

Song of Songs

Week 1

01/25/25

2 Timothy 3: ____ - ____

The Controversy:

1. It never directly talks about _____.
2. It is so _____.

Its poetry is _____, _____,
and _____ passionate.

Ephesians 5: ___ - ___ / 1 Kings 4: ___ / 2 Cor. 6: ___

Who you _____ matters.

1 Kings 11: ___ - ___ / Songs 1: ___

Song of Songs

Week 1

01/25/25

2 Timothy 3: ____ - ____

The Controversy:

1. It never directly talks about _____.
2. It is so _____.

Its poetry is _____, _____,
and _____ passionate.

Ephesians 5: ___ - ___ / 1 Kings 4: ___ / 2 Cor. 6: ___

Who you _____ matters.

1 Kings 11: ___ - ___ / Songs 1: ___

Reflection during the week:

1. Where might God be asking me to trust Him with my relationships, not just my prayers? As you reflect on the transition from miracles to Song of Songs, where do you sense God inviting deeper trust in how you love, date, marry, or commit? What fears—loneliness, rejection, uncertainty, or loss—might be keeping you from fully surrendering this area to Him?
2. Am I letting Scripture shape my view of love, or am I filtering Scripture through culture? As you consider 2 Timothy 3:16–17 and the inclusion of Song of Songs, where might my beliefs about relationships, sex, or marriage be more influenced by the world than by God’s Word? What assumptions might God be gently challenging?
3. Where might I be ignoring God’s wisdom because obedience feels costly? Reflect on Solomon’s life and his gradual drift away from God. Are there small compromises or relationships in my life that seem harmless now but could pull my heart away over time? What warning signs do I need to take seriously before regret sets in?
4. What does “no regrets” look like for my future relationships? As I pray about where God is leading me, what habits, boundaries, or decisions is He inviting me to establish now so that my story reflects faithfulness later?

Reflection during the week:

1. Where might God be asking me to trust Him with my relationships, not just my prayers? As you reflect on the transition from miracles to Song of Songs, where do you sense God inviting deeper trust in how you love, date, marry, or commit? What fears—loneliness, rejection, uncertainty, or loss—might be keeping you from fully surrendering this area to Him?
2. Am I letting Scripture shape my view of love, or am I filtering Scripture through culture? As you consider 2 Timothy 3:16–17 and the inclusion of Song of Songs, where might my beliefs about relationships, sex, or marriage be more influenced by the world than by God’s Word? What assumptions might God be gently challenging?
3. Where might I be ignoring God’s wisdom because obedience feels costly? Reflect on Solomon’s life and his gradual drift away from God. Are there small compromises or relationships in my life that seem harmless now but could pull my heart away over time? What warning signs do I need to take seriously before regret sets in?
4. What does “no regrets” look like for my future relationships? As I pray about where God is leading me, what habits, boundaries, or decisions is He inviting me to establish now so that my story reflects faithfulness later?

