

Ingram Micro Training Development-as-a-Service

Innovative Training Solutions for Today's Dynamic Technology Channel

The technology landscape is changing more quickly than it has in a generation. Channel partners are responsible for delivering technology to their clients in new and exciting ways and it's critical that technology vendors provide current and engaging training to ensure an exceptional experience that delivers results. Ingram Micro Professional & Training Services now offers OEM partners the opportunity to leverage its content development expertise and unique delivery platforms to customize and deliver training and enablement solutions to channel partners and their clients quickly and cost effectively.

Service Overview

Training Development-as-a Service (TDaaS) is a holistic learning experience design and development methodology, FIT® (Flexible Integrated Training). FIT® can be leveraged to build and deliver unique, compelling and relevant training and enablement programs designed to engage and empower learners while transforming the way we share knowledge, collaborate and experience learning.
