Sporting Breeds

Group One: The Sporting Group, consists of the gun dogs used in the field with the hunter. They are separated mainly into three divisions depending upon the purpose for which they have been developed. These are:

- 1 The Pointers and Setters, breeds which locate upland game afield for the hunter. These breeds will indicate the position of the game by assuming a peculiarly rigid stance or by pointing the nose toward the scent of the game.
- 2 The Retrievers, the breeds whose duty in the field is to bring killed or wounded game to the hunter.
- 3 The Spaniels long or dense coated breeds, developed to work in rough cover and close to the gun when locating, flushing and retrieving game.

RAWHIDE BONES AND DOG TAGS

THE Rawhide Bones range in size from 3 in. to 5 ft. They are made in the U.S.A. from cowhide, knotted at both ends and soaked in beef flavor. They aid in cleaning and strengthening your dog's teeth and are 100% digestible. Bulk prices are available in 5 lb. lots at $15.50 prepaid. Order all the same size bones or mix sizes, be sure to state sizes by inches. Chips are sold in 5 lb. bags at the same cost. This rawhide does not chip or stain.

THE Dog Tags are a life-time stainless steel with an easy to attach hook. All necessary information for your dog's safe return is embossed, will never rust or rub off. Cost is $1.25 ppd/Send pet's name, your name, address and phone along with check or use your Master Charge or Bank Americard. If using credit card send acc't no., name as shown on card and expiration date to: NIOKA'S

IRISH SETTERS

The Irish Setter (known as the Red Irishman) came to America about 75 years ago. A rangy, silky haired, majestic, mahogany colored animal, he is a born field dog. His first love is his master, and when treated as a close friend, he is easy to control. He has a devil-may care attitude, endearing him to all around him; yet he is bold and tough in the field.

BRITTANY SPANIELS

The breed was developed in the Brittany Peninsula to hunt game in fields and hedgerows. It is the national dog of France. Brittany's were imported into this country in the 1930's. He is a compact, medium sized dog, with a good nose, who holds point, is very intelligent and is a faithful companion to his master. Color can be roan, orange and white, or liver and white. It is one of the few remaining breeds in which the same dog may be a Field and Bench Champion, an Obedience Title Holder, a hunting companion, and a house pet.

VIZSLAS

Am. & Can. Ch. Fieldstone's Nagy Egy

"Sylvester" is the sire of 2 champions and one other pointed daughter. Just 3 years old, he combines style and showmanship with correct type, balance and soundness. He is currently being trained for field work and shows promise of becoming the Dual Vizsla that his background suggests.

FAIRWYNDE KENNEL

Sandy & Keith Lasure

4651 Parks N.E.

Louisville, OH 44641

VIZSLAS

The Vizsla was developed over 1,000 years ago as a medium sized hunting dog on the Hungarian Plains and admitted to the A.K.C. in 1960. It is an intelligent natural hunter exhibiting drive and stamina in the field. Because of its exceptional nose it is essentially a pointer but is well suited to perform as a setter or retriever.

The dog makes a striking aristocratic appearance with its short rusty gold coat, docked tail and powerful build. He exhibits a happy disposition and is instinctively fond of children, making a gentle and friendly companion as well as a fearless protector. Ht. 21-24 inches.

Hound Breeds

Group Two: This group consists of the Sporting Hounds which hunt or trail fur bearing animals. Some trail by scent like the Bloodhound. Others chase by sight like the Greyhound and the Afghan, while still others give voice on the trail like the Beagle and the Basset. Then there are the Dachshunds equipped for digging and fighting when he "goes to ground" for the badger. A truly wide variety of coats, shapes and sizes are represented in the Hound Group.

IRISH WOLFHOUSES

The Irish Wolfhound is an ancient sporting hound of commanding appearance. He is an active dog, combining power and swiftness with keen sight. The largest and tallest of the coursing hounds, he can gallop fast enough to catch a wolf or course a hare. This is a Greyhound like breed with a rough and hard coat, especially wiry and long over the eyes and under jaw.

Because the dog is quiet mannered and dignified and has a friendly disposition, is faithful and quick to defend, he is popular as a companion, guard or for sporting purposes. Ht. 32 - 34 inches.

Working Breeds

Group Three: The Working Group for the most part are large dogs bred to assist man in his work. They herd sheep and cattle, pull sleds and carts, guide the blind, serve as watch dogs and police dogs and perform many other specialized tasks according to their breed purposes.

Because of the wide variety of uses of the dogs in this group, there is great dissimilarity in appearance among its members. Most, however, are powerfully built and display unusual intelligence.

ALASKAN MALAMUTES

The Alaskan Malamute is the oldest dog breed native to Alaska. He bears the name of the Eskimo tribe, the Malemiuts, and is best known for his talent as a sled dog. His big boned and powerful body enables him to pull weights up to 2,000 pounds. His coat is a combination of woolly undercoat and long, hard guard hairs that protect him from the harsh temperature of his native surroundings.

BEARDED COLLIE

The Bearded Collie is one of the oldest British Sheep and Cattle Dogs. Britains still use them as herders, but in the USA they are primarily family dogs. As a worker, a Beardie has to live the lonely life of a shepherd or the hectic life of a drover, making him adaptable to both city and rural homes. The Beardie is medium sized, 21 to 22 inches, bitches 20 to 21 inches at shoulder height. The long abundant and harsh outer coat is strong, flat and straight. All Bearded Collies are born either black, blue, brown or fawn, usually with white markings. The nose and eyes tone with the coat color. The hallmark of the Beardie appearance is its expression; haunting, wistful and yearning. Beardies have an aura of alertness and action, a sense of strength and endurance, characteristics of a real working dog.

BRIARDS

The Briard is a rare French Sheepdog dating back to 16th century. A very keen and devoted family dog. The Briard is noted for its herding & guarding ability. Used in the war, the Briard was used for sentry and courier dogs and became almost extinct. GIANT SCHNAUZERS

Country of Origin, Germany. A large, robust sinewy more heavy set than slender dog, of somewhat rectangular build, he ranges from 21½ to 25½ inches at the withers. His ears are cropped and his tail docked. His color is pepper and salt, black and tan. The Giant Schnauzer was developed by cattlemen in Bavaria who were looking for a bigger dog to move livestock to market. They were seeking a terrier type that would have boldness. MASTIFFS

Named after an English term meaning any large dog, the breed has been in Great Britain for over 2,000 years and comes from an ancient Oriental strain. It was used against Caesar when he invaded Britain in 55 B.C., and his legions brought it to Rome to fight gladiators, bulls, bears, lions and tigers. They were so useful against wild animals that Anglo-Saxon law required them on large estates. The Mastiff's short face was inherited by the Bullmastiff, Boxer, Bulldog and Pug. The Mastiff was brought to America by the English as a companion and guardian of home and property.

OLD ENGLISH SHEEPDOGS

The Old English Sheepdog goes by the name of "Bobtail" because some specimens are whelped without tails. If they do arrive equipped with a tail, the tail is docked quite close to the body. Here you see England's famous drovers' dog, whose history dates back about 150 years. Note this shuffling gait, he ambles and swings along like a bear. In fact, his hindlegs are very much like those of a bear, with the hock so low as to be unique among pure-bred dogs. He is squarely built and rump is high. His coat, profuse and very hard to withstand the weather, is really an all-over affair, which hides from all except the judge the prized "china" or one blue eye. The blue color of the coat we speak of as "pigeon" blue.

PULIK

A dog of medium size, vigorous, alert and extremely active. By nature affectionate, he is a devoted & home loving companion, sensibly suspicious of strangers & therefore an excellent guard. Striking & highly characteristic is the shaggy coat which centuries ago fitted him for the strenuous work of herding the flocks on the plains of Hungary.

SIBERIAN HUSKIES

The Siberian Husky is a native to Siberia where for centuries he served as sled-dog, general beast of burden and companion of the northern peoples. Guarding children was this dog's favorite occupation and in consequence the trait has been bred in him. Imported to Alaska in 1909 for racing purposes, he came from there into Canada and the United States. Though in general appearance and conformation essentially an Arctic type, his head is more fox-like than the heads of other breeds indigenous to the North. And his tail carriage also is distinctive: it curls moderately over the back only when the animal stands at attention. At all other times, it trails. Characteristic markings include the cap, the mask and spectacles.

WELSH CORGIS (PEMBROKE & CARDIGAN)

The Welsh Corgi (Pembroke and Cardigan) derives his name from the Welsh words car (dwarf) and ge (dog). The two types resembles each other as both have long performed the same task — herding cattle, sheep, swine, etc. These short legged, long bodied, fox headed little farm dogs have been favored by Britain's royal family since 1933, assuring their popularity.

WELSH CORGIS (PEMBROKE). Bred by Exhibitor Dogs.

Terrier Breeds

Group Four: The word "Terrier" derives from the Latin "Terre" which means earth, thus Terriers are dogs bred to route out and kill vermin such as badgers, woodchucks, foxes, weasels, rats, etc. There are 22 breeds in the Terrier Group, ranging in size from the Australian, Miniature Schnauzer, and Cairn which are the smallest, to the Airedale, the largest in this group.

All terriers must be strong boned, well muscled and robust, regardless of size and, contrary to popular belief, they should NOT have straight shoulders! The chief characteristics of all the terrier breeds are their indomitable courage and unwavering devotion to home and family.

KERRY BLUE TERRIERS

The Kerry Blue Terrier is the blue Irish Terrier named for County Kerry in Ireland where the breed originated some 100 years ago, becoming eventually the national dog of Ireland. Over there, he was used as a Terrier-of-all-work, and as a hunting dog, too, on small game. He has been fostered in America since 1922 and while kept mainly as a companion, he has been utilized for farm work and as a water retriever. His coat is his distinctive feature. It is soft and wavy, not hard like most terrier coats and is never stripped. A Kerry is born black and should show signs of color change before six months of age.

MINIATURE SCHNAUZERS

The Miniature Schnauzer is a smaller edition of the Standard Schnauzer, native to Germany where it was used in the stables as a ratter and a companion to the horses. In order to obtain this smaller sized dog, the Standard Schnauzer was crossed with the Affenpinscher, a black breed classified as a toy. Though rating as a different breed abroad since 1899, the Miniature Schnauzer has been produced here in the United States only since 1924. Note the square sturdy build of this dog — he has lost nothing in bone and ruggedness by reduction in size. His coat is hard and wiry throughout; even his bushy eyebrows and whiskers are wiry.

WEST HIGHLAND WHITE TERRIERS

The West Highland White Terrier originated on the Scottish Estate of Roseneath, Dumbartonshire, Scotland. He is a small, hardy, active Terrier exhibiting great strength and determination. His small pointed ears carried erect and an abundance of hair around the face acts as a frame to yield the typical "Westie" expression filled with character and self esteem. The dog is a distinct breed as compared to the Scottish Terrier differing in head, body, movement and over-all type. It is set apart from the Scottish and Cairn hunter; in the home he is a devoted companion making a gay and light hearted pet that requires little trimming. Ht. 10-11 inches.

Toy Breeds

Group Five: The Toy Group is comprised of the very small breeds hence the word "toy". They usually are less than ten pounds in weight. They have been household pets for centuries. Many are carried on the arms of their owners and have been variously referred to as "sleeve dogs", "Spaniel Gentle", or "Comforter"

Many are miniatures of the other breeds and although the Toys look frail and fragile they are fairly-hardy. They do have the advantage of requiring little exercise, space or food and therefore make excellent pets for apartment dwellers particularly.

PAPILLONS

The Papillon (pronounced Pappy-yawn) or "Butterfly Dog" is one of the most attractive of the toy spaniels. In general appearance they are small, fine boned and elegant. The breed has two types of ear carriage — erect or drop. However, the distinguishing characteristic of the breed is its beautiful large, heavily fringed open ears giving the impression of a butterfly. There is a clearly defined white blaze running between the ears. The head is small with a pointed muzzle. The coat is fine and silky with fringes on the legs. The "Pap" may appear dainty and gentle but don't let his size fool you — he is a game, hardy, intelligent, loyal dog with a steadfast devotion to his master. He adapts to all environments. Ht. 8-11 inches. Wt. $3\frac{1}{2}$ - $6\frac{1}{2}$ lbs.

Non-Sporting Breeds

Group Six: The word Non-Sporting can be misleading for this Group of dogs, but was adopted because it is actually a miscellany of breeds. The Poodle for instance, comes from a Sporting family; the Keeshonden Working or Hound; the Boston Terrier could be classed as a Toy while the Bulldog belongs to a semi-sporting-working family brought down from the bull-baiting days in England. The breeds in this group are certainly as varied as the uses for which they were intended and it, therefore, becomes one of the most interesting.

BICHON FRISES

The Bichon Frise (pronounced Bee-Shone Free-say) is native to Teneriffe, largest of the Canary Islands. He is a lively dog with an outstanding lovable temperament, stylish gait and an air of dignity. The dog is white, or white with cream, apricot or grey on the ears and or body.

The head is covered with a topknot. The gaily carried trail is covered with long flowing hair and is curved to lie on the back.

These lovable charmers are a sturdy breed, truly adaptable to every climate. They are extremely intelligent dogs and are easily trained. The "Little Clown" of dogs will easily steal your heart.

DALMATIANS

The Dalmatian is named for the Austrian province of Dalmatia. He is first and foremost a hunting dog, having been used for centuries as bird dog and retriever. But he was taken to England at a time when carriage riding was the vogue and so he became our first and only coach dog—that gave him the nickname of "Carriage Dog" and "English Coach Dog". In America, however, he has long been dubbed the "Fire-House Dog" because his chosen occupation was to race to fires behind horse-drawn engines. Even to this day you will find the Dalmatian undisputed favorite of fireman. Easily trained in rescue work, he now rates as one of our top Red Cross workers. The spots are the dog's characteristic markings; they must be small and sharply defined. The puppies are born pure white.

SEASONS GREETINGS
FROM ROADRUNNER KENNELS
AND THEIR BEST IN SHOW BRACE
SCHIPPERKES

Am. Can. Ch. Valkyra's Onyx Hornblower

Ch. Roadrunners Ebony-Sir Eagle

Shown topping the Non-Sporting Group at Mahoning Shenango Kennel Club under Frank Oberstar, this mother-son brace has won the hearts of many with their patty-caking and other ringside antics. Dual Best Brace in Show wins in Canada.

Beep-Beep (left) as a show gal has many Best of Breeds to her honor and as a mother now has two champions. Her son, Ebony-Sir (right) always the showman, is a well-balanced, true-moving male with an expressive head and loveable disposition. Truly conforming to the breed standard, he finished from the bred-by-exhibitor class in less than 3 months showing and is at stud to approved bitches. Watch for this "Handsome Dog" as he is campaigned in 1980!

Personal thanks to my dad, Wm. L. Gross, for completing the championship on the little bitch he owns — Ch. Roadrunners Lil Tahr Baybee.

Little Black Devil pups expected in the Spring to "own with pleasure or show with pride" because we "breed" from the best-to the best". Inquiries invited.

Obedience

WHAT IS AN OBEDIENT DOG?

It is a dog that has the manners and deportment to make it a pleasant creature with which to live.

The basis for all obedience is training to achieve this goal of livability. A dog that does what it is told and knows its role in society will generally be a happier and more useful pet.

As an extension of this basic social role, man has devised ways of using dogs to serve his needs. In its most ritual form we have obedience routines, field trials and dog shows, all of which require the dog to master certain techniques of learning and to demonstrate them in competition. Without the competition they are just as valid. It is essential for a dog's well-being, and for his participation in society, that he respond to the basic commands of "Heel", "Sit", "Stay", "Down", and "Come".

A TRAINED DOG IS A GOOD CITIZEN
