

National POLICE Week

May 14 to 20, 2023

Thanks for keeping our communities safe

How police are fighting cybercrime

This year, National Police Week takes place from May 14 to 20. It's a collaborative event that honors America's law enforcement community and those who lost their lives in the line of duty. Policing is an ever-changing profession that requires officers to constantly adapt to new threats and challenges. One of these challenges is cybercrime.

WHAT'S CYBERCRIME?

Cybercrime is a criminal activity that either targets or uses a computer, a computer network or a networked device. This can include hacking, cyberbullying, fraud, human trafficking and extortion. Malicious cyber activity threatens the public's safety and national and economic security.

HOW IT'S BEING POLICED

The FBI is the lead federal agency for investigating cyberattacks and intrusions. They rely on highly trained security experts and criminal investigators to detect and investigate crimes and apprehend and prosecute offenders. The FBI uses specialized training and software so its agents can keep up with sophisticated new forms of criminal activity.

WHAT YOU CAN DO

Recognizing and reporting cybercrime is the best way to help law enforcement. If you suspect or believe you've been a victim of cybercrime, report it to the Internet Crime Complaint Center (IC3) or FBI Tips online.

This National Police Week, join the thousands of others in recognizing the brave men and women of law enforcement who protect you and your community.
