LEAD THROUGH SERVICE WITH A SOCIAL & HUMAN SERVICES DEGREE.

The human services field is growing rapidly, and the world needs more servant-leaders like you to make a difference. At SWU, we believe leaders begin by serving, and the BS in Social & Human Services degree prepares you with rigorous coursework, internships that give you real-world experience, and a holistic approach to human services education. In the Social & Human Services program, you'll study the core attitudes, knowledge, skills, and values required for success in the field.

You can customize your BS in Social & Human Services with one of our emphases, and you'll graduate with a capstone experience centering on an internship or a research project. The coursework you'll complete addresses learning outcomes set by the Council for Standards in Human Services Education and the requirements for becoming a Human Services Board-Certified Practitioner. If you're interested in an MS in Counseling Psychology, you can take dual credit courses in your senior year to complete both your BS and MS in 5.5 years.
