Dear Mr. Deaver:

I don't know if you remember when you came to Nashville with Mr. Reagan about seven or eight years ago and spent the weekend with us and Mr. Reagan spoke to some of our employees.

You know that we published The Call to Action some time back about the President and now we have taken his article and published a book, Abortion and the Conscience of the Nation. We sent a copy of this book to every Catholic Archbishop and Cardinal, as well as to important leaders in all other denominations, the Chief Justices, and to all Governors, Senators and Congressmen.

Mike, I want you to know that I am a great believer and supporter of the President. The Christian community, especially the Conservative part of it, is overwhelmingly behind the President.

The President spoke on Friday, April 13, for the Fundamental Baptist Convention in Washington and I was very disappointed in the speech that he gave to that group. He read the letter about the Beirut chaplain and those who died and the humanitarian effort that the chaplain showed. Although this is fine, these people wanted to hear basically the same speech that the President gave at the National Religious Broadcasters Convention about seven or eight months ago.

President Reagan needs to come out strongly that he believes the Bible and wants to finish the job that he started to do by bringing America back to the foundations on which it was founded. In these Conservative areas, this is what the President should speak on and it will ring the bell. I thought you might be able to convey this to the President. We want Mr. Reagan as our President for another four years and will work toward that goal.

I am enclosing a copy of his book for you.

Sincerely,

Sam Moore

Dear Mike,

As the 1984 Summer Olympic Games begin in Los Angeles in July, it will mark the first time in more than half a century that our country has hosted this historic event. Southern Pacific is proud to be an Official Sponsor of these games.

Because you are one of our most valued friends, we would like to invite you and your guest to join us in Los Angeles for five days, August 9-13, 1984, to share in the excitement and cheer our teams to victory. As our guests, you will witness firsthand the world's finest amateur athletes in action. For every athletic contestant, the Olympic Games mark the culmination of years of personal sacrifice and grueling work. We hope you'll be able to join us to see the grand drama played out.

We will provide you as our guests with accommodations at our headquarters hotel, the Hyatt at Los Angeles International Airport, tickets and bus transportation to Olympic events, evening entertainment, all meals while you are with us, and much more.

Travel to and from Los Angeles will be your own responsibility.

We have made arrangements with an extremely capable and experienced business travel concern to act as our Olympic Travel Headquarters and assist you before, during, and after the Olympic Games.

Our Olympic Travel Headquarters can arrange for your airline reservations and ticketing, and can invoice you at a later time. Because of their experience and special arrangements they have made, we urge you to take advantage of this arrangement and book your air travel through our Olympic Travel Headquarters. Due to the great demand for airline reservations to and from Los Angeles during this period, the availability of seats and excursion or specially discounted fares is extremely limited. You are free to make your own travel arrangements, but we urge you to do so immediately.

Even though Southern Pacific is an Official Sponsor of the Games, we have available only an extremely limited number of hotel accommodations and Olympic tickets. Thus, we can provide only one room for you and your guest to share during your stay, and we must ask that you arrive and depart from the hotel on the dates listed above. No early arrivals or late departures at our hotel are possible under any circumstances, because all our hotel rooms will be used continuously.

This invitation is for you personally and is not transferable to anyone. There are many people we would like to invite, but can't due to our limited space. Therefore, your prompt response will be appreciated.

Please fill out the enclosed Invitation Enrollment Form completely and return it to Travel Headquarters by April 30. It is very important that you respond as quickly as possible.

Once again, we look forward to hearing from you and hope to see you in Los Angeles this summer. We'll be counting on you to attend.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE: May 3, 1984

FOR MORE INFORMATION
Call: (212) 688-7166

New York May 3, 1984 — The 600-member Bipartisan Budget Appeal group today issued an urgent call for the President, Presidential candidates and the Congress to support a "substantial down payment" plan to cut the Federal deficit.

The group said the down payment should be implemented before mid-1984 to prevent a premature end of the recovery and to avoid the supercharged political atmosphere around the nominating conventions which could prevent action until after the election.

The group also urged that "prior to the November 1984 election, the President and the Presidential candidates publicly commit to present in their first budget for the fiscal year 1985 a credible plan, based on prudent assumptions, that achieves a deficit of no more than 2% of the GNP soon, within a few years, and heading towards balance." Each of the major Presidential candidates has been sent copies of the statement.

The Bipartisan Budget Appeal group is composed of over 400 chief executive officers and a long list of former senior public officials from both parties, educators, economists, organization directors and lawyers.

The six founding members of the group, formed in 1982, are all former Cabinet officers from both Republican and Democratic Administrations: former Secretaries of the Treasury W. Michael Blumenthal, John B. Connally, C. Douglas Dillon, Henry H. Fowler and William E. Simon, and former Secretary of Commerce Peter G. Peterson.

In their latest statement, published in two-page national ads listing the names and affiliations of their more than 600 members, the group said that cutting the Federal deficit was "a matter too serious for politics as usual" unless we are willing to risk the "recovery, our economic future and our country."

Their advertisement (appearing Friday, May 4, 1984 - The New York Times and Wall Street Journal) called for "the largest possible down payment at the earliest possible date," pointing out there will "never be a better time than now and that the strong economic environment of 1984 provides an ideal climate for making the tough fiscal policy choices which are required. The group also pointed out that "more must be done...to set the stage for more fundamental fiscal reforms in the next budget."

For the more fundamental longer term reforms, the Bipartisan group proposed a "triad" of initiatives in the areas of entitlement programs, defense and taxes, "each of the three major sources of runaway deficits."

1. Entitlements and Non-defense Programs: A freeze of at least one year, preferably two, on cost-of-living adjustments for payments flowing from the large non-means-tested entitlements programs: Social Security, civil service and military retirement. Thereafter, limits on automatic indexing, as well as other nondefense subsidies and payments that are not means-tested of these benefits (e.g. by capping inflation adjustments at 60% of the CPI, or only for the amount of inflation in excess of 3%). Similar restraints on all transfers, subsidies and programs other than those essential to the needy. "After years of ducking and posturing," the group said, "Congress and the Administration must jointly and squarely face the need for restraint in these middle and upper class benefits."
2. Defense: "The unprecedented defense build-up," the statement said, "has done much to correct the military weakness that was evident in the late 70s. Continued accelerated defense spending growth would embroil Congress and the Administration in an increasingly acrimonious annual budget battle that could well result in the worst of all outcomes: fewer defense dollars than the Administration wants, less military strength than Congress intends and discordant signals to friends and foes alike." Summarizing their defense proposal, the group said: "In this spirit we strongly urge the President and the Congressional leadership to join together in supporting a bipartisan resolution that commits the nation to a multi-year defense budget and a more gradual rate of increase scaled back from recent abnormal "catch-up" growth rates to a "real" growth rate down closer to the sustainable growth capacity of the U.S. economy."
3. Taxes: "Our Washington representatives must stop perpetuating the fiction that the nation can make ends meet with current levels of Federal taxation...Of the various alternative ways of acquiring additional revenue, we would prefer to place main emphasis on broad-based consumption taxes, in order to avoid weakening incentives to work, save and invest." To define new revenue proposals, the group suggested that "the relevant committees of the Congress should hold hearings to be completed in-depth by the end of 1984 on the various forms of consumption-based taxes so that the President-elect will have practical options from which to select in 1985."

The group asserted that the "Federal deficit is no economist's or politician's abstraction. It has already affected everybody's pocket-book." To support this statement the advertisement documented the unprecedented short and long term "real" interest rates, the steep plunge in the trade deficit, and the resulting loss of about 2 million job opportunities, and the growing risk of the international debt bomb.

The Bipartisan Budget Appeal group concluded by restating the premise that brought them together originally two years ago: "The budget crisis is a national crisis. Only a united leadership in Washington extending across both parties and embracing liberals and conservatives alike can avert a fiscal disaster."

Honorable Sir:

I am Roy C. Deaver, son of Harvey W. Deaver, grandson of William Austin Deaver, who was a brother to my great-uncle Barney Deaver.

My uncle Barney moved from Texas (Stephen County) when he was a very young man, to California. I am thinking that you are probably a descendant of Barney Deaver.

I would like very much to have a brief note from you as to whether or not this is correct.

I am a gospel preacher, an educator, and Vice-President of Tennessee Bible College. I am 61 years of age.

It is my judgment that President Reagan is the only President we have ever had who truly understands Communism.

Thank you, so very much.

FROM: MIKE McMANUS hahon

April 20, 1984

Mr. Michael Deaver
The White House
Washington, D.C.

Dear Mr. Deaver:

I am writing to introduce you to my interest in making a documentary film about the status of American education in the 1980s. The one-hour film would air nationwide on either broadcast or pay-cable after the November election and would present to the American public the thesis that is associated with President Reagan's position on education: schools need to be strong in discipline, high in student expectation and firm-but-caring in approach. The special will review all aspects of the return to traditional educational values.

For this film, I would like to include scenes of President Reagan visiting schools, talking to students, and presenting his position to the public. Also included will be documentary scenes of excellent teachers in action, motivated students, and schools that have a sense of order and purpose. Documentation of the efforts being made by the current Department of Education to return schools to the basics of teaching and learning will be presented. Schools that have not been successful will also be shown, with comments from "experts" enunciating the problems they believe are affecting our schools.

Once this "overview of American education" is completed, I would propose that President Reagan be given the opportunity to summarize his position, as well as to counter any of the other ideas presented in the film. The President's commentary would constitute the final section of the film.

The purpose of this television special is to say to the American public that while we are afflicted with many social ills, our schools provide the one place, amidst a rapidly changing society, that remains somewhat traditional -- a place where students can find a secure grounding in the values and skills necessary to become productive members of society. By broadcasting the film after the November election, the subject matter will be de-politicized and presented as an important message to parents, educators, students and the rest of American society.

As noted in the enclosed resume, DBA Communications has produced a number of documentaries and television specials for broadcast nationwide. Personally, a number of my own films have been concerned with education. A few years ago, I produced a documentary on Marva Collins, the Chicago educator who started her own school. The film was syndicated throughout most of the country on PBS stations. I have also made films on the use of computers in schools as well as on the discipline issues that have faced teachers in America's classrooms.

In recent weeks, I have spoken to Gary L. Bauer from the Department of Education. He was kind enough to send me a copy of the January 3, 1984 report from the Undersecretary of Education in which a number of recommendations were presented to the President. The paper was instrumental in creating the idea for this documentary.

I hope you will agree this is an important film for the American public. At your convenience, I would be most interested in meeting with you or someone from your staff for further discussion of this proposal.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely yours,

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

May 9, 1984

Dear Lyn:

I am writing in reference to Leslie W. Ohland. She has written me asking for help in being chosen as a delegate to the Convention or for a position on the Reagan-Bush '84 Campaign. I have spoken to Lee and have solicited his help in the attempt to find her a position. If there is anything you could do to assist her in obtaining a slot as a delegate, I would be grateful. She has been frustrated in her attempts and feels that she is just being put off. I will consider this a great favor if you could help and would appreciate your letting me know the outcome.

Thanks again.

With warm regards,

Dear Mike,

for me
Let me know.
also draft letter to W about delegate.

We are getting right down to the wire now, and I have had no encouragement from anyone in the California Reagan-Bush campaign regarding a position or a delegate slot to the convention.

Lyn Nofziger tells me that he has no "clout" with the Deukmejian team and Ed Rollins has promised to forward my name to the "appropriate person". Meanwhile, Keith Welch has never returned any of my telephone calls.

My only recourse is to ask that you send a personal letter on my behalf to Governor Deukmejian, asking that I be appointed as a delegate and have a position with the campaign.

After all we have been through, I can't believe that the President's team would not have a place for me. Would you please send me a copy of the letter to Governor Deukmejian?

Warm regards,

Leslie

Dear Miss Conway:

Thank you for your letter of May 3, 1984 to Mr. Michael Deaver regarding the availability of his forthcoming diet book. Unfortunately, because of the demands of his position here at the White House he has been unable to find the necessary time to work on the book and thus it has not been completed.

Thank you very much for inquiring. I hope that you will be successful with another diet plan until his book reaches the market.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

WASHINGTON, D. C.

Dear Sir:

I have just read the short article in the January 3, 1984, issue of "TIME" Magazine, regarding your forthcoming book on weight loss.

Would you please advise if this is now published, and if so, is it available in Canada, the price, and a source of supply.

I am anxious to lose weight but have not been successful with any diet I have tried, and I believe I have tried the majority available.

Thank you very much for any assistance you offer.

Sincerely,

(Miss) C. Conway
