

Frequently Asked Questions

How long has AVM Wisconsin existed?

AVM Wisconsin was formed in 2008 when the International Conference on Volunteer Administration (ICVA) and the Association of Volunteer Administration (AVA) merged to form one association.

What does it cost to become a member?

It costs $25 to become an individual member. There are three forms of organization memberships:

- One – Three Members: $50
- Four – Seven Members: $125
- Eight+ Members: $500

All organization members receive logo recognition on our website and an add in our conference folder (size dependent upon level). An individual/organization can join at any time. All memberships are good for a 12-month period.

Is AVM Wisconsin a nonprofit organization?

AVM Wisconsin is designated as a charitable organization.

What geographic area does AVM Wisconsin serve?

AVM Wisconsin serves all who engage volunteers in southeastern Wisconsin. Members come from Sheboygan County to the north, Kenosha County to the south and Waukesha County to the west. Most members are from Milwaukee and Waukesha Counties.

Is AVM Wisconsin only for volunteer coordinators/managers?

While our association did begin serving only volunteer coordinators/managers, we now include professionals from all areas (E.g., Human Resources, Program, Management) and all staff who engage volunteers.

How many members does AVM Wisconsin have?

The number of AVM Wisconsin members varies from year to year. On average, there are usually 60 – 70 individual and organization members.

Is AVM Wisconsin an affiliate member of a statewide association?

AVM Wisconsin is an dues-paying affiliate member of the Wisconsin Volunteer Coordinators Association (WVCA). Visit www.wvcasite.com to learn more.

Tell me more about AVM Wisconsin programming.

AVM Wisconsin conducts bi-monthly member meeting/workshops on Thursdays in January, March, May and July from 11:30 am to 1:00 pm. The site alternates between Milwaukee and Waukesha counties.
