THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

VISIT AND REMARKS AT EMMA E. BOOKER ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

Tuesday, September 11, 2001

8:50 a.m. – 10:05 a.m.

Emma E. Booker Elementary School

Sarasota, Florida

Karl Rove

I. PURPOSE

To emphasize your commitment to education, especially minority achievement and reading, and call on Congress to pass the Education Reform bill.

II. BACKGROUND

The three goals of Reading Week are (1) to emphasize your commitment to education and the importance of reading; (2) to explain the current research on teaching reading and the importance of research-based teacher training in reading instruction; and (3) to motivate Congress not to delay needed education reforms.

A. About Your Reading Initiative

You have three reading initiatives in the House and the Senate ESEA bills currently in conference. Reading First would provide $900 million a year to help States and local districts implement comprehensive reading instruction in kindergarten through the third grade that is grounded in scientifically-based reading research. Early Reading First would provide $75 million to enhance pre-reading skills for children in model Head Start and other preschool programs. You have also proposed that States administer reading assessments to all students in grades 3-8, which is also in the education bill.

B. Emma E. Booker Elementary School

Emma E. Booker Elementary School is a high-poverty, minority school with 90 percent of its students receiving free and/or reduced lunch. Eighty percent of the students are African American. The school's motto is "High Expectations for All," and, in that spirit, the school's administration is focused on achieving success for all students by using good reading strategies. The school is participating in the Corner School Development Program, which is affiliated with Yale University and is designed to create a school climate in which parents, children, staff, and the community work together to respond to the students' academic and social needs. Collaboration, consensus, and a no-fault philosophy help give the school a unique learning environment. They also have a daily after school tutorial program for reading, writing, and math.

Emma E. Booker Elementary School is named for the African-American educator who started the first permanent school for blacks in the Sarasota area. It has a mandatory uniform policy and is one of only 300 schools nationwide implementing the Corner School Development Program. This year, its State school accountability grade moved from a "D" to a "C," partially because of improvement in its reading scores: the number of students scoring Level 2 and above (out of five levels) increased from 55% in 2000 to 63% in 2001; students scoring Level 3 and above increased from 36% in 2000 to 37% in 2001. Similar gains were made in mathematics and writing. They use SRA for reading, as well as direct instruction.

Thaddeus Lott, who is from Houston and pioneered the SRA instruction model form of instruction, visited the Emma E. Booker Elementary School in April to help them implement their research-based program.

III. PARTICIPANTS

Remarks at Emma E. Booker Elementary School – Sarasota, Florida
September 11, 2001
Draft #9

Purpose of Presidential Visit: To urge Congress to send an education reform bill to the President. This Reading Week event also highlights a school with a large minority and low-income student population that has achieved increasing success through an emphasis on reading, testing, and accountability.

Acknowledgments

- Secretary of Education Rod Paige (will introduce the President)
- Lieutenant Governor Frank Brogan (R-FL)
- Representative Dan Miller (R-FL)
- Representative Adam Putnam (R-FL)
- Mrs. Gwen Rigell [ri-GELL], Principal, Emma E. Booker Elementary School
- Wilma Hamilton, Superintendent, Sarasota County Public Schools
- Kay Daniels, Second Grade Teacher, Emma E. Booker Elementary
- Edwina Oliver, Emma E. Booker 2001 Teacher of the Year

Main Themes

- Science-based reading
- Final Congressional passage of the education reform bill

About Emma E. Booker Elementary School

- Emma E. Booker was an African-American educator who started the first permanent school for black students in the Sarasota area, in 1925.
- The school's motto is "High Expectations for All."
- The school's web site contains "Reading Tips" for parents, including a suggestion to spend at least 20 minutes every day reading at home.
- Every morning, students recite the Pledge of Allegiance and the Emma E. Booker Affirmation:
 "I believe knowledge is great power. I want to be well educated. I will learn the basic skills and beyond. I will complete all assignments. I will strive for punctuality and good attendance. I believe I can do anything if I work hard. I pledge this to my school, my family, and myself. Today's students, tomorrow's leaders!"

Suggested Lines

- We face a national crisis in education, and it demands immediate attention.
- Many people argue that we need to spend more money on education – and we provide record levels of funding for elementary and secondary education. But as this chart shows, we must combine resources with reform if we expect our children to learn.
- The stakes are high. Thirty-seven percent of fourth-graders cannot read at the basic level. That's almost 1.4 million children each year who can't read and understand a basic children's book. If we don't act this year, we'll lose another 1.4 million. If we don't act, we're basically telling children we don't care if you fail. But I do care. And this must stop.
- These children are silently shuffling through the system, and if they don't get help, they won't catch up. Studies show that 74 percent of students who aren't reading by the third grade and don't get research-based reading help will continue to have reading problems later in life. That's a terrible fate to offer a child.
- It will be a national scandal if this bill is delayed by partisan politics. Every child in America who cannot read will be on the conscience of those who stand in the way of reform.

GUEST OF THE PRESIDENT ABOARD AIR FORCE ONE

Name: Representative Dan Miller (R-13-FL)

Date: Tuesday, September 11, 2001

Participation: Will attend the Sarasota event and return to Washington, D.C., on Air Force One Purpose: The Sarasota event is being held in the Congressman's district.

Notes:

- Two weeks ago, the Administration released a decision by the Agriculture Department that favored sugar beets over sugar cane. The decision was a minor one, but not very well received in Florida. The Congressman had introduced a bill related to this topic.
- Every year the Congressman conducts a Congressional Classroom program, started by his predecessor, which brings one junior from every high school in the district to meet Washington leaders and stage a mock Congress.

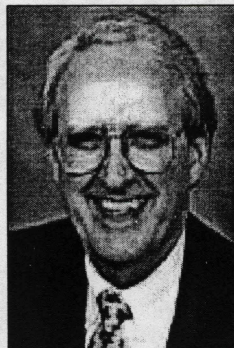

Background:

- U.S. House of Representatives, 1992-present
- Partner in the family-owned Miller Enterprises, which operates a diversified group of businesses, 1973-92
- Teacher (Statistics) at Louisiana State University, Georgia State University, and the University of Florida at Sarasota, 1969-83

Politics: Representative Miller's voting record has been conservative on economics and moderate on cultural issues. In February, Representative Miller sent a letter to The White House urging that extradition reform become a priority for the new administration. He currently serves on the Appropriations Subcommittee on Labor, Health, and Human Resources. Observing term limits, Congressman Miller has announced that he will retire at the end of his current term.

Legislation: During the 106th Congress, the majority of his work was oversight of the Census and the Census bureau. Representative Miller supported HR 1 and tax cuts. On May 16th his extradition amendment passed the House.

Bio:

U.S. Representative Dan Miller

Marital Status: Glenda

Children: Kathryn (28), Daniel (30)

Education: BA, University of Florida (1964),
MBA, Emory University (1965)
PhD, Louisiana St. U (1970)

Committees: Appropriations, Government Reform

Term: 5th Term

First Elected: 1992

GUEST OF THE PRESIDENT ON AIR FORCE ONE

Name: Representative Adam Putnam (R-12-FL)

Date: Tuesday, September 11, 2001

Participation: Will attend the Sarasota event and return to Washington, D.C., on Air Force One

Purpose: Select Congressional Members from the surrounding districts have been invited to attend the Sarasota event and return to Washington, D.C., aboard Air Force One.

Notes:

- Youngest Member of Congress at the age of 26
- His wife gave birth to their first child, Abigail Putnam, on (b)(6)

Background:

- U.S. House of Representatives, 2000-present
- Florida State Representative, 1997-2000

Politics: Representative Putnam is a conservative Republican who campaigned on elimination of the marriage tax penalty, increasing military pay, and lowering the capital gains tax. Putnam has yet to vote against the Administration on any issue.

Legislation: Representative Putnam has introduced three bills to date. One seeks to establish criminal penalties for the enticement of children, and the second would require written permission by a guardian before a minor can fly. The third seeks to establish a farmland stewardship program to target existing conservation efforts.

MEETING WITH CATHOLIC HISPANIC BISHOPS

Tuesday, September 11, 2001
2:15 p.m. – 3:00 p.m.
Roosevelt Room
John DiIulio

I. PURPOSE

The purpose of this meeting is two-fold:

- To engage key Hispanic religious leaders in a discussion of partnership regarding opportunities that encourage and support community-serving ministries, particularly those in the Latino community.
- To provide a platform that recognizes the Latino Catholic faith community and its contributions to our country.

II. BACKGROUND

The Hispanic community is the largest minority group in America with a population of more than thirty-five million. This community is deeply religious and predominantly Catholic (70%), which means that at least one out of every four Catholics in America is of Hispanic origin. There are only twenty-six Hispanic Bishops in the United States' Catholic Church. This means these leaders will play an even-more critical role as the Hispanic community grows in size.

Although you have met with Catholic leadership on a number of occasions, this will be the first time to meet with a group that is exclusively Latino and exclusively Catholic. Some members of the delegation have been involved in other Latino clergy events in which you have participated, and some will also be involved in the first annual National Hispanic Prayer Breakfast to which you will speak on October 4, 2001. Archbishop Patrick Flores will be one of five individuals to offer a prayer during the Prayer Breakfast.

III. PARTICIPANTS

Most Reverend Patrick Flores, Archbishop of San Antonio, Texas
Reverend Virgil Elizondo, Professor, Notre Dame University, South Bend, Indiana
Most Reverend Richard J. Garcia, Auxiliary Bishop, Sacramento, California

Most Reverend Manuel Moreno, Tucson, Arizona
Most Reverend Carlos Sevilla, Bishop of Yakima, Washington
Most Reverend Arthur Tafoya, Bishop of Pueblo, Colorado
Most Reverend Gabino Zavala, Auxiliary Bishop, Los Angeles, California

John DiIulio, Director, OFBCI
Lisa Trevino Cummins, Corporation for National Service Task Force on Faith-Based and Community Initiatives
Judge Albert Gonzales, Counsel
Tim Goeglein, Deputy Director, Public Liaison

Biographies of Catholic Bishops

BISHOPS' BIOGRAPHIES

Most Reverend Patrick Flores, Archbishop of San Antonio, Texas

He is the highest-ranking Hispanic Bishop in the U.S. Catholic hierarchy and is known as the "Mariachi Bishop" because of his fondness for music and dancing. Archbishop Flores is the son of a migrant farm worker, and in 1979 he became the Nation's first Mexican-American Catholic Bishop. Often mentioned as a candidate for Cardinal, Archbishop Flores plays a key role in serving and assisting the poor.

Reverend Virgil Elizondo, Professor, University of Notre Dame, South Bend, Indiana

Reverend Elizondo is known as the "Father of U.S. Latino Religious Thought" because of his numerous books and articles. He has received many honors, including The Laetare Medal, the highest honor awarded by The University of Notre Dame.

Most Reverend Richard J. Garcia, Auxiliary Bishop, Sacramento, California

Reverend Garcia received his doctorate in theology in 1984 at The Vatican in Rome, Italy. He has served as Auxiliary Bishop of the Diocese of Sacramento since 1997.

Most Reverend Manuel Moreno, Tucson, Arizona

Reverend Moreno was formerly Auxiliary Bishop of Los Angeles and is currently involved in ministry issues related to the poor. He pastors more than three hundred thousand Roman Catholics in the Diocese of Tucson, Arizona.

Most Reverend Carlos Sevilla, Bishop of Yakima, Washington

Bishop Sevilla is a Jesuit priest and was formerly a professor in San Francisco, CA. He presides over a diocese that is heavily influenced by migrant farm workers.

Most Reverend Arthur Tafoya, Bishop of Pueblo, Colorado

A native of New Mexico, Bishop Tafoya serves as Chairman of the Hispanic Affairs Committee for the National Conference of Catholic Bishops.

Most Reverend Gabino Zavala, Auxiliary Bishop, Los Angeles, California

Bishop Zavala was born in Mexico and was ordained into the Priesthood in 1977. He is the Bishop's Liaison to Prison and Detention Ministry for the California Catholic Conference and is actively involved in promoting the Catholic Church's focus on the Hispanic population.

MEETING WITH MUSLIM- AND ARAB-AMERICAN LEADERS

Tuesday, September 11, 2001
3:05 p.m. – 3:50 p.m.
Oval Office and Roosevelt Room
Karl Rove

I. PURPOSE

To meet with key leaders of the Muslim- and Arab-American communities.

II. BACKGROUND

Invited guests represent the top 12 key Muslim- and Arab-American public policy and political organizations.

There are more than seven million Muslim-Americans in the United States today, and of these three million are Arab-Americans. Additionally, Muslim-Americans are among the fastest growing demographic groups in America.

The Muslim- and Arab-American communities are composed of a diverse spectrum of people and viewpoints. Despite media stereotyping and widely held misconceptions, these communities share many of the same values and beliefs with Americans of other faiths.

This meeting was originally scheduled for March 5, 2001, but was cancelled and rescheduled for today.

III. PARTICIPANTS

Khaled Saffuri	Islamic Institute
Dr. Yahyah Basha	American Muslim Council
Dr. Muzzamil Siddiqui	Islamic Society of North America
Dr. Amanullah Khan	Association of Pakistani Physicians
George R. Salem	Arab-American Institute

3:20 p.m. Enter Roosevelt Room with Secretary Abraham and begin meeting with the additional leaders of the Muslim- and Arab- American communities.

3:50 p.m. Conclude meeting

VI. REMARKS

Key domestic issues supported by the Muslim- and Arab-American communities include your commitment to strengthening American families, abstinence education, character education, the faith-based and community initiative, and education reform. Thank them for their support on these issues and urge their continued assistance to pass legislative components of your agenda.

Meeting attendees will ask for updates on classified evidence, racial profiling, and the conflict in the Middle East, which are explained in the attached briefings.

Islamic Institute

Islamic Institute Background:

Out of a strong desire to involve the Muslim community in the American political process, Khaled Saffuri, a veteran political insider, founded the Islamic Institute in 1998. In the previous ten years, he had built an unparalleled record of commitment to the Muslim community. This has included establishing the American Task Force for Bosnia (ATFB) in 1992; spearheading the first official celebration of Ramadan, hosted by First Lady Hillary Clinton; and serving as a director for Government Affairs for the American Muslim Council (AMC).

Dr. Yahyah Basha

American Muslim Council

American Muslim Council Background:

The American Muslim Council was established in 1990 to increase the effective participation of American Muslims in the U.S. political and public policy arenas. The American Muslim population, estimated at seven million, comprises Americans of all races and ethnic backgrounds. AMC aims to promote ethical values that enhance the quality of life for all Americans and to catalyze the greater presence of American Muslims in mainstream public life.

The American Muslim Council played a key role in political advocacy for American Muslims throughout the 1990s, initiating many of the historic events marking the entrance of Islam into mainstream American culture. AMC hosted Imam Siraj Wahhaj (1991) and Imam Warith D. Mohammed (1992), who made the first Islamic invocations (opening prayers) before the House of Representatives and Senate, respectively. At the 1992 and 1996 Republican and Democratic party conventions, AMC joined other Muslim organizations in hosting hospitality suites. AMC continues to hold regular voter registration drives to mobilize American Muslims for a political role.

Through the early 1990s, AMC campaigned against the genocide in Bosnia, organizing rallies, developing interfaith coalitions, and lobbying for legislation against the U.N. arms embargo against Bosnia. In 1997 AMC worked toward developing a more balanced Freedom from Religious Persecution Act. Since the mid-1990s, AMC has also sought to ensure legislation and policies to protect national security safeguard civil rights. This year, AMC has worked to abolish the use of "secret evidence," which keeps immigrants in jail without their having the right to see the evidence used against them.

Muslim Public Affairs Council
Muslim Public Affairs Council

Muslim Public Affairs Council (MPAC) Background:

The Muslim Public Affairs Council is a public service agency working for the civil rights of American Muslims, for the integration of Islam into American pluralism, and for a positive and constructive relationship between American Muslims and their representatives. MPAC was founded in 1988 as a non-profit social welfare organization with a 501(c)(4) tax status.

MPAC intends to build the American Muslim constituency and make this body an influential component in U.S. politics. MPAC is a non-partisan body that works at all levels of the policy-making arena – local, county, state, and national. It is not affiliated or attached to any government agency.

MPAC aims to achieve a positive relationship with other groups in order to promote values shared with Islam, which are based on ethical principles, justice, and equality, irrespective of race, gender, color, or creed. MPAC endeavors to make Islamic ethical values available to the American political process. On account of the leadership role America exercises in the world, MPAC is also concerned with upholding these values in the international arena.

Dr. Muzzamil Siddiqui Islamic Society of North America

Islamic Society of North America (ISNA) Background:

ISNA is an association of Muslim organizations and individuals that serve the diverse needs of Muslims in North America. ISNA's mission is to provide a unified platform of expression for Islam, to develop educational and social services that translate the teachings of the Qur'an and the Sunnah into everyday living, and to enhance Islamic identity in the Society.

Dr. Agha Saeed American Muslim Alliance
Eric Vickers American Muslim Alliance

American Muslim Alliance Background:

The American Muslim Alliance is a grassroots organization concentrating on voter registration; political education and leadership training; de-mystifying the American political system; and creating organized political structures at district, county, state, and national levels to bring about organized participation in the two-party system; formation of political clubs; getting American Muslims elected as national- and state-level delegates; institutionalized participation in presidential, senatorial, congressional, and other state and local level campaigns; organized participation in national and state conventions; setting up internship programs for Muslim Youth; training American Muslim candidates to run for various public offices; getting American Muslims appointed and/or hired for politically relevant positions; developing institutionalized capability for political research and analysis; and building coalitions with other citizens' groups.

Omar Ahmad Council on American Islamic Relations (CAIR)

Council on American Islamic Relations (CAIR) Background:

The Council on American Islamic Relations (CAIR) is a non-profit, grassroots membership organization with headquarters in Washington, D.C., and chapters across America. CAIR was established to promote a positive image of Islam and Muslims in America. They believe misrepresentations of Islam are most often the result of ignorance on the part of non-Muslims and reluctance on the part of Muslims to articulate their case.

CAIR is dedicated to presenting an Islamic perspective on issues of importance to the American public. In offering that perspective, they seek to empower the Muslim community in America through political and social activism.

American Arab Anti-Defamation Committee

American-Arab Anti-Defamation Committee (ADC) Background:

The American-Arab Anti-Defamation Committee (ADC) is a Civil Rights organization committed to defending the rights of people of Arab descent and promoting their rich cultural heritage. ADC, which is non-sectarian and non-partisan, is the largest Arab-American grassroots organization in the United States. It was founded in 1980 by former Senator James Abourezk and has chapters nationwide.

Through its Department of Legal Services, ADC offers counseling in cases of discrimination and defamation and selected impact litigation in the areas of immigration.

ADC is at the forefront combating defamation and negative stereotyping of Arab Americans in the media and wherever else it is practiced. In doing so, it acts as an organized framework through which Arab Americans can channel their efforts toward unified, collective, and effective advocacy by promoting a more balanced U.S. Middle East policy and serving as a reliable source for the news media and educators. By promoting cultural events and participating in community activities, ADC has made great strides in correcting anti-Arab stereotypes and humanizing the image of the Arab people. In all these efforts, ADC coordinates closely with other civil rights and human rights organizations on issues of common concern.

W. Deen Mohammed

Muslim American Society

Muslim American Society Background:

The Muslim American Society is an Islamic community in association with the leadership of Imam W. Deen Mohammed. This society proclaims in word and deed the universal message of Al-Islam that there is but one God and one human family.

We are committed to establish a balanced community life in its broadest sense, witnessing the eternal wisdom of the Words of God and the life exemplified by Prophet Muhammad.

Imam W. Deen Mohammed was born to Honorable Elijah (Poole) and Clara (Evans) Mohammed on (b)(6). He has represented Muslims in America at Oxford, the World Parliament of Religious Leaders for the Survival of the Earth, and at the signing of the Williamsburg Charter. He has served on the Advisory Panel for Religious Freedom Abroad formed by Secretary of State Madeline Albright.

George R. Salem

Arab-American Institute

Arab-American Institute Background:

The Arab American Institute was organized in 1985 to represent Arab-American interests in government and politics. AAI provides leadership training and strategies in electoral politics and policy issues that concern Arab-Americans.

The institute serves as a clearinghouse for Arab-American participation in national, state, and local politics and government; research on the Arab-American constituency; and a forum for consensus positions on pressing domestic and foreign policy matters.

Through its board and staff, AAI acts as a resource to U.S. opinion and policy makers on a range of Arab-American policy concerns, including U.S. Middle East policy and political trends in the Arab world.

Dr. James J. Zogby is founder of the Arab American Institute (AAI), a Washington, D.C.-based organization that serves as the political and policy research arm of the Arab-American community. He has also served as head of the Arab-American Democratic Advisory Council of the Democratic National Committee.

George Salem is President of the Arab-American Institute. Mr. Salem served as solicitor general at the Department of Labor during the Reagan Administration and was chairman of Arab-Americans for President George H. W. Bush's 1988 and 1992 campaigns.

Muslim Women Lawyers for Human Rights (KARAMAH)

Muslim Women Lawyers for Human Rights (KARAMAH) Background:

Since its inception in 1993, the Muslim Women Lawyers for Human Rights (KARAMAH) has been committed to advancing an Islamic perspective on issues of human rights. The Board of Directors includes American Muslim women lawyers, experts in mediation and conflict resolution, and experts in Islamic jurisprudence. Over the years, KARAMAH has worked vigorously to educate the general public about human rights in Islam. In recognition of their efforts, the White House has invited members of KARAMAH's Board of Directors to several White House functions, including a reception in honor of the Muslim festival of Eid hosted by the President and an advisory meeting regarding the administration's civil right's initiative. KARAMAH is committed to research, education, and advocacy work in matters pertaining to Muslim women and human rights in Islam.

KARAMAH (or blessing) is a reciprocal concept. It is a claim that each one of us makes upon society, but it is also a claim that society rightfully makes upon us. We must live up to the expectations of KARAMAH.

ANNUAL CONGRESSIONAL BARBECUE

Tuesday, September 11, 2001
Wednesday, September 12, 2001 (Raindate)
6:00 p.m. - 9:00 p.m.
The South Lawn
Nicholas E. Calio

I. PURPOSE

To attend the Congressional Barbecue and spend time with Congressional Members and their families in a social and casual setting.

II. BACKGROUND

The tradition of the annual Congressional Barbecue dates back to the Reagan Administration and has taken on many different themes. Last year, there were carnival rides on the South Lawn. You will host a more conventional event with picnic tables, barbecue sandwiches provided by Tom Perini, and musical entertainment by "Asleep at the Wheel."

You should be aware that there was some concern on the part of Members because children were not originally invited to attend. Children have now been invited. According to the Usher's Office, children have only been invited to attend the event two times since the tradition began.

III. PARTICIPANTS

Members of Congress
Congressional Senior Staff
The Cabinet

Asleep at the Wheel, Entertainment
Tom Perini, Food Service, Buffalo Gap, Texas

White House Senior Staff
White House Legislative Affairs Office
White House Political Affairs Office

IV. PRESS PLAN

Open Press for a portion of the entertainment and during your remarks.

V. SEQUENCE OF EVENTS

- 5:30 p.m. Guests begin to arrive at the East Entrance and are directed to the Diplomatic Reception Room.
- 6:00 p.m. You and Mrs. Bush arrive at the Diplomatic Reception Room to greet guests informally. Guests will then proceed to the South Lawn.
- 6:40 p.m. You and Mrs. Bush proceed to South Lawn to go through the food service line on east side of South Lawn, then proceed to your table on west side of South Lawn. Guests proceed through line, then are seated at tables that are scattered throughout South Lawn.
- 7:20 p.m. At the conclusion of dinner, "Asleep at the Wheel" begins performing on the stage located on the west side of South Lawn.
- 8:20 p.m. At the conclusion of the entertainment, you and Mrs. Bush proceed to the stage where you will deliver brief remarks and thank the entertainers.
- 8:30 p.m. After a brief Mix-and-Mingle, you and Mrs. Bush depart the South Lawn to the Residence via Diplomatic Entrance

VI. REMARKS

At your discretion. None formally prepared.
