

REPRODUCING AAWC WOUND IMAGES POLICY

www.AAWCOnline.org

Images from the AAWC Educational Image Series may be reproduced after purchase for educational purposes without obtaining permission if

1. the primary purpose of the material is to educate about wounds and/or product/treatment options, and either 2 or 3 below applies
2. generic names are used to describe products and therapies, or
3. the material refers to multiple, comparable products belonging to different companies

The images must also be properly credited:

Printed Materials

The following identifying information must be appropriately adapted and added (near the photo or as a footnote) to any printed materials on which a photo is being used:

Lectures/ Presentations

In cases where a lecture is being given, please include “© 200_ AAWC” beneath each image shown to the audience. The year of copyright can be found on the AAWC Educational Image Series CD ROMs and their jewel cases or by calling AAWC at 866-AAWC-999 or 610-560-0484. It is requested, but not required, that verbal identification also be given to the audience, similar to that shown above for print materials.

Restriction: The images may not be reproduced on advertising materials which promote the exclusive use of a product. If the materials are questionable, permission should be obtained in advance by contacting the AAWC Business Office at 866-AAWC-999 or 610-560-0484.
