SUBJECT: PSI STAFFING

For the same reasons I discussed in my last memo, I will need to requisition one of the two empty personnel slots you presently have in your office. You can proceed with your plans to fill the other one.

This time, Jim, I will also need to requisition some office space. If you could talk to John Rogers about freeing up some space in the EOB center corridor, I would appreciate it.

Thank you for your patience.

Re: Judge Richard Markus

Dear Mr. Deaver:

I am an attorney practicing in Cleveland, Ohio.

According to newspaper reports in this area, Judge Richard Markus, who currently sits on the Eighth District State Court of Appeals and Judge Alice M. Batchelder, who currently sits on the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Ohio, have been recommended for a Federal Judgeship in this region.

I am well-acquainted with the qualifications of both of these Judges. Judge Markus has the reputation of being one of the finest judges in this entire area. As a woman attorney, I have some interest in seeing women on the bench; however, more important than that, I am interested in seeing the best qualified person selected for this position. There is no comparison between the qualifications of Judge Markus and Judge Batchelder.

I hope that the qualifications of both Judges will be examined carefully, and I submit that Judge Markus would be a credit to the Federal Bench.

Very truly yours,

Mary Ann Rabin

RE: Donald L. Dotson

Dear Mr. Deaver:

I am writing to express our support for the fine leadership Mr. Dotson has provided during his term as Chairman of the National Labor Relations Board.

Under his guidance, the Board now approaches the delicate arena of labor/management relations with a more even handed approach. This equality is critical in representing the needs and interests of our citizens and was not always present in years preceding Mr. Dotson's Chairmanship. We are convinced that his Chairmanship serves both management and labor, as well as the American people in general.

Therefore, we ask that you express to the President our support for Mr. Dotson and our belief that his continuation in the position is in the best interest of all Americans.

Dear Mr. Deaver:

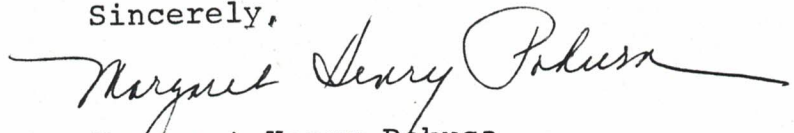

Sometime in February or March of this year, I had a telephone conversation with your secretary, Ms. Ann Deluca. At that time we discussed the President's commitment to traditional American values, especially his belief in the importance of the family. Following this conversation, I sent Ms. Deluca a letter which elaborated a bit on the activities of grandchildren.

At present I am looking for a position as a temporary staff assistant. Since my children are young, I would like to work only two days a week on a temporary or part-time basis.

If there is such a need on the White House staff for this type of supplemental help, I would appreciate your giving consideration to my resume, which is attached.

Thank you very much.

Dear Mr. Deaver:

I am concerned about Ronald Reagan's image with respect to two issues: the nuclear arms race and the world population explosion. He has softened his position on the former, but the Falwell conservatives have pushed him too far on the latter.

The majority of us Americans favor reduction of nuclear arms -- not more MX missiles or US provocation of Soviet arms build-up. It would help the President to acknowledge this and to bargain away "Starwars."

A majority favors women's choice on abortion. But, more important, we feel that the population explosion must be stopped. If Mexico doubles its population in the next 14 years, how can we keep illegals from crossing the border in increasing numbers? To keep his image as a great US leader, Reagan must see that every effort is made in Latin America, Africa, India, and Indonesia to cut the population increases. All thinking people know that, otherwise, we will have world-wide starvation and revolution.

Please tell him.

Dear Mr. Sever,

I have just written to the President and in doing so feel compelled to write you too.

I am a strong supporter of the President but I am rather upset by the recent nature of his campaign. The recent tone has been negative in his approach to Mr. Mondale. Not that he should be positive, rather he should take the high road. By calling Mr. Mondale a jackass he only brings discredit to himself. Mr. Mondale may very well be a jackass, but the public is smart enough to see this for themselves. It is below the dignity of the President. When descending into the gutter one then cannot avoid the filth.

I am of the opinion that a negative backlash will occur if these partisan type of campaign continues. The President should be the statesman, the leader of the nation and not just of the Republicans.

Dear Mr. Deaver,

My congratulations and appreciation to you on the re-nomination of Ronald Reagan.

I know what a sincere and concerted effort you make in behalf of President Reagan.

I watched with amusement as the news media tried to construe the President's humorous comment on bombing Russia, and your remark about his naps into major and awkward predicaments. Being the president's most loyal advisor and friend, these may be frustrating days for you. That's why I'm writing this letter, in hopes of comforting and consoling you. Don't worry! The nation still knows and believes that even if sound asleep, Ronald Reagan is a better president than any other in this century - and

I might add, he has a superior staff to any ever assembled.

As the President mentioned in the introductory film at the convention, the office is an institution and only as effective as the people who make up the staff and cabinet.

Let me propose another theory that may ease your mind. We Republicans must always guard against being too aloof and proper.

Remember the criticism of "Nixon's Imperial Presidency." Well, these recent events may just add to the President's popularity. It just demonstrates he has a great personality, and is human and jovial at times like the rest of us. These events also show that the people around him aren't stuffed shirts - but can make humor of the outrageous, and can make light of themselves and their leader. To me, this has an appeal that the television commercials

So, there you have my simple and probably insignificant opinion. But, I just felt a need to correspond with you. I was delighted to see you ride with the President to the convention for his acceptance speech. We can see a bond between you two that can never be broken.

We are working hard here in this country with an excitement and rejuvenation of patriotism and love of God as never witnessed before.
