WASHINGTON

CEREMONY FOR FALLEN LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICIALS

DATE: March 14, 1983
LOCATION: The Great Hall of Justice
TIME: 10:45 AM (40 Minutes)
FROM: Craig L. Fuller CS

I. PURPOSE

To participate in a memorial service for 13 federal law enforcement officers who have recently lost their lives in the line of duty.

II. BACKGROUND

This memorial service is being held to eulogize the supreme sacrifice made by 13 federal law enforcement officers in recent months and to recognize the dangers faced daily by all law enforcement officers. You have spoken by telephone to most of the widows of these agents, but this public event will let other federal, state and local law enforcement officials know that they are appreciated. Those being memorialized are as follows:

- Three Secret Service Agents (George Patrick La Barge, Donald W. Robinson, and Donald Bejeck) died while providing protection for Queen Elizabeth at Yosemite National Park on March 5, 1983.
- U. S. Marshal Kenneth Muir, 53, and Deputy U. S. Marshal Robert Cheshire, 33, were shot to death while attempting to apprehend a fugitive on February 13, 1983.
- Prison guard Gary L. Rowe, 31, was beaten to death at the San Diego Metropolitan Correctional Center on February 7, 1983.
- Prison guard Gregory J. Gunter, 30, lost his life during an inmate disturbance which occurred at the Federal Correctional Institution, Petersburg, Virginia, on December 25, 1982.
- Four FBI agents (Robert W. Connors, Charles L. Ellington, Terry B. Hereford, Michael J. Lynch) were killed while on duty in a plane crash on December 16, 1982.
- Ariel Rios of the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Bureau, while serving as an undercover agent on detail to the South Florida Task Force, was shot and killed in Miami on December 2, 1982.

-- Thomas J. Devine of the Drug Enforcement Administration was shot in the leg and the base of the neck on October 12, 1972, by a suspect in an undercover narcotics investigation. He died from the wounds on September 25.

III. PARTICIPANTS

The President, the Attorney General, the Secretary of the Treasury, top federal law enforcement officials, representatives of state and local law enforcement organizations, and close family of the 13 officers.

IV. PRESS PLAN

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR FEDERAL LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICERS
MONDAY, MARCH 14, 1983

Good morning. Two years ago this month I saw up close -- up very close -- two profiles in courage. Were it not for the brave efforts of Secret Service Agents Jerry Parr, who shoved me into the waiting car, and Timothy McCarthy, who caught a bullet meant for me, I might not stand before you today.

Fortunately, neither of those Federal officers nor Washington Patrolman Thomas Delahanty, nor my own press secretary, Jim Brady, lost their lives that day near the Hilton, although three of these four men suffered ^{SEVERE} ~~several~~ injuries.

While serving their fellow citizens, however, other law enforcement officers have lost their lives. In recent months alone, no fewer than 13 Federal agents have been killed while on the job.

Their deaths remind us again of the difficult and very hazardous tasks we ask our Federal law enforcement officers to carry out. Sometimes they must perform their duties in unfamiliar surroundings. And sometimes they must deal at close hand with the most destructive and unpredictable elements in our society. Frequently, their work is as routine as anyone else's. But they know without a doubt that some day, perhaps even today they may face danger and perhaps even tragedy.

Just 9 days ago tragedy occurred when an automobile carrying three Secret Service Agents collided head-on with a local police car in California. George Patrick La Barge, Donald W. Robinson and Donald Bejeck died while performing their professional duties. They were driving to Yosemite National Park, where they were to provide protection for Queen Elizabeth.

It is beyond our understanding just why those men should be riding at that moment in that car, just as it eludes our understanding why four FBI agents should be in the plane that crashed outside of Cincinnati, Ohio, on December 16. Robert W. Connors, Charles L. Ellington, Terry B. Hereford, and Michael J. Lynch died in the worst accident in FBI history. They, too, were faithfully doing their job. They were in search of embezzled money supposedly buried near Cincinnati.

Accounts of homicides appear so frequently in our newspapers and on the nightly news that they may almost seem commonplace. But no murder is commonplace. When the victim is a law enforcement officer, there is an added dimension. Here the assault is perpetrated not only against an innocent individual, but also against the society he represents and is solemnly sworn to protect.

U.S. Marshals Kenneth Muir and Robert Cheshire were shot to death on February 13th outside Medina, North Dakota, where they were attempting to serve a warrant on a man violating his probation on a tax evasion conviction. Correctional Officer Gary Lee Rowe was responding on February 7th to an alert of a possible escape attempt when inmates in a Federal prison in San Diego fatally attacked him with an arsenal of homemade metal weapons. Correctional Officer Gregory Johnnie Gunter lost his life on -- of all days -- Christmas Day when, despite being off duty, he attempted to settle a dispute between two angry mobs of prisoners in a Federal penal institution in Petersburg, Virginia. Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms agent Ariel Rios was shot and killed on December 2 in Miami while working undercover on a cocaine investigation. And Thomas J. Devine of the Drug Enforcement Administration was shot in the leg and the base of the neck on October 12, 1972, by a suspect in an undercover narcotics investigation. He died from the wounds on September 25, 1982.

It is wisely said that nothing worth having comes cheaply or easily. And the price of a free nation is sometimes counted in the dearest currency -- human life. These 13 men, all of them the best of professionals, all of them dedicated Americans, gave their lives in the continuing battle to preserve our domestic peace, to make America safe from those who prey on the innocent. Our appreciation for their work, and their lives, is only imperfectly expressed by our gathering here today.

The family members of each of these men bear a unique burden. It is my wish that they will find solace in the loyalty and friendship of the professionals their loved ones worked with, and in the respect and gratitude of our citizens for the job they did. Finally, I hope and pray that all Americans will be inspired by the knowledge that each of these men died as few men ever do -- a hero.

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

MEETING WITH A BIPARTISAN GROUP OF HOUSE AND SENATE MEMBERS
REGARDING THE ADMINISTRATION'S COMPREHENSIVE CRIME CONTROL
ACT OF 1983

DATE: Monday, March 14, 1983

LOCATION: The Cabinet Room

TIME: 1:30 p.m. (20 minutes)

FROM: Kenneth M. Duberstein KMD

I. PURPOSE

To express strong Presidential support for the enactment of the Comprehensive Crime Control Act of 1983.

II. BACKGROUND

Enactment of legislation to reform several elements of the federal criminal statutes has been a priority of this Administration. Legislation was transmitted to the 97th Congress to change sentencing and bail laws, the exclusionary rule, the insanity defense, narcotics enforcement and several other substantive reforms in criminal law. The Senate approved a major crime bill, S. 2572, the Violent Crime and Drug Enforcement Improvements Act, last September by a vote of 95 to 1. That legislation addressed several of the areas of concern to the Administration including bail and sentencing reform and improved forfeiture provisions. The House of Representatives failed to approve this measure. It adopted, instead, H.R. 3963, a miscellaneous assortment of criminal justice proposals. The Senate acceded to most of these proposals. This legislation was vetoed for, among other reasons, its creation of a federal "drug Czar". In vetoing H.R. 3963, the President reaffirmed his strong personal commitment to the fight against crime and stated that he looked forward to working with the 98th Congress to secure passage of substantive criminal law reform.

A new crime package, the Comprehensive Crime Control Act of 1983, is ready to be transmitted to the Congress. Many of the proposals were considered by the previous Congress but others are new. Each provision is important in ensuring that crime in America is dealt with effectively.

SUGGESTED TALKING POINTS FOR MEETING WITH CONGRESSMEN AND SENATORS ON THE COMPREHENSIVE CRIME CONTROL ACT OF 1983

- Thank the Congressmen and Senators for attending this meeting to discuss the comprehensive criminal law reform legislation which you will be transmitting shortly to the Hill.

- Remind them that the enactment of criminal law reform legislation has been a key priority of your Administration.

- Tell them that you appreciate the sincere efforts of both the House and the Senate last Congress in attempting to develop legislation to address several of the most troublesome areas of federal criminal law.

- Remind them that you regretted having to withhold your approval of H.R. 3963 and that you strongly hope that legislation can be passed quickly in both Houses of Congress which deals effectively with these important criminal law problems and on which everyone involved can agree.

- Indicate that Attorney General Smith is present to participate in the discussion. Ask Attorney General Smith to review the Comprehensive Crime Control Act.

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

March 11, 1983

MEETING WITH AGUDATH ISRAEL OF AMERICA

DATE: March 14, 1983

LOCATION: Oval Office

TIME: 3:55 p.m.

FROM: Faith Ryan Whittlesey FRW

I. PURPOSE

To provide the President with an opportunity to express his appreciation to the leaders of Agudath Israel of America for their continued support of his Administration and its programs.

II. BACKGROUND

Agudath Israel of America, an orthodox Jewish organization, has been the most visible supporter of the President in the orthodox Jewish community. The organization has been particularly active in support of tuition tax credits, private sector initiatives for neighborhood preservation, and actively opposed to pornography. The organization is in Washington for a day of briefings at the Department of State and the White House. The Vice President will also drop by during their White House briefings.

III. PARTICIPANTS

Rabbi Morris Sherer, President

Rabbi Menachem Lubinsky, Director of Government and Public Affairs

IV. PRESS PLAN

White House photographer only

V. SEQUENCE OF EVENTS

Rabbi Sherer and Rabbi Lubinsky are escorted into the Oval Office and introduced to the President; they shake hands. The President thanks the Rabbis for the work their organization has been doing and asks for their continued support for the Administration's program.

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

TALKING POINTS (Agudath Israel)

- I hope that your briefings this morning at the State Department and this afternoon in the White House are informative and helpful.
- I appreciate your efforts on tuition tax credits. Tuition tax credits are a top legislative priority. We will do all we can to provide you with whatever help you need -- but it will be primarily up to organizations like yours to bring the necessary pressure to bear on the Hill. I need the support of organizations like yours if the legislation is to pass the House and the Senate.
- I have heard about the private sector initiatives you have undertaken in Boro Park (Brooklyn, New York) in the area of neighborhood preservation. I commend you for those efforts and hope you will continue to expand on them.
- I also know of your interest, concern for the State of Israel and I want to reiterate to you my strong commitment to Israel.
