

PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Nancy Morgan

Springtime Greetings to you all,

As I ponder the unfathomable gift of God that is spelled out for us during this holy season, I never cease to be overwhelmed by our God who loves freely... without cost and without limit. The idea that this God would send his very essence... Jesus... to live with us and experience not only human limitations, but willingly suffer humanity's most bitter treatment in order to teach us his perfect way to be, remains beyond one's ability to reason. This same God chooses to leave us his Holy Spirit to intimately reside with us to give us wisdom, comfort, understanding, courage and yes, healing in his name. Praise him, indeed!

We, in ACTheals, are especially blessed and

Nancy Morgan
ACTheals President

called to advance God's healing to other healthcare professionals so that they, in turn, can bring God's healing to their patients. Our ACTheals leadership retreat 2018 was a time of communal and individual blessing and growth in the Spirit. Be sure to read Denise Dolff's article in this InterACT to learn more about God's gifts to us as we move forward together to place God's healing at the center of our healthcare practices. Our God will not be outdone in generosity... the more we give... the more we receive.

In 2017 we were hearing that God was doing something new in ACT. We are exploring new ways of spreading God's healing intentions for his people. New regional leaders are answering God's holy whispers. If you hear the Lord calling you in the night... let us know. We have a particular need for an IC co-chair, for help in the regions, for assistance with the website and media. We also need intercessors to pray for prayer intentions requested by members and those who are now able to submit prayer requests on our homepage at actheals.org.

ACTheals Leadership Retreat

"Now faith is confidence in what we hope for and assurance about what we do not see." Hebrews 11:1

Denise

Denise Dolff, M.A.
(Psychology) is the immediate Past President of ACTheals, a member of the Board of Directors, and consultant to the Board and the Executive Committee. She is a retired Christ-centered psychotherapist with a focus on severely abused and traumatized patients, and also intergenerational healing. She has travelled to Rwanda on four occasions, ministering with Fr. Ubald Rugirangoga, and is a qualified teacher of Christian Listening.

by Denise Dolff M.A.

Trusting in the guidance of the Holy Spirit, 22 ACTheals leaders and family members met at the Marywood Retreat Centre in St. Johns, FL from February 23 -25 for the annual leadership retreat. I was struck by the total surrender and trust in God by each person present, the obedience in laying aside all degrees and agendas, believing expectantly in the guidance of the Holy Spirit, uniting as one in the common purpose of seeking God's will for ACTheals. The love and support of each for the other was palpable, the prayer and praise genuine and sincere, thereby allowing the Holy Spirit to manifest powerfully. From start to finish the retreat was a tangible experience of God's love and presence when all came together as one.

Comments (edited) from some of the participants were as follows.

- "The weekend showed the power of the Holy Spirit in each one displaying their individual and collective gifts."
- "I... experienced an incredible healing that has freed me! The benefits are still bubbling forth. I was able to receive a fresh outpouring of the Holy Spirit and His gifts! The gathering of the Actheals leaders for a retreat is very important.... for the opportunity to recharge and be together in community."
- "Getting to know you" "one healer at a time" toward "Advancing Christ Centered Healthcare" was operationalized and appropriated for me professionally and personally during this leadership weekend. Through this healing community, I experienced a release of failure and guilt feelings". We were taught WOW praying-[With Out Words!] I have been experiencing a weakness and pain in my left arm recently. The group laid hands on me and anointed me with oil. Then stood and prayed - without words. After some period I felt a healing warmth flow through my arm."

- As of today I feel no pain or weakness.”
- “Let me attempt to praise God for the incredible healing I received: “Don’t trust, don’t talk, don’t feel” were the vows I made to survive at 3 years old... and lived until Saturday February 24, 2018 where I was guided to write down those vows and repent of them and give them to Jesus so He could break my chains of bondage and free me to be His beloved daughter. “The Truth” has set me free! Thank You, Dear Jesus, for Your healing through my group and the wonderful association of ACTheals.”

- “I felt an embrace and acceptance for the vulnerable presence of each person as we shared our stories in the ‘Getting to Know You’ session. That session helped me to be open to hear and receive many blessings from our living loving Lord. I received many words to ponder over the course of the weekend, the last being that since we are the face of God, ‘I am called to love ALL people with ALL my heart, with ALL my mind and with ALL my soul including myself- That personal revelation just keeps blooming.”

- “I was totally impressed with the depth of the sharing in the “Getting to know you session” and also the solemnity of the anointing at the end”.
- “I was touched by the anointing ceremony. I sensed a Spirit of prayer in the whole community backing up the anointing and taking the time to anoint the head, the heart, the hands and the feet was a beautiful send off to bring the good news of Jesus’ healing love to others.

- “I was deeply moved by: - the words and music of the retreat, reminding me of God’s love for me and how worthy God is of praise, the services and sermons, the testimony of others, the anointing ceremony, the use of healing With Out Words (as) a powerful witness to the potential of each of us to be healers. It came to me that we do have many gifts but at our very core we all can love and be loved. When that love is rooted in the love of Jesus, healing happens.”

It was a privilege for me to coordinate the retreat, and I urge all ACTheals leaders and potential leaders to take advantage of this wonderful annual gathering to experience the love and healing of God, and to be refreshed in continuing to work for the fulfillment of the ACTheals vision and mission.

Three Things You Must Do Before You Die

“It’s a cliché, but underestimated as an analgesic on all levels. Putting your house in order, if you can do it, is one of the most comforting activities, and the benefits are incalculable.”

Phillip, CP

Fr. Alan Phillip, CP, is a Passionist priest who lives at Mater Dolorosa Retreat Center in Sierra Madre, CA. He works at the Retreat Center and at local parishes. www.alanphillipcp.com.

By Fr. Alan Phillip, CP

None of us knows when our time will come. We hope to live a long life, but death may come at any time. A heart attack, an accident, an act of terrorism, or a natural disaster may suddenly claim us. What do we need to do to be prepared? If you were to make a list in preparation for death, where would you start? I decided to start with Reconciliation.

1) Reconciliation has two parts, consisting of two sentences. “I am sorry.” “I forgive you.” Sometimes we are the offender and sometimes we are the offended. Those two sentences used frequently are like duck tape, keeping families, friends, parishes, and even nations at peace.

It has been said that a great marriage is made up of two great forgives. All humans are imperfect. We all make mistakes. And sometimes our mistakes hurt someone. An unkind word, a lack of appreciation, breaking a secret, gossip...the list is endless.

Sometimes the hurt goes very deep because it is caused by a very serious offense. A spouse was unfaithful, a parent caused physical harm, a boss was grossly unfair, or a friend betrayed a trust. How can we bring ourselves to forgive?

One quote has helped me immensely. It is attributed to William Longfellow. He said, “If we know the secret history of our enemies, we would find suffering and sorrow enough to disarm all hostility.” We never know what factors go into influencing another person to behave the way they do. (In fact it’s difficult to understand why we ourselves do certain things.) Maybe they suffered abuse as a child and now have serious emotional difficulties, or, they could be working through an addiction and have limited freedom., or they have unresolved anger issues or are dealing with phobias. We just never know.

Jesus tells us, “Judge not, lest you yourself be judged” (Matthew 7:1). Let him do the judging. He knows the facts. As for us, it is good to follow the advice of Ann Landers who said, “The secret of a long and fruitful life is to forgive everyone everything every night before you go to bed.”

For people of faith, we come before God regularly asking for his forgiveness. We are fortunate to have the Sacrament of Reconciliation to express our sorrow and be assured of God's mercy.

I tell second graders preparing for the Sacrament of Reconciliation that I don't like big words, and "reconciliation" is a big word. Six syllables. I like one-syllable words. So I call this great sacrament the sacrament of God's "hug." That comes from the story of the prodigal son. After squandering his life, the son repented and returned home. His father welcomed him back and gave him a great big hug. Jesus is telling us that his father is like that. We are blessed to be forgiven and hugged by our God.

2) The second thing to do before we die is: Give Thanks.

We wouldn't be alive and well, have knowledge and skills, be working, playing and doing all the other things we do each day, unless a lot of people helped us along the way. Our parents did very essential things just to get us started in life by feeding us, clothing us, hugging us, changing our diapers, etc. We then received so much from our brothers, sisters, aunts and uncles, teachers, coaches, our playmates.... Throughout life we are continually helped by doctors and backers, farmers and fishermen, police and fire personnel, garbage collectors and postal workers... The list goes on and on.

Expressing gratitude is a win-win experience. It affirms and lifts up the spirits of the one we thank and it brings a greater awareness of how blessed we are. Willie Nelson said, "When I started counting my blessings, my whole life turned around."

It is a good practice to end each day by making a list of our blessings. Reflect on what happened that one can be grateful for. Did I thank everyone? Is there someone to whom I should express my gratitude tomorrow? In case we have trouble remembering something to give thanks for, I recommend a little book titled, 14,000 Thousand Things to be Happy About. It's a good place to start.

As people of faith, we need to thank God the Father for loving us so much as to send his only Son (Cf. John 3:16). With his Son came forgiveness, the Eucharist and hope for eternal life... Indeed, infinite blessings.

Saint Ambrose said, No duty is more urgent than that of returning thanks."

3) The third thing to do before we die: Express Love.

Some years ago, Garth Brooks sang a song that had this thoughtful line: "If tomorrow never comes, will she know how much I loved her?"

Expressing love is something we can easily put off. "Oh, I'll get around to it." Or, "My mother knows how much I love her." Does she? Would it hurt to tell her? No one ever gets tired of hearing those words, "I love you." We don't want to be caught wondering at a funeral, "Did she really know how much I loved him/her."

Love can be expressed in words. But there are other ways to communicate love. In his book, The Five Languages of Love, the author Gary Chapman reminds us that love can also be expressed by giving gifts, doing acts of service, sharing quality time, and touching. Love is ingenious. And the deeper the love, the more ways we will devise to communicate it.

Mark Twain said, "Twenty years from now you will be more disappointed by the things you didn't do than by the one you did do."

As people of faith, on the top of our list will be the desire to express our love for God. How can we communicate our love to an infinite God? We can do it with words, of course. But we express our love in a special way through the Mass. We express our love for the Father by offering to him the gift of the Word, his Son Jesus. We include ourselves, members of the Body of Christ, in that gift. The Father receives our gift and gives Jesus back to us in Holy Communion. A holy exchange of gifts. A holy exchange of love. And in that exchange the gift and the giver become one.

Note: These three things to do before we die that I listed in this article are the first of ten. To learn about the rest of the things to do, please consult my new book, The Ten Things You Must Do Before You Die. It's available now at AMAZON.COM. Just type in the title under: BOOKS. "This is a book for all mortals. It will help the young, the middle aged and the elderly find peace with what we all know is inevitable." I also recommend my earlier book: From Blues to Smiles to Joy.

Blessings to all,

Healing Exchange

Gift of Piety Isaiah 11:2-3

Denise Dolff M.A.

Denise Dolff, M.A.

(Psychology) is the immediate Past President of ACTheals, a member of the Board of Directors, and consultant to the Board and the Executive Committee. She is a retired Christ-centered psychotherapist with a focus on severely abused and traumatized patients, and also intergenerational healing. She has travelled to Rwanda on four occasions, ministering with Fr. Ubald Rugirangoga, and is a qualified teacher of Christian Listening.

by Denise Dolff M.A.

In the last two Healing Exchange columns we looked at the gifts of ‘holy fear (awe) of the Lord’, and ‘fortitude (strength)’. These, together with the Gift of Piety, are also referred to as inspirational or transformation gifts because working together, they function to draw us closer to God, inspire us to God’s service, give us the strength to persevere, and cause us to desire never to displease God. In short, they inspire us to do whatever God asks of us. They transform us from hearers of the word, to doers of the word (Do not merely listen to the word, and so deceive yourselves. Do what it says. James 1:22).

Piety awakens within us the awesome mystery of Who God is, and also of God’s love for us, instilling in our hearts a filial affection for God as our most loving Father. It leads us to the humble acknowledgement that God is Creator, and we are creature;

God is the Potter, we are the clay. It also quickens within us a longing both for God, and the things of God, resulting in a desire, even a passion, for closeness and intimacy with God. We see this in the life of Jesus in the many times that he dismissed the crowd, or went away by himself, or got up early in the morning, to pray and to be with the Father (Mathew 14: 22-23; Mark 1:35; Luke 6:12).

Because Piety draws us closer to God, it also inspires us, for God’s sake, to love and respect all things consecrated to God, and all those who are vested with God’s legitimate authority e.g. our parents, the leaders of our churches, and our countries. It is piety that Jesus encourages in the Lord’s Prayer “Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done, on earth as it is in heaven” (Matthew 6:10). And for the one filled with piety, the will of God is not a burdensome duty, but a delightful service: “Jesus said to them, ‘My food is to do the will of Him who sent Me, and to accomplish His work’” (John 4:34). And in this same spirit, at the time of his passion, Jesus was able to pray “not My will but Thine be done” (Luke 22:42).

Through the gift of piety, we are able to recognize that our every want and desire is satisfied in God alone.

As with Jesus, it helps us to desire the will of God, “I delight to do Thy will, O my God; Thy law is within my heart” (Psalm 40:8) and “Then I heard the voice of the Lord saying, “Whom shall I send? And who will go for us?” And I said, “Here am I. Send me!” (Isaiah 6:8). Piety also aids us to pray in ways that ensure our prayers will be answered i.e. to tap into the power of prayer: “During the days of Jesus’ life on earth, he offered up prayers and petitions with loud cries and tears to the one who could save him from death, and he was heard because of His reverent submission.” (Hebrews 5: 7). Understanding this gift can encourage us to seek it, along with all the gifts of the Holy Spirit found in Isaiah 11: 2-3.

Prayer: Come, O Blessed Spirit of Piety, possess my heart. Enkindle therein such a love for God, so that I may find satisfaction only in His service, and for His sake lovingly submit to all legitimate authority. Amen.

The Holy Spirit in Clinical Practice

Douglas Schoeninger, PhD

At the 2017 ACTheals International Conference, Mary Chackalackal, MD gave a workshop on her integration of spirituality and medical practice. I had a chance to read her notes and was touched by her spirit and illustration of her process of growing in the Spirit in her clinical practice. So, I asked her to write an article for the Journal of Christian Healing (JCH). Following is an excerpt from the beginning of her paper. The full paper will be published in JCH this Summer, 2018.

An Approach to Integrating Christian Spirituality into the Emerging Medical Model (Bio/Psycho/Socio/Spiritual) in a Primary Healthcare Setting with Religious Plurality

Mary Chackalackal, MD

By Mary Chackalackal, MD, CCFP

INTRODUCTION:

Psalm 100:3 “We are his people, the sheep of his pasture”

Psalm 149:4 “The Lord takes delight in his people.”

My approach is to integrate Christian Spirituality in a primary healthcare setting.

I was born, raised and educated in the Roman Catholic faith and public school systems in Kerala, India. I graduated from Calicut University, Kerala in 1977 with an MBBS Degree (Bachelor of medicine and Bachelor of Surgery). In 1978 I married and came to Canada where I completed two years of residency in psychiatry (1968 – 1980) and two years post-graduate training in family medicine (1980 – 1982, MD, CCFP). I practiced as a Family Physician, in Markham, Ontario (a suburb of Toronto) for 25 years, and in North York, Toronto for 10 years, combining medical practice with counselling and psychotherapy.

In 2004, I established the Christian Medical Centre for Body, Soul and Spirit and continue in this practice today. I now focus exclusively on counselling and psychotherapy. During a two-year interim, between 2008 and 2010, I also served as Medical Doctor in Participation House, a Residence for adult patients with cerebral palsy. The Christian Medical Centre for Body, Soul and Spirit serves a multi-cultural, multi-faith population in Toronto.

It was the transformation of one of my patients, Mrs. M, who suffered unresolved grief for 20 years, which catapulted me into integrating a Christian approach of health care for Body, Soul and Spirit into my medical practice.

The Case of Mrs. M

In 1986, Mrs. M had symptoms of abdominal pain, and high blood pressure. She was a Catholic school teacher in her forties. Each medical visit, she would speak of many emotional issues, so I offered her a separate counseling session. During this session, Mrs. M became very distressed as she shared her story. It became apparent to me that she had a lot of anger and guilt with respect to her relationship with her mother who had passed away 20 years prior to this. As I kept listening to her, I wanted to come up with some specific psychological answer to address her issues, but nothing came to my mind. So, I sought God's help quietly. I could feel her anguish and I simply said to her, "You know God forgives you. You need to forgive your mom." I did not think much of what I had said, but a week later when she came back, I could see a drastic change in her. She was calm and very grateful. Her blood pressure had returned to normal. She did not experience abdominal pain any more. In fact, she had stopped her medications. I was quite amazed and taken aback with these changes. She said, "Doctor, when you said the word "forgive," it was as though an arrow went into my heart and I experienced much warmth and love. For the first time, I was truly able to forgive my mom."

During the next couple of years, Mrs. M came faithfully for her counselling sessions to work through many of her emotional issues. Her transformation was so dramatic that she switched careers to become a Pastoral Care counsellor. As I reflected on this, I came to see that forgiveness was the remedy that cured many of her physical, mental and emotional issues. Up until then, I did not include the element of spiritual health as a part of general assessment. I did not have any specific training in this area.

The spiritual dimension is now an integral part of my medical practice.

Elizabeth Pringle

Elizabeth Pringle is an author, conference speaker, former Radio co-host and Theophostic Minister with Fr. Ed Wade, CC of Ring of Fire, formed by the Catholic Charismatic Renewal and an affiliate of Joan Hunter Ministries. She ministered healing and deliverance for 35 years and now, along with Suzanne Young, prepared hearts and minds for the coming Kingdom of God through New Day New Way Ministries.

You, Whomever, Whatever, Are Not the Boss of Me

I've found freedom!

First, let's get the tedious stuff gone!

20 years of being housebound, bedbound and moribund with Polymyalgia Rheumatica, Temporal Arteritis, Fibromyalgia, and Avascular Necrosis of hips and shoulders to say nothing of Chronic Fatigue and various other annoyances, has held me somewhat captive.

None of it stopped me serving the Lord in a 35 year ministry of healing and deliverance of self and others but, oh, I was getting weary.

Chicago, Chicago, you're calling to me, calling to me!

Then I had a sudden! The colorful, fun ACT flyer for the Conference in Chicago flew by my email and I was hooked. I had no idea how I was going to get there, physically or financially, but I knew I was to go. The Lord moved my wonderful sister in Christ, Suzanne, to help me make the decision and within three hours all the arrangements were made. Now, that's amazing! I hadn't flown in years and my power chair not at all. We were both nervous!

But we got there! I don't know about anyone else but for me the Conference was marvelous. God moved on my life. I was validated, uplifted, encouraged, taught, turned and spun and so began a whole new me on the inside where I most needed it.

Answered prayer, revitalized for his next move and it didn't take long to come.

Yes, Ezekiel, these dry bones do rise up!

When I got home I attended a Positioned to Win Conference at Joan Hunter's awesome healing center just up the road from us, so it was easy enough to get there. Besides, we are affiliated with Joan and her miraculous healing work. It's a great place to praise the Lord, loosen up the dry bones and hear a fresh word from movers and shakers to more of the same.

The dynamic, outstanding Dr. Clarice Fluit was one of the speakers. I am normally backward in coming forward but I felt an impulse to charge up to her on my worthy steed, screeching to a halt right in front of her, and saying forcibly over the music: "Dr. Clarice, I have to get with you, I just have to." She smiled her beguiling smile and said in her sweet, musical voice: "Alright."

She asked why I was in a wheelchair and what God had to say about it. I told her he would heal it when he got enough prayer: "That's interesting," she said, in the same gentle tone and tapped me once on each shoulder and said, still smiling: "Now the fear's gone."

Well, good! I had been afraid to walk for fear of falling and breaking the fragile bones. When she said that, I thought what the heck, what's to lose? She walked me round the Center saying over and over, out of the wheelchair, you can do this, out of the wheelchair, you can do this and, despite the pain and weakness, I believed her. Dr. Clarice is mesmerizing in her beauty and her immense love and vitality that she could have you walk on water. Headly stuff! She prophesied I would be giving my testimony by November and I love her so much that I would hate to prove her wrong so I'm working the body the best I can!

It's going to take a whole lot more of God to get me there! I believe the touch I got from the Holy Spirit at the Conference in Chicago gave me the stomach for it. Yay, ACT!

From glory to glory...hmmm, not always how we want it!

As if it's not enough that I am working on the body the new me has been led to embark on a blogging course to launch an online ministry for the Kingdom. Yes, I am learning new skills and bursting my head when all I really want to do is sit in a rocker and sip an umbrella drink. Your will be done, Lord, thank you :-):

I have been amazed that this blogging thing opened me up and wormed its way down inside me to places I didn't know were there. It is not only challenging my brain, it has sent me reeling backwards, picking up stray bits and pieces of unhealed misery of yesteryear. Woe, I thought, I didn't sign up for this!

After 35 years of dedication to healing and deliverance, my own and others, and deep spirituality including 10 years of heavy therapy, living life in Christ on a daily basis in community yet, still, I am not where I need to be in cleaning up the past! My coach insists that successful Blogging requires a vulnerable and authentic self. I thought I was. No, he says, I'm a walking sermon, ugh! So much to learn. After years of listening to others I find myself out of touch with me.

Some part of me was missing.

Was it my heart, my soul? Had I become robotic? I hadn't sat with me in years to find out where I am now and what I want out of life at this stage. I am no longer the neophyte bound by blind obedience. I am now trusted to make enlightened choices.

We say, what do you want, Lord, when I know what he really wants. More than anything he wants happy children that he can enjoy in all their human, delightful absurdity. He wants to be with us but we're no fun if we're always working.

I know what robs me of joy. It is when I work too hard, too long. I've always been a hard worker but I just can't do it any more yet still I do. I complained to the Lord and what did he say? Who sets your agenda? Ouch! I can arrange my days any way I want, but do I? Of course not, the worker bee has to push on till she keels over.

So, that's it, work, I'm talking to you, and to service, ministry, people, priests, demands, classes, homework, agenda, writing, emails, all of you, listen up!

You are not the boss of me!

I was not happy doing what I was doing. No wonder I didn't show up! I have been giving out knowledge, wisdom, healing, spirituality and all the other things God has taught me over the years but I wasn't in it. I have been giving people the Jesus in me but not the me in me.

Part of the problem is that I don't have enough real, vibrant people in my life, so it always turns into work. We are all so broken. I am not the only one who's missing. But Jesus didn't live a life of hell on earth so I could work. He came to set me free to live and love and be happy.

So, that's my goal. No more agenda for now. No more fretting in a frenzy to get things done. I trot gently through my day as it unfolds before me from a prayerful, sleepy, stretching awakening, letting God be God, time for him, time for me and his work gets done.

So, I came to myself. Peace reigns.

Elizabeth Pringle

There is a "Prayer Request or Praise Report" option at the bottom left corner of our homepage. Thank you Joe Duddie and Elaine Gale!

The Online Store is also up and running with the Journal of Christian Healing available at no cost to members and available to others for purchase. Thank you Doug Schoeninger and your team for all of your hard work and dedication to this project.

As your Board of Directors and other leaders prepared for the February leadership weekend together, we were blessed with receiving word gifts from our Word Gift team. One such gift that I would like to pass on to you is from Maureen Orso who coordinates the ACT prayer line for members.

I was blessed by this word that Maureen sent:

"My children, I have called you to be vessels of silver and gold. Your trials have been the Refiner's fire that has prepared you for this time. I desire to fill you from My winepress so that you may serve as drink to the thirsty. But, I cannot fill a vessel that is already full. You have filled yourselves with concerns, beliefs and activities that have tainted that which I placed within you long ago when we first began. Empty yourselves of such things and I will send the Holy Fire to cleanse and purify you. Only then will I be able to fill you with My wine. You are called to be vessels and as such you are called to be the bearers of the Good News. Present to me your desire to be filled only with My Will and purpose and it will be done. Your cup will overflow leaving no room for anything that is not of My Kingdom. Be courageous, be Mine and Mine alone, My children."

Let us do all that we can to pray with one another and mentor each other as prayer partners, in small Support Empower and Worship groups, Life and Growth in the Spirit Seminars, in healing masses and healing events. It is time to form a new healing prayer generation and WE are called to do it.

Thank you for your ACT membership and commitment to healing prayer in the name of Jesus.

“You shall not have other gods besides me.”

The repetitive loss of multiple lives culminating to that on Ash Wednesday 2018, cannot be overlooked.
Indeed, it is the acts of omission and commission by this and past generations, that have expanded into this dilemma.

Prayer from the Graveyards

Heavenly Father, God of Power, Light and Truth,

Have Mercy on us and deliver us:

From the grip of the enemy, and our reliance on weapons of mass destruction;

From callous minimization of healthcare for the emotionally distressed, and

From the deception of self-serving public servants.

Heavenly Father, we ask you to lift our blindness and lead us,

To work for peace and truth in our land,

To protect the Right to Life for all humans, irrespective of their origin,

To replace the lie to bear arms and the fear of each other, with your Love,

But more fervently, that we give allegiance only to You.

Father, we ask pardon and pray that you release your fury that we brought on when we dismissed your First Commandment.

“You shall not have other gods besides me.”

EDITOR'S NOTE

Dear ACTheals Members and Friends,

Hope this issue of InterAct refreshes you.

Please note that the deadline for the next issue of InterAct is June 15th, 2018. Your submissions, ideas and creative pieces are most appreciated to keep this online magazine alive. Kindly include a photo and a two or three line description of yourself with your submission.

As InterAct makes its way to print, it is still Holy Week. What Christ encountered then is no different from today and the role of ACTheals members is further heightened amidst the surrounding issues.

Heavenly Father, we surrender the issues that face us to You. Guide us to the renewal and hope of Easter.

Peace,

Alphiene Anthraper, M.A.
