organized the November programs in 1938, Niedenstein, sending the kids of his school around to other communities, to increase the number of the gangs of schoolkid, who demolished Jewish homes, stores and so forth. He personally supervised the beating of Jewish children, saw to it, that no Jewish families received any rations stamps, no mail and issued a decree in his community, not permitting Jews, to use buses and other means of transportation.

Mrs. Hecker, also violently pro-Nazi participated in many beatings of people of other political convictions, for e.g. she was beating up Mrs. Hauser, the day of their departure from Niedenstein to the USA, as a "souvenir" for the Jews in America "what all of them had done to Germany."

Political History, Affiliations, etc.: 1931, very much in favor of some points of Party program. Had been in Munich, contacted by man of minor importance but with some vision.. When he returned from San Francisco in 1932, was thoroughly disappointed about Nazi means & measures. Predicted that the regime could not survive. Thought Hitler gangster "similar to those in Chicago", but at same time an ingenious politician. The men around him he said were a bunch of thieves allowed by Hitler to thief as recompensation for what they had to go through before the Party came to power. Hess he thought absolutely idealistic, but too weak against the gang. Helped several dozens of Jews out of trouble at this time, gave them letters of introduction to friends in U.S. & elsewhere. Freed Dr. Morsbach from concentration camp.. In Amsterdam, He complained of being watched, tried to resign but was not accepted.

Personal Characteristics and Hobbies: A passionate hunter and a born horseman. Hates to bribe anybody with money, prefers to play on personal weaknesses-cannot be bribed with money himself, 'though a good horse may make the donor become his friend. Can endure tremendous fatigues; unassuming as regards food, occasionally likes bottle of hook or rhine wine-never drinks heavily. Was very keen on women in younger years; has a liberal mind. Has great contempt for all French whom he considers a "degenerate race".

Publications: 1918 Hentig's story of the Afghanistan expedition and the return home was published. The booklet became a best seller among German youth, in its 214th thousand copies. Vivid description of exciting details about trip from Afghanistan to China, his escape as a stowaway on SS "Ecuador", experiences in American immigration officials in Angel Island, his trip through U.S. and return to Germany. Name of book: "Ins verschlossene Land".

He also wrote a book "Technik der diplomatischen Arbeit", and another one on modern views about the right of extraterritoriality, as well as many articles in different German magazines.

"Der Nahe Osten rueckt naeher", published by Paul List Verlag, Leipzig, is a popular book on the political & economic relations between Germany and the countries of the Near East.

Other Remarks.- Background: The von Hentigs are an old German titled family. Their family tree is traced back some 300 or 350 years. Mostly jurists, high judges, administrative functionaries. One of them was Philipp Hentig, around 1620 chief burgomaster of Prague, head of one of the most administrative districts of the Holy Roman Empire of Germany. It was he who got totled. His father received the title Excellency and many decorations, and after his retirement cut a great figure in Berlin society. When he retired, the family moved to an estate some 50 miles from Berlin, lost during inflation when parents and children alike were left almost penniless. There were four or five children in the family, Otto being eldest; next Hans, born in 1887, now a refugee in U.S.A. (brothers are not on speaking terms) At end of 1941, Hans was employed as lecturer at State University of Iowa, College of Commerce, Division for Sociology. His last address was 1027 East Court Iowa City, Iowa. A sister Ilse is married to Ernst von Eisenlohr, former counsellor to Legation in Belgrade (1923-25), later served in Foreign Office, minister in Athens 1931-35, Prague 1935 until invasion.

Teheran: One of the first pupils of the "German Gymnasium" to be examined by Hentig was M. Daftari, later Minister of Justice & Prime Minister under Shah Pahlevi; also examined was Ali Akbar Daftari, younger brother who later became first chargé d'affaires of Iran in Washington after 4 or 5 years of interrupted diplomatic relations.

Hentig known among members of personnel department of Wilhelmstrasse as "S.U." (for "Schwieriger Untergebener" which means difficult to handle as a subordinate). He has always had great respect for the British as a race, but loved to cheat them individually whenever an opportunity occurred. The handling of underground movements in the Near East provided many chances to excel in this regard. Had or had little respect for those Arab "leaders" who cooperate only or chiefly for personal profits. He hates for instance Emir Shekib Arslan, member of parliament in Syria, who was in Berlin during second half of World War I and was on German payroll practically all the time since then. Would in Hentig's opinion also taken bribes from British, French or Italians.

SEE OVER

Hentig himself likes to bribe minor people, but he has a way of influencing Arab politicians and the leaders of tribes by flattering their vanity and playing on other weak points. He is an excellent organizer and the distribution of radios which can be found today in almost every Bedouin tent was his idea.

Beat his mother-in-law, his first wife left him and took the children to a hideout castle near Posen, whence he kidnapped them to Berlin. Scandal created, and case was finally settled in court when he won and the children were awarded him.

Had many enemies in Bogota, where he was involved in some brawl with a few rowdies "who had been hired to insult him". He was also involved in World War I when agitators were sent to British India - he was working then in the "Orient-Dienststell" 20 Tauentzienstrasse, Berlin W., where all the "dirty work" was done for the Wilhelmstrasse.

He does not think highly of Ribbentrop who in his eyes is a "nitwit", but has respect for the "feeling in his fingertips and the intuition Hitler undoubtedly has even about things and places he has never seen".

His ideas re the Arabs are (or were some 3 years ago) "that the Arab-speaking world is bound to become one day Germany's political 'Lebensraum', because the British seem to have lost their interest & on the other hand the Arabs really have become a nation". If he had a say, Jews born in Germany never would have been molested, but would have diminished the number of "Ostjuden" by helping them to emigrate to Palestine... "If Palestine got saturated with Eastern Jews the Arabs would rise against England and when the Arabs are infuriated against Great Britain it is always heyday for Germany." He says the Nazis should have forced the German Jews to "organize and even pay for the transportation to and the accommodation in Palestine of 'undesirables' of their own communities and those of Poland and other countries. This would have been an acceptable scheme which would have saved Germany from the effects of the boycott as well as from the stigma of mistreating defenseless victims".

Was honored by being sent as special representative of Fuehrer on occasion of marriage of the Iranian Crown Prince (now Shah) to the sister of King Farouk, which took place in Cairo. Papen requested his transfer to Ankara in 1940 but Hentig's feelings towards von Papen are not very friendly.

Made ardent efforts to resettle the "Christian Assyrians", had given his personal pledge to their leaders.....

Was for some time in charge of the "Forellenzucht", the building-up of character & knowledge of the new crop of attaches.....
