RUTH 1-4

Ruth lived with her mother-in-law, Naomi, in the land of Moab. The women were alone and had no one to care for them. Naomi told Ruth it was time for Naomi to return to her home and family in Judah. Ruth chose to go to Judah with Naomi.

Ruth and Naomi packed their belongings and started on the journey. God took care of the women and provided for them. After many days, Ruth and Naomi arrived in Bethlehem. The people in the town were excited to see the women.

After settling in Bethlehem, the women needed to get food. It was the beginning of the barley harvest. Ruth told Naomi that she would go to the fields and pick up grain left by the field workers.

As she gathered grain, Ruth met a man named Boaz. Boaz owned the grain field. Boaz told Ruth to gather all the grain she needed from his fields.

When Ruth returned home, she told Naomi about kind Boaz. Naomi said, “Boaz is our relative.” Naomi knew then that Boaz would help her and Ruth.

And Boaz did take care of Ruth’s family. After some time, Boaz married Ruth and she became his wife. All the people in town agreed this was the right thing to do.

Later, Ruth and Boaz had a baby. They named the baby Obed.

God Cares

God took care of Ruth and Naomi as they traveled and when they reached their new home. God takes care of you, too.
