

TRANSFER EXCLUSIVE

Nahitan Nández has made a decision about his future and could join Boca Juniors in June.

The Uruguayan "Lion" is looking to return to Boca Juniors after his stints in Italy and Saudi Arabia.

One of the players who left the biggest mark on Boca Juniors in recent years is undoubtedly Nahitan Nández. Through his outstanding individual performances and hard work, he won the hearts of the fans. Now, according to BOLAVIP, he could once again wear the blue and gold jersey as early as June 2026.

"Román jokingly asked if I was going to continue on vacation in Arabia or if I wanted to return to Boca." — Nahitan Nández (March 2026)

The truth is, Nández is seriously considering a return after the current season. For the first time since leaving South America for €16.2 million in 2019, the path back to La Bombonera seems clear. Juan Román Riquelme has been in direct contact, tempting the midfielder with a lead role in the upcoming Copa Libertadores campaign.

Currently playing for Al-Qadisiyah, Nández has one year left on his contract. However, the emotional pull of family and the desire to play alongside compatriot Edinson Cavani could be the key to unlocking a mid-year exit. Boca Juniors are aiming for a "stellar" transfer window to push for continental glory.

Key Transfer Data

- Current Status: Seriously considering return after June 2026.
- The Riquelme Factor: Constant direct messages and calls from the President.
- Contract Obstacle: Currently contracted to Al-Qadsiyah until June 2027; exit negotiations required.
