Looking at your answers, I want you to ask yourself this question, what are my greatest strengths that I have not FULLY given back to myself?

(You can put more than one of the top three answers.)

I have allowed self sabotage or imbalance to happen by denying and blocking the gift of my own strengths to myself with the following situations:

(Name three or more past/current situations that are now in an energy draining state as a result! Use more space, if needed. This isn't about being hard on yourself, the only purpose is to shine the light of truth for activating your natural strengths, your own soul stamina to support your life more fully in the same capacity you give it so freely to the world around you.)
