MY PAYMENT NETWORK'S SCHOOLPAY® AFFIRMS ITS MARKET LEADERSHIP IN FL BY SIGNING TWO ADDITIONAL FL COUNTIES

Middleware Approach to K12 Payments Key to Large District Adoption

MADISON, WI – May 3, 2011 – My Payment Network, Inc. (MPN) announced today that it has signed agreements with Orange County Public Schools and St. Johns County Public Schools in Florida. These districts will use the SchoolPay service to collect online payments from parents. Palm Beach Public Schools has already been using the SchoolPay service for three years. Adding significant districts such as these both expands MPN's presence in Florida and strengthens their position as the Florida school district eCommerce service provider of choice.

“SchoolPay was built to give parents one online destination to make all of their school payments and school administrators one flexible payment solution to reliably share and monitor integrity across data that is shared between and with other district systems,” said David Dunaway, CEO of My Payment Network. Mr. Dunaway added, “Adding Orange County and St. Johns County are wonderful stamps of approval for SchoolPay. We are proud and excited to add these two districts to our network of K12 school districts”.

St. Johns County will begin a limited roll-out in May. Orange County will be live for the 2011-2012 school year.
