

First Sunday of Lent

02/22/26

What we _____ quietly will eventually shape us _____ .

What's in your _____ .

Delayed _____ is _____

To be _____, we must first _____
what we _____

Judges 7: ___ - ___ / Philippians 4: ___

Faithfulness requires _____

what God has _____

A _____ / A _____

_____ / A _____

Faithfulness must _____ be _____

God uses _____ people for _____ purposes.

First Sunday of Lent

02/22/26

What we _____ quietly will eventually
shape us _____ .

What's in your _____ .

Delayed _____ is _____

To be _____, we must first _____
what we _____

Judges 7: ___ - ___ / Philippians 4: ___

Faithfulness requires _____

what God has _____

A _____ / A _____

_____ / A _____

Faithfulness must _____ be _____

God uses _____ people for _____ purposes.

Reflection during the week:

1. What has God already placed in my hand right now—and how am I actually using it? (Time, influence, gifts, relationships, resources, responsibility.) Where am I being faithful, and where am I neglecting or withholding?
2. Where might I be delaying obedience while calling it discernment, fear, or “waiting for better conditions”? What step of faith do I sense God inviting me to take—and what is keeping me from taking it?
3. If faithfulness—not success or visibility—is the measure, what would obedience look like in my ordinary life this week? At home, at work, with my family, in my church, or in my unseen choices—where is God asking me to trust Him with what feels small?

Reflection during the week:

1. What has God already placed in my hand right now—and how am I actually using it? (Time, influence, gifts, relationships, resources, responsibility.) Where am I being faithful, and where am I neglecting or withholding?
2. Where might I be delaying obedience while calling it discernment, fear, or “waiting for better conditions”? What step of faith do I sense God inviting me to take—and what is keeping me from taking it?
3. If faithfulness—not success or visibility—is the measure, what would obedience look like in my ordinary life this week? At home, at work, with my family, in my church, or in my unseen choices—where is God asking me to trust Him with what feels small?

