Dear Michael:

I know your schedule is extremely busy; therefore, I am particularly pleased you found time to visit with me when I was in Washington a few weeks ago.

As I mentioned to you, from afar, it is easy to see your mastery. The President's trips to China and to Europe were seen as tremendous successes here in Europe. And, from my ten days in Washington, I know they were seen as great successes in the States, as well.

I know that it is easy to feel overwhelmed and to have your personal life squeezed out while serving in the West Wing. I feel better over here knowing you are at the President's right hand.

As I have noted to you before, my appreciation and loyalty to you are great for the many acts of kindness you have extended since 1975, not the least of which was your tremendous support in helping to secure my current position for me. It has been a marvelous experience for me and the whole family. Further, the chance to develop seasoned experience in multilateral diplomacy and east-west issues (negotiating with the Soviets and others on nuclear nonproliferation), Middle East matters (overseeing the Palestinian refugee camps), and the north-south economic issues (United Nations Industrial Development Organization, U.N. Commission on International Trade Law, etc.) have been tremendous, substantive experiences. I remain deeply in your debt.

Again, it was nice seeing you. I am glad you are doing so well. Best wishes for continued success in the campaign and beyond.

Warm regards,

MEMORANDUM FOR JAMES A. BAKER, III
✓MICHAEL K. DEEVER

FROM: RICHARD S. WILLIAMSON

SUBJECT: CAMPAIGN '84

Rich

The attached is offered as food for thought. It is not profound, and probably echoes your own thoughts. However, knowing how easy it is to be caught up in the daily battles, the temptation to strike out against an opponent, the fatigue from battle, I thought the attached might be worth sending to you.

Best wishes for continued success! You have gotten the campaign off to a great start.

note

May 23, 1984

Michael,

In viewing the new campaign ads, an old idea of mine on how to debunk the gender gap came back to mind.

There are, as you well know, hundreds of women serving in executive positions in the Reagan Administration, a fact unknown to the general public. If the campaign has sufficient funds, why not have a film crew do 30-second TV spots with some of the women appointees (Blacks, Hispanics and Whites), and buy network time during the breaks on the most popular soap operas.

Each spot could focus in on the appointee in her office, identifying her by name, position, size of budget and number of staff. You would be amazed at the millions of dollars and thousands of employees many of these women are responsible for administrating.

I am convinced the ads would not only generate votes from the TV audience, particularly women, but would also create such interest that the other media would be forced to report on same.

Presidential Personnel can provide you with all necessary information should you agree this idea has merit.

Dear Mike,

After our conversation at the fair on Sunday, I went home and started reading Jody Powell's book about the White House Press Corps. Interesting stuff.

Here's our May issue, the story about the President's trip to Dallas begins on p. 37. The NAHB Spring Board meeting is this weekend(it's the meeting of builders the President spoke to at the Hilton last May). I know the Dallas round table will be a hot topic.

Thanks for the opportunity to work with the White House and The President on this exciting and important event.

Best,

Dear Mike,

I thought you might be interested to see what my Prime Minister, Mrs Margaret Thatcher, had to say about relations between Europe and the US in a speech she gave last Friday to the Conservative Party in Perth, Scotland.

You will note from the extract I am enclosing that Mrs Thatcher stressed her belief that Europeans cannot go on drawing on American goodwill and generosity without trying to understand American concerns and the burdens which fall to Americans.

hws w

Oliver

Oliver Wright

EXTRACT FROM A SPEECH MADE BY MRS MARGARET THATCHER TO THE CONSERVATIVE PARTY IN PERTH ON 11 MAY 1984

Once we settle Europe's internal problems, Europe can look more to its global responsibilities. We are part of the free world. We must act with the free world. And that means, first and foremost, that we should work with our great ally across the Atlantic, the United States. Where would Europe have been in that most difficult and dangerous period after the last war without America? Where would we have been since without America's massive contribution to freedom and security of Europe?

We cannot go on drawing endlessly on American goodwill and generosity without ourselves trying to understand their concerns and the burdens which fall to them. For they are the champions of all the beliefs and ideals which we cherish most deeply.

I believe profoundly that the alliance between Europe and the United States is vital to the defence of the free world. Conservatives will work for a Europe which is a strong partner of the United States and which uses its experience and an increasing part of its resources, to reduce the areas of tension and conflict, to improve the prospects for the poorer countries and to defend and spread beliefs and ideals which are shared by the Western democracies. That is our vision for Europe.

Dear Mr. Deaver:

Should Faith Whittlesey decide to take another position, I hope that Dorcas Hardy will be appointed Assistant to the President for Public Liaison.

As you know, Dorcas currently is serving as the Assistant Secretary for Human Development Services in the Department of Health and Human Services.

Her loyalty, stamina and accomplishments in that position, coupled with her personal manner and effectiveness, assures me that she would make an outstanding representative and communicator for this Administration during the second Reagan term.

Dorcas is totally unaware of this letter nor has she ever, to my knowledge, expressed interest in another position. I have taken the liberty of writing simply because I feel strongly that she would make an excellent appointee to the White House staff.

Thanks for your consideration.

Best wishes for every continued success in your important work for the President.

Dear Mike:

I thoroughly enjoyed our discussion this past week. Jim Lake has been singing your praises for years, and I now understand why. Jim and I have already had some followup discussion on your future plans, but we will get to that after you finish off those hectic final weeks in government. I hope the Summit goes well.

I am glad we had a chance to evaluate the Japan, Mexico, and Canada situations. All three mesh well because they are our major trading partners, and both Canada and Mexico fit for political reasons too. The State Department always wants to put foreign service officers in those juicy assignments, so it will probably take strong White House input from you and Bob Tuttle to fend that off if and when those slots open up.

Incidentally, Tuttle is going to be a good personnel chief. I liked his organizational style and his perceptiveness.

Let me know if there is anything further I can or should do on this. Moving into a government post would cost me an enormous sum of money, but making this democratic system of ours work is more important.

Cordially,

Clayton Yeutter
