Rally for the Spirit

by Nikki Jackson

As summer and all its seasonal activities come to a close, a familiar tune keeps swirling around in my head: "Earth and All Stars." The lyrics were written by Herbert F. Brokering in 1964 to commemorate the 90th anniversary of St. Olaf College, with the tune composed by David N. Johnson, who had served as chairman of St. Olaf's music department.

Verse five keeps playing over and over: "Classrooms and labs, loud boiling test tubes," along with "Athlete and band, loud cheering people." The words seem particularly fitting as a new school year begins, classrooms fill again, and the first football games of the season kick-off.

September also brings a "kick-off" at church – a regathering after summer with Rally Sunday, a time to return to Sunday School and reconnect with church activities. With "Earth and All Stars" swirling through my head, I turned to Eau Claire newspapers from around the time the hymn was written to see what Rally Day looked like in the early 1960s.

In early September, the Daily Telegram was filled with announcements and advertisements for Rally Day at Christian churches throughout the Chippewa Valley. Ascension Church was worshiping in the little church on Fay Street (that I wrote about last month). Our Redeemer's new south-side church plant, Peace Lutheran Church, was still in its infancy, while Our Savior's Lutheran Church had recently moved into its modern building on Main Street.

For some of us members of Saving Grace, these newspaper notices may bring back memories of our own. Learning memory verses, singing "Jesus Loves Me," and earning attendance awards come to my mind! Some in our congregation may have even been among the children heading back to Sunday School at one of these Eau Claire churches more than sixty years ago – or remember a Rally Day at another church much like it.

First Lutheran and Grace Lutheran Church each went a step further by taking out quarter-page advertisements in the newspaper. Grace's 1962 advertisement particularly caught my attention. Rather than simply announcing the date and time of Rally Day, Pastor Marcus Gravdal wrote an open letter inviting Eau Claire residents to become part of their church community.

"This Sunday, September 9 is RALLY DAY in most Christian Churches including Grace," he wrote. He connected the occasion with Christ's command to "make disciples of all people," an echo of the Great Commission in Matthew 29:19: "Go therefore and make disciples of all nations."

The advertisement is a reminder that Rally Day wasn't simply a "welcome back" Sunday for children returning to Sunday School. It was an opportunity for the entire congregation to rally around Christian education, discipleship and service – and to invite others to hear the good news of the Gospel.

As another school year begins – with classrooms and labs, athletes and bands – and as we gather again for another year at Saving Grace, perhaps Brokering's invitation to "sing to the Lord a new song" is also an invitation to begin anew ourselves. Invite a friend. Find a new way to serve. Join a committee. Return to Sunday School or Bible study. On September 13, let us come together and Rally for the Spirit!

A message from Pastor David

⁹*Let love be genuine; hate what is evil, hold fast to what is good;* ¹⁰*love one another with mutual affection; outdo one another in showing honour.* ¹¹*Do not lag in zeal, be ardent in spirit, serve the Lord.* ¹²*Rejoice in hope, be patient in suffering, persevere in prayer.* ¹³*Contribute to the needs of the saints; extend hospitality to strangers.*

(Romans 12:9-13)

In 197 AD Tertullian (the father of Western Theology) wrote a theological treatise called Apologeticum or "The Apology" in defense of the Christian Faith among the Romans. In the early church there was a growing significance of the church in the general population because of the way Christians treated one another. Tertullian said, "It is our care for the helpless, our practice of lovingkindness, that brands us in the eyes of many of our opponents. 'Look!' they say. 'How they (Christians) love one another! Look how they are prepared to die for one another'" (Apologeticum, Tertullian, Chapter 39).

The Greek writer who was a pagan, Lucian of Samosata wrote, "The Passing of Peregrinus" in about 165 AD about how Christians behaved with one another. "It is incredible to see the fervor with which the people of that religion (Christianity) help each other in their wants. They spare nothing. Their first lawgiver [Jesus] persuaded them that they are all brothers of one another" (The Passing of Peregrinus, section 13).

"Let love be genuine, hate what is evil, hold fast to what is good."* (Romans 12:9)

Sure sounds good, or does it? As long as the one it benefits is me - it's good. But what if we don't benefit? What if it costs us something, a percentage, something out of our pocketbook, or maybe my time, talents or something I can't think of right now. Well, wait a New York minute, that's not fair. It makes me a little uncomfortable, it infringes on my rights, what I want, what I earned, what I deserve. Or maybe we're still looking at it through the wrong lens.

If we don't begin with GOD: the Father, Son and Holy Spirit we'll always be centered on ourselves. We are doomed to always be worried about my rights, my happiness, my success, or...maybe my fears. So, do you hear it? Do you hear the clashing of the two kingdoms colliding? The Kingdom of Heaven and the kingdom of this world. Did you miss it? If we are to talk about faith we must forget about ourselves or we find ourselves standing in the middle of the room, shouting like a little two-year-old, "Me want to do what me want to do!"

The key is the one who dwells within us (the Holy Spirit), "Now we have received not the spirit of the world, but the Spirit that is from God, so that we may understand the gifts bestowed on us by God" (1 Cor. 2:12).

We find ourselves standing in the middle of a room “red faced” with embarrassment, it’s not about what I “me” want, it’s about what God wants. We change “not through an imitation of Christ which allows the difference in persons to remain; not through an absorption into Christ (Rm 13:14) which eliminates the difference, but through a “putting on” of Christ, by which he becomes the Subject of an existence shaped to his suffering and death. Such a self, renewed, conformed to, living or dying to the Lord (Rm 14:8) cannot please itself (15:1) but furnishes (gives) Paul the criterion for love of neighbor (Harrisville, Roy A., Augsburg Commentary on the New testament Romans, Augsburg Publishing House Minneapolis, MN, p. 210, 1980).

It’s not that we physically, mentally, spiritually, or through discipline put on Christ, rather He/Christ becomes the subject/focal point of our lives, being renewed and conformed to Jesus Christ, “the author and perfecter of our faith” (Heb. 12:1-2) in living or dying/in all of life, it is for Him/Jesus Christ.

“Let love be genuine; hate what is evil, hold fast to what is good” (Romans 13:9). Now I get it! Or rather, Christ has gotten me! And I am freed to be who Christ is forming me into as one of His Children, that they may see a love that the world does not understand. So be it, LORD!

In Christ Jesus our Lord, who “is the same yesterday, today and for ever” (Heb. 13:8).

A message from Pastor Dan

When I was a Seminary student attending St. Mark Lutheran in Lindenhurst, Illinois, a church member came up to me and said, "You must be learning a lot about the Bible. I want you to teach me. I've never studied it before. I'm getting close to retirement - I'm not young, but I'd like to start." I was so excited! We started with John's gospel. By the time we got to the final chapter, he said, "We can't just let this come to an end. We have to keep this going!" And I said, "That sounds great. Let's pick another book to read and we can keep our weekly meetings at the same time." He said, "No, I mean, being a disciple of Jesus, following him, and how it changed so many people's lives. For Peter, James, and John and the rest of his followers...how can we just let this Jesus thing come to an end?"

That was an even better question than I thought at first! I was so happy to be able to tell him that God didn't want the "Jesus thing" to come to an end after Christ ascended into heaven. The Holy Spirit has been sent to keep this "Jesus thing" alive in us! In fact, we hear his voice as often as we turn to God's Word. The Father, Son, and Holy Spirit minister to us in a variety of different ways as we read and as we listen to the Scripture. Remember how Paul encouraged Timothy?

2 Timothy 3:14-17

¹⁴"But as for you, continue in what you have learned and firmly believed, knowing from whom you learned it, ¹⁵and how from childhood you have known the sacred writings that are able to instruct you for salvation through faith in Christ Jesus. ¹⁶All scripture is inspired by God and is useful for teaching, for reproof, for correction, and for training in righteousness, ¹⁷so that everyone who belongs to God may be proficient, equipped for every good work."

That's why we will be teaching an overview of the Bible this year in confirmation. We will be covering all the major historical periods throughout the Old and New Testament over the course of the year. The students have already grown familiar with many of the stories throughout the Scripture. They know about Adam and Eve, Noah and the Flood, Joseph and his coat of many colors, Moses and the burning bush, Joshua and Jericho, David and Goliath, Jesus walking on water. All these stories (and many more) are familiar to them because of their time in Sunday School. Now, what we do in confirmation is begin to stitch these stories together so that our students can see how the whole Bible is actually one large story. That story is about the God who loves us and gives his Son up for us.

And our hope is that they would all come away with the same excitement that church member had a few years ago. Maybe they'll say, "We can't let this God thing come to an end!" God never intended his work in the world to stop with the last chapter of Revelation. He has kept this record of his work, grace, determination, patience, and righteousness so that we might come to know the Living God who really wants to be close to us in this life. He's given us his Word, so that we could come to know Him and trust Him.

Pray for us as teachers this year that we would provide an engaging and impactful learning experience for our young people and their families. Pray for our students that they'd be drawn closer to God by studying his Word.

Every Blessing in the Lord,

In Unknown Territory

by Katherine Altreuter

"Go home to your friends and tell them how much the Lord has done for you, and how he has had mercy on you."
Mark 5:19a

Early in his ministry, Jesus encountered a man riddled with demons. After Jesus traveled across the sea to a Gentile territory, the man approached him and cried out to him, "What have you to do with me, Jesus, Son of the Most High God?" This man fell down before him, in submission to Jesus. He had been outcast from society and forced to live in a desolate territory of tombs where no one dared come close to him. Jesus is a light of hope in this dark time of the man's life.

Despite the fact that many of us have never been possessed or encountered demons like this, we may have thought something similar to the man's cries as we struggle with our own issues. You may ask, "Lord, how will I get through this?" or "Lord, where are you?" We've all asked for God to come closer to us, to show His presence in our struggles when we may need Him most. When we find ourselves in forbidden territory, wrapped up with our sin and vices, who has the power to drive out the darkness with light? Only God does. He brings peace to a lawless land, He fights for our souls each day, and He showers us with a gift that we can never repay: the gift of redemption through Jesus Christ.

September 2026 - 7

After Jesus released the man from the demons and sent them into a herd of pigs (which run off a cliff into the sea), the townspeople do not rejoice or respond positively to this turn of events. Yes, the man is healed from his curse! But the townspeople "began to beg Jesus to depart from their region" (Mark 5:17) for they were afraid of the power Jesus wielded. Even if for good, they did not understand it and had been accustomed to the desolate territory they inhabited. New Testament scholar Donald H. Juel puts it this way: "What is frightening about Jesus is that he refuses to leave the world as it is. He transgresses the boundaries and rescues those beyond help."¹ Maybe that's why it's so difficult to express our love of Christ in today's society. I hear negative commentary about Jesus from nonbelievers who haven't picked up a Bible in years (or ever). They have made up their mind about Jesus purely because of what these Gentile townspeople also believed: "Such a person cannot be controlled, only followed" (Jule, 81). This upsets the individualistic "religion" that our society currently follows.

How many times have we fallen and needed our family and friends to pick us back up? How about when we're sick and our spouse needs to take care of us? Or when we've lost everything - who rebuilds alongside us? There is no individual within the body of Jesus Christ. He calls us to take up the responsibility of caring for each other, to venture into the unknown alongside each other, and to help each other at every surprising turn our lives may take.

Then what does Jesus tell the man? He says, "Go home to your friends and tell them how much the Lord has done for you, and how he has had mercy on you." In this phrase, Jesus is not saying "What I have done for you" (even though it was, in fact, Jesus who did the exorcising) but rather what God has done for the man. God sent us His perfect Son to bring us closer to Him. Let us bring the hope of the Gospel to those around us as we rejoice in His victory.
