REFLECT

GOD'S LOVING CARE

Two readings today refer to the northeast region of ancient Israel: "the land of Zebulun and the land of Naphtali." Upon hearing these names, some of us might consult maps and determine exactly where these regions lie. Others might let the unfamiliar names drift by unnoticed. If no maps are handy—but we don't want to ignore the references completely—consider this: we might not know the latitude and longitude of Zebulun and Naphtali, but God does. We praise God for watching over every inch of land and sea, caring perfectly for each creature on the planet. While Isaiah celebrates the depth of God's care with "abundant joy and great rejoicing," Saint Paul begs us to remember how the Lord shows this loving care: through the cross. In today's Gospel, Jesus calls Peter, James, and John to follow him. We follow too, confident that God accompanies us, wherever we are.

PONDER

Ordinary Time

Between the end of the Christmas season and the start of Lent, the liturgical year begins a period known as Ordinary Time. That season is interrupted by the seasons of Lent and Easter, and then resumes again after Pentecost. The English translation of the Latin name for this season has received much criticism because of our association of the word "ordinary" with something of lesser value, the opposite of something special. Critics point out that Sunday is the original feast day of the Church, that there is nothing at all "ordinary" about our weekly celebration of the Lord's dying and rising. Translators explain that in this context the English word "ordinary" retains the root meaning of "ordinal," something counted "in order," and that the Sundays throughout the year are in fact named by their numerical order.

It is helpful to understand how all five of the "special" seasons of the liturgical year (Advent, Christmas, Ordinary Time, Lent, Easter) fit together to unfold the single mystery of Christ. As we continue the year now with Ordinary Time, we are mindful that what we celebrate is indeed as "extraordinary" an experience of God's grace as one could ever imagine.

Fully Alive

Liturgical Living for Every Day

Verses

"How many verses shall we sing?" Musicians and assemblies in Catholic parishes frequently take a shortcut on hymn verses. When Catholic assemblies first started singing, we usually picked four hymns and timidly sang two verses of each. Many assemblies still sing only two verses of a hymn, a practice that would surely puzzle the composer of its text. Perhaps our social experience inspired us: Americans proudly sing the national anthem at most every important civic and sporting event-but only the first verse!

A hymn has a point to make. The verses relate a single idea from beginning to end. Singing part of a hymn is like reciting part of a poem or reading part of a book. Some hymns to the Trinity praise one Person of the Godhead in each verse; musicians who lop off the third verse to the Holy Spirit violate one of the principal beliefs in Christianity.

Although most hymns should be sung completely, there are some exceptions. Sometimes the composer intends only part of the piece to be sung. Such songs usually feature a refrain-a few words you sing over and again. A refrain brings our meditation home while the choir or a soloist sings verses in between. Such verses refract the words of the refrain like light through a prism. Since some parts of the Mass vary in length, such as the Entrance Procession and the Communion Procession, we often sing music with refrains at that time. We can vary the number of verses to fit the action. However, if the text of the music has a bigger point to make, we sing the whole piece.

Some hymns conclude with a sung "Amen." But even though it may appear in the hymnal at the end of a piece, many Catholic musicians and assemblies see it like invisible ink. A sung "Amen" can give a firm assent to the devotion the hymn invites. Omitting it threatens sincerity. A minimal approach to verses invites a minimal approach to singing.

Gathered at the table of the Lord, let us lift our voices 'round God's throne, where they will give due praise when we sing with meaning and full intent.

Hey Family, Let's Talk About This!

Why would the musicians decide to cut a hymn short during Mass?

What could be lost if the congregation doesn't sing all of the verses of a hymn?

What is your favorite hymn to sing at Mass?

Prayer for Vocations

Jesus, you are the Good Shepherd. You know each of us and call us by name. Help us to respond generously to your voice by opening our hearts to discern your holy will. We pray especially for those whom you are calling to serve the church as priests, deacons, sisters, and brothers. Give courage and guidance to all, so that we may respond to your call and serve you devoutly.
