

Anisha Koshy
Master of Health Administration and Master of Public Health Candidate
University of Georgia

Anisha Koshy is a Master of Health Administration and Master of Public Health candidate at the University of Georgia. Upon graduation, she will be completing an Administrative Fellowship with Providence in Southern California in its Orange County & High Desert subsystem of its Physician Enterprise, which is comprised of over 1700+ providers and 100+ outpatient clinics.

Throughout her graduate career, Anisha has completed internships with Providence in Irvine, CA as a Health Equity Intern and with Habersham Medical Center in Demorest, GA as an Administrative Intern. She has also served in various student leadership positions such as President of the UGA Student Chapter of ACHE, Vice President of the UGA Public Health Association, and more.

Her current and previous experiences in healthcare recruiting, charitable health clinics, dental practices, outpatient settings, and scientific laboratories have continually reaffirmed her passion for ensuring access to healthcare and an aspiration to serve in an executive capacity for a healthcare organization in the future.
