朝中日見安，長弓在地，危而不危」。頌曰：「西方女子琵琶仙，皎皎衣裳色更鮮，此時渾跡居朝市，鬧亂君臣百萬般」。世潤愚見認為「長弓在地」，弓是彎的，代表「台灣」；「西來女子琵琶仙」，是指您從西方美國來，您博古通今，預知未來大事，令人嘆服，是「琵琶仙」；「皎皎衣裳色更鮮」，是說您來此後，越是德高望重，顯赫一時了；「此時渾跡居朝市」，是指您有時應白宮請求，決定國

家大事，有時則應市民委託辦理私人小事。「開亂君臣百萬般」，係指尼克森總統宣佈訪問中國大陸，全世界愛好自由的騎士，失了倚靠，大家必亂開一番。按世潤肉身生於乙卯六月初四即一九一五年七月十五日，符合推背圖這隻無名小兔（依中國舊制天運紀年，以十二年為一週期，每年以一動物代表之，該年生人，即屬該動物），而免是三癩嚙，寓意七月十五日尼克森總統宣佈訪問中國大陸前後，世潤先後寄三封航空雙掛號信，恭請您早日降臨台灣，完成救世盛舉。如您琵琶仙降臨台灣，董文琦先生必肯效力將天生介石元首玉照及天生乾坤玉印一對，轉獻我們蔣總統！我們蔣總統接受天賜玉璽，必能發號施令，叫毛匪澤東投降，毛澤東匪幫必能如當年日本一般無條件投降。這樣豈不是應驗了您的預測「中國一定領導世界，但採取的途徑也不是武力」嗎？世潤等望您能早日降臨台灣，俾台灣「危而不危」，好領導世界趨向天國！您如來台時，請先示知，以便奉上美國至台灣往復飛機票一張為禱。敬祝旅安

Dear Rose Mary,

The enclosed is more important than you could possibly believe!

Please, I beg you, get it to the President
as soon as you possibly can.

And thank you for everything!

My prayers continue to be with you for your special intentions, Rose Mary dear.

A Blessed Thanksgiving to you and all your

Dear Mr. President,

During the past few days I have meditated at length on your forthcoming trip to China, perceiving much of great importance. Most important of all, I see the possibility of grave danger to your person during this trip to China!

Too, I get that a holy man (or a man of the cloth having great stature) has already warned you -- if not as yet, then I get that soon he will warn you -- of the danger that exists. I sense that he, like myself, is troubled over the matter of your personal safety in China, not at the hands of the Red Chinese Government, but because of two different factions there.

One faction is composed of military figures who are disenchanted with the present administration; the other faction seems to be a nucleus group from some kind of Chinese secret societies.

No need to tell you the Chinese Communists are in dire straits and need your visit to elevate their status in the eyes of the world, as well as of their own people!

(The two groups mentioned above are also eager to bring world attention to their plight.)

While meditating I have also "seen" a repetition of the terrible purges prevalent in Russia in the late '30's; hundreds of Chinese Generals have already been secretly killed. The atmosphere in that country is filled with hate and vibrations auguring great danger for you, Mr. President.

PLEASE BE CAREFUL!

Too, please do not send to Moscow to prepare for your trip there any of the same team that you sent to China. I get it would be much better to send one of your trusted aides rather than a diplomat or foreign policy advisor, because this mission to Moscow is of great significance to you, Mr. President -- not to mention the bearing it will undoubtedly have on the peaceful future of our country -- indeed, the whole world! Please?!

As always, my prayers are with you for continued Divine Protection to be yours, Mr. President ... and my prayers increase in fervency with each passing day. Bless you!

Respectfully,
EWS

Dear Rose Mary,

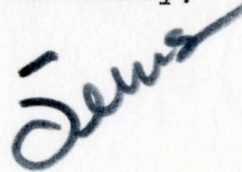

Please see that the enclosed message gets into the proper hands as quickly as possible -- and to no other!

Messages are coming to me thick and fast and I feel it imperative to pass them on as quickly and efficiently as possible.

I know you understand. Bless you!

My prayers are with you always.

Faithfully,

Again -- there is very real concern on her part on Nitze.

Says he is going to be working (quietly) for Jackson.

There will be no serious peace negotiations.

Nitze will write a book saying how he maneuvered the SALT talks in a few years -- there will be no peace through those.

Nitze is going to be successful in putting over ~~his situation where~~ a situation where they will have a disarmament agreement whereby we will disarm and not go ahead with our ground weapons to get on equal strength with their ground weapons. Nitze will maneuver this so that Russia gets ~~and~~ their way and then they will use this in some of their campaign (Jackson's) to show the miscalculation of the President.

Senator Jackson is the one that will he will work with.

Nitze gets briefings from both sides - Russia and the United States.

~~Nitze~~ Nitze has gotten more briefings than any man at the SALT talks - the Joint Chiefs ~~gives~~ give him more briefings than anyone else gets. They do not have the vision -- he tells them things they don't know (because of his ties with Russia) and so they think he is terribly smart.

Jackson will use all of this to show that we are letting this country down by getting so far behind. They will forget all about MacNamara. McNamara was going to try to use this type of thing against Johnson for Bobby Kennedy in 1968.

Nitze is determined to give the Russians everything they want. He is smarter than any of the other people in the talks on either side.

You will recall I wanted to stop Jackson by having the President send him to Vietnam on a tour - he is going to come out good now because he can't be told that he went over and couldn't find the solution

February -- China

Everything will be sixes and sevens at that particular time. We should have had an astrologer (ours) look at the dates. Everything all over the country ~~world~~ will be upset at that time.

Chinese have astrolgers who go back to the date of conception - not back to the date of birth. They are really ~~thogxx~~ thorough.

He cannot make promises at that time. China is going to make headway on this trip. I think they picked those dates because everything is going their way and not ours at that time.

The whole country will be upset at that time. It is like a storm brewing.

You must pray hard. Don't make any promises -- don't always listen to everything Kissinger says. Coue En Lai and HK are on the same channel. Use your own initiative - don't let those two people talk you into anything. Chou is the power - don't underestimate that. Kissinger~~xx~~ and Chou get along terribly well. Don't let them talk you ~~xx~~ into anything.

They harmonize too much - don't give anything away.

Kissinger is brilliant - but don't underestimate Chou - he is terribly bright.

I feel as though Chou will make an announcement after the President is gone. It could come through Longon where he will say he got the best of the bargain. President Nixon will be misquoted and misunderstood -- if that isn't in the article I am leaving with you - I am going to say that before the press meeting.
