

Stacy Palmer, CPXP is Senior Vice President and COO of The Beryl Institute, where she helps advance the global movement to improve patient experience and human experience in healthcare. A recognized speaker and author, Stacy works with healthcare organizations to bring experience strategies to life through education, research, and practical application. She is a host of the To Care Is Human podcast and author of numerous industry publications.