Yvette Gavin is an elite people development strategist, certified leadership and personal development trainer, international speaker and the founder of Yvette Gavin Consulting, LLC. She is notably known for her work with the United State Government, her facilitation of leadership workshops for the U. S. Consulate in Brazil, the Centers for Disease Control, and The Georgia National Guard, and her overall ability to build thriving workplaces through dynamic training programs.

An Oral Roberts University graduate, Yvette is known for her ability to build high-performing Information Technology (IT) teams. She has held progressive leadership roles at Lockheed-Martin Aeronautical, AT&T, Cbeyond and Cox Communications. Yvette has proven herself as a thought leader in strengthening small and large companies and navigating careers across changing landscapes which she outlines in her book, Recalibrate! Navigating The Job Market with Confidence.

Yvette is a former reporter for the Atlanta Journal Constitution and a former Black Enterprise contributor, a BOSS Network Influencer, a certified Prevention and Relationship Enhancement Program (PREP) facilitator; a certified life coach with the International Christian Coaching Association (ICCA); and a certified leadership coach with the John C. Maxwell Team. Combining her passion and experience of building thriving workplace and personal relationships, Yvette has spoken at multiple conferences and appeared on radio and television programs as a leadership and relationship advisor.

The Georgia National Guard Chaplain Corp bestowed upon Yvette the Exemplary Performance Award while serving as an instructor for the Strong Bonds Marriage Conference. Her overall goal is to help others achieve their highest potential professionally, spiritually, and personally.
