ANOINTING OF THE SICK

The Catechism of the Catholic Church (#1514-1515) teaches that this sacrament is not only for those at the point of death, but for anyone seriously ill or facing serious surgery. In fact, it is preferred that parishioners entering the hospital for surgery should ask the priest for this sacrament before being admitted. Parishioners should never wait until the last minute to call. We encourage parishioners facing surgery to let the parish priest know of their condition before entering the hospital so that they can be anointed before admission.

Shepherd's Corner

I am the good shepherd, and I know mine and mine know me

I once read an interesting book called A Century of Catholic Converts. This book was filled with short biographies of people who were not born into the Catholic faith but chose to become Catholic later in life. One of these stories was about an American actor who considered himself a Presbyterian. He was married three times to Catholic women, and he raised all his children as Catholics. It was only on his deathbed that he was received into the Catholic Church. Who was this actor? It was the legendary actor, John Wayne.

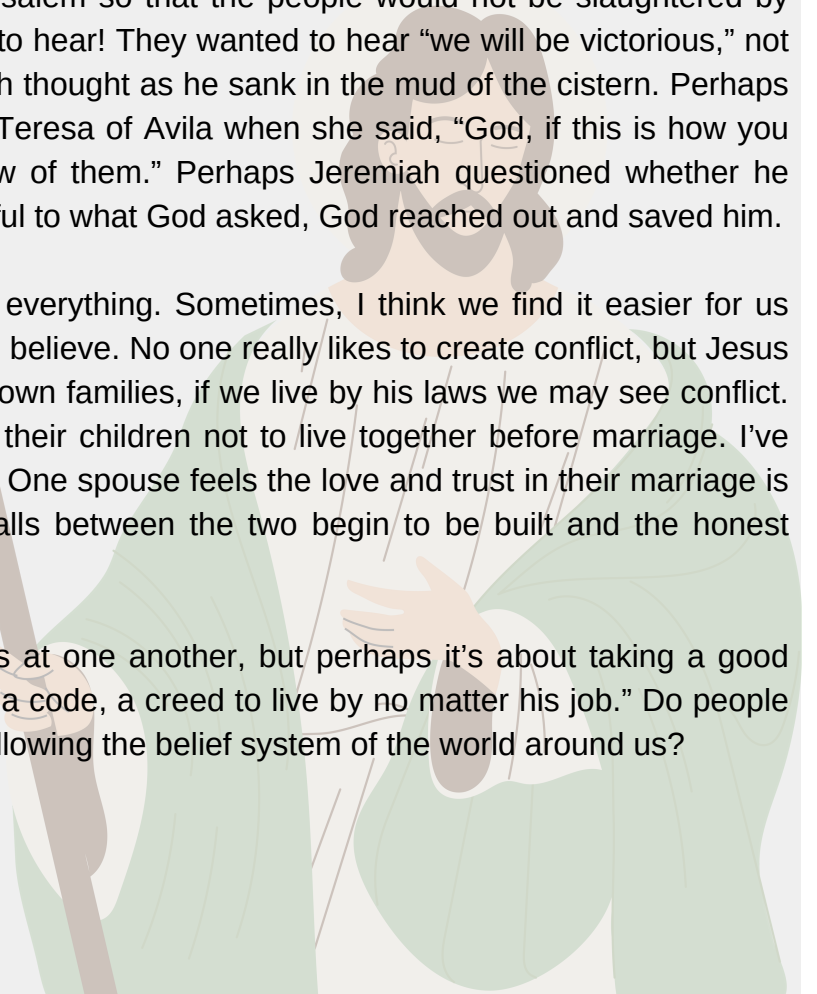

My Dad liked Westerns, so I heard a lot about people like John Wayne. I think it was my father who told me that John Wayne once said, "A man's got to have a code, a creed to live by no matter his job." My Dad was trying to teach me that I shouldn't simply go along with the crowds. Rather (using another Western metaphor), I was to "stick to my guns" and live out what I said I believed.

This memory came to mind with the readings today because taking a stand for what we believe in can be difficult. In the first reading, the prophet Jeremiah was thrown into a cistern to die because he spoke God's message to the people. Short history here: God told Jeremiah to tell the people they should surrender to the army that was besieging Jerusalem so that the people would not be slaughtered by the enemy. That's not what the people wanted to hear! They wanted to hear "we will be victorious," not "we need to surrender." I wonder what Jeremiah thought as he sank in the mud of the cistern. Perhaps he thought something along the lines of Saint Teresa of Avila when she said, "God, if this is how you treat your friends, no wonder you have so few of them." Perhaps Jeremiah questioned whether he heard God correctly. Yet, because he was faithful to what God asked, God reached out and saved him.

In our life, not everyone will agree with us on everything. Sometimes, I think we find it easier for us NOT to say something than to express what we believe. No one really likes to create conflict, but Jesus is reminding his followers that, even within our own families, if we live by his laws we may see conflict. I've seen tension in families when parents tell their children not to live together before marriage. I've witnessed the destruction pornography causes. One spouse feels the love and trust in their marriage is being destroyed, but they fail to speak up; walls between the two begin to be built and the honest communication between the two fails.

I'm not suggesting we go out and point fingers at one another, but perhaps it's about taking a good honest look at ourselves. "A man's got to have a code, a creed to live by no matter his job." Do people see us living by our Creed, or do they see us following the belief system of the world around us?

Peace and Blessings,
Fr. Mike
