Healing is Holy Work.
THANK YOU.

Palmer is blessed to sit just outside the entrance to the world-renowned Texas Medical Center, where thousands of people each day dedicate themselves to the work of healing. Physicians, nurses, therapists, researchers, chaplains, technicians, custodial teams, administrative staff, caregivers, and countless others contribute to the care and well-being of our community.

As a simple gesture of gratitude, Palmer has placed a banner facing Fannin Street that reads:
"Healing is Holy Work. Thank You."

We hope these words catch the eye of someone on their way into the Medical Center and serve as a reminder that their work matters. Whether they are providing direct patient care, supporting families, advancing research, offering spiritual care, or working behind the scenes, their efforts are an important part of bringing healing and hope into the world.
