

Graham M. Fox, FACHE
Chief Executive Officer
GI Specialists of Georgia

Graham Fox, FACHE, CEO, GI Specialists of Georgia, has over 25 years of executive healthcare experience overseeing the strategic, operational, and financial growth of physician practices and health systems. He specializes in building, managing, and transforming physician enterprises, aligning them within health system strategies. He has scaled organizations from de novo startups to mature, high-performing enterprises exceeding $100M in revenue.

He has held multiple senior leadership roles, including within privately owned physician groups, non-profit health systems, and academic medical centers, where he led numerous physician acquisitions and integrations and financial turnarounds grounded in high-performing cultures, cohesive operational systems, and driving measurable improvements in access, quality, and patient experience.