

Andrew Brickley, MBA, FACHE, has a healthcare career that started with medical device sales. Next, moving into hospital and health system roles, initially as a laboratory account manager and later as Director of Sales at Cleveland Clinic Mercy Hospital (formerly Mercy Medical Center). Afterward, expanding into executive leadership roles such as Vice President of Business Development at Opelousas General Health System, where he managed clinical service line operations, oversaw a $50 million profit and loss (P&L) statement, and led strategic and business development initiatives. During his time there, the health system earned recognition for excellent patient care and innovative performance. Most recently, served as CEO of a 25-bed CAH with a 117-bed skilled nursing facility and an RHC.

Andrew earned his undergraduate degree in history from the College of Charleston and his MBA from Kent State University. Andrew joined the American College of Healthcare Executives in 2015, earned his Fellow/Certification in Healthcare Management in 2021, and joined ACHE of Georgia in the spring of 2024 and serves on the Membership Satisfaction, Career Development, and the Transcendre Committees. Andrew is also a member of the ACHE of Georgia Toastmasters Club, has completed level 1 of his presentation mastery program, serves as Vice-President of Public Relations, and will serve as chapter President starting in July 2026.

Andrew and his wife have two children (ages 14 and 11) and one very unruly Dachshund. In his spare time, he enjoys golf, tennis, traveling, and coaching youth sports.