| Gracious God, you invite us to a festival of praise, a praise made possible because we can give our worries and our burdens to you. You take from us the concerns that weigh us down, the stresses of life, the challenges of work and relationships, and in exchange you give us peace -- blessed and blissful peace. It doesn't make sense. Nothing outward has changed. Yet, when we place ourselves in your care, nothing is the same, and for that we humbly say, "thank you." Amen.                                                                                                                                    |                            |                        |
