Reflection during the week:

1. Where in my life have I stopped expecting God to move? Have I settled for spiritual safety instead of trusting God for freedom? What disappointment or fear may be shaping my expectations of Him right now?
2. What "Red Sea moment" am I currently facing? Where has God already called me to step forward in faith—even though fear, uncertainty, or past experiences make me want to turn back?
3. What "Red Sea moment" am I currently facing? Where has God already called me to step forward in faith—even though fear, uncertainty, or past experiences make me want to turn back?
4. What are three things in my life or the lives of others that could only happen if God showed up? Am I willing this week to pray boldly, listen intentionally, and take a faithful step in response to what God is saying?
