Chapter 5 – The Freest of All God’s Acts

Grasping the Big Idea

1. From pages 74-75, How does Piper explain that grace existed even before the Fall?
2. On page 76, Piper says that “grace toward sinners is the freest of all God’s acts.” What does he mean by this, and why does it matter?
3. From pages 77-78. How does Exodus 33:19 reveal the divine freedom of grace?
4. From page 80. What theological truth does Piper draw from Romans 11:5–6 to support the unconditional nature of grace?

Challenged to Change

1. Are there areas in your life where you subtly believe you’ve earned God’s favor—through obedience, suffering, or performance?

2. How does understanding grace as truly free transform your motivation for prayer, service, or worship?

3. What steps can you take to cultivate humility and wonder before the sheer freeness of God's grace?

Praying for Change

Thank God for grace that is utterly free and undeserved. Ask Him to remove any lingering pride or performance mindset, and to anchor your identity in His mercy alone. Rejoice that you cannot buy what He delights to give.
