

Meet our Team Member

From day one, our employees have created our success.
That legacy continues.

Meet Shawn

Shawn has spent most of his life living in Mifflinville. He started at Press Enterprise about a month before the Sept. 11, 2001, terrorist attacks as a Page Layout Editor in the News Department. In 2003, he switched to the Advertising Department, becoming the Special Editions Editor, a role in which he particularly enjoys putting together the Bloomsburg Fair edition each year. In the years since, he has acquired various other duties in News and Advertising, such as coordinating the Press Enterprise Phonebook and helping with advertising support and sports page layout. Much to the chagrin of his coworkers, Shawn never met a pun he didn't like and joked, "I wear so many hats, it's hard for me to keep a-head."

Shawn believes the best thing about his job is having good coworkers and a supportive management team. He would encourage people to work here because, "The Press Enterprise is a great, family-owned company that cares about being an integral part of the community."

Shawn Stair
Special Editions Editor

His favorite memory at Press Enterprise came when there was a bad snowstorm in March of 2014. He was happy to be able to drive his 4-wheel drive truck into Bloomsburg to pick up a few coworkers and bring them into the office so they could get the paper out that day with basically a skeleton crew. He remembers publisher Brandon Eyerly getting lunch for everyone who made it into work from Sheetz, one of the few places that was open. "That shows the commitment and care the owners have for the employees," he said.

When not at work, Shawn enjoys being active at his church, Mifflinville UMC; bowling (even though, he said, "It takes you off the streets and puts you in the alleys"); for reasons only God knows rooting for Cleveland professional sports teams and Notre Dame college football; and traveling.

Thank you, Shawn, for being a part of our team and growing with Press Enterprise.
