

Brief Bio - Patrick D. Ebri, PhD, FACHE

Dr. Ebri is the Vice President and Chief Engagement Officer for UNC Health Southeastern in Lumberton, North Carolina – a position he has held since 2018. In this role he has a wide range of responsibilities including Human Resources, Patient Experience, Culture and Engagement, Radiology and all the support services.

Prior to assuming this position, he at Southeast Georgia Health System in Brunswick, Georgia where he held positions of increasing responsibility including but not limited to radiology intern, Director of Radiology and culminating his tenure as Vice President of Human Resources.

More recently, Ebri was recognized by Becker's Hospital Review as one of the 231 Black Leaders to Know in 2024. He serves on the North Carolina Healthcare Association (NCHA) Care Access & Transformation Committee (formerly Equity Committee).

Ebri holds a Bachelor's degree in Radiology, a Master's degree in Healthcare Administration as well as a doctoral degree in business with concentration in Healthcare Administration and Radiology. He is also a Fellow of the American College of Healthcare Executives (FACHE), as well as an International Coaching Federation (ICF) certified coach.

Enjoys international travel and slowly checking off his bucket list with his wife of 30 years (Sheila) and their two children when they are able to take a break from medical school to travel.

Fun fact: First job was a radio DJ.