Still, the film's performance is better than expected so far. Also, Universal was heartened to see that ticket sales were up 27 percent from Wednesday to Thursday (movies usually dip notably on Thanksgiving Day; last year Frozen 2 took in $15 million on Thursday, a 37 percent drop from Wednesday). Overseas, Croods 2 debuted Thursday in China to $3 million. From the Universal-owned DreamWorks Animation, Croods 2 is the first major studio film to brave opening on the big screen amid the ongoing pandemic since Tenet. Complicating matters for Croods 2, in recent days, hundreds of theaters that were able to open this earlier fall have now been ordered to shut again because of a surge in COVID-19 cases. Thanksgiving is normally one of the most lucrative corridors of the year. Last year, Disney and Pixar's Frozen 2 collected more than $100 over the long four-day weekend (Thursday through Sunday). It finished the weekend with a domestic total of $288 after opening a week earlier on Friday Nov. 22.

Universal is able to stay in the theatrical game because of landmark deal it has struck with AMC Theatres and Cinemark Theatres that shatters the traditional theatrical window by allowing Universal titles to go to premium VOD early. Croods 2 will be available on PVD in roughly three weeks, in time for Christmas. The movie's voice cast sees the return of Nicolas Cage, Emma Stone, Ryan Reynolds, Catherine Keener, Clark Duke and Cloris Leachman. Franchise newcomers include Peter Dinklage, Leslie Mann and Kelly Marie Tran. Joel Crawford helmed the sequel in his feature directorial debut from a screenplay by Dan Hageman, Kevin Hageman, Paul Fisher and Bob Logan. Kelly Marie Tran is killing the game, per usual. The star of unequivocal masterpiece Star Wars: The Last Jedi can currently be heard reprising her role of Rose Tico in LEGO Star Wars Holiday Special on Disney+ and later this week can be heard in The Croods: A New Age, the surprisingly wonderful sequel to DreamWorks Animation's 2013 original. In the film she plays Dawn Betterman, a more advanced human who finds the joy in connecting with her inner caveman. (She's a total hoot.) And if that wasn't enough, she'll join Disney royalty in next spring's animated Raya and the Last Dragon. Not too shabby. We were overjoyed to get to talk to Tran about whether recent immersion in animation has been like, her favorite Star Wars fan interaction (spoiler: it's not the kind of story you'll expect), and how badly she wants to go to a seafood buffet with your Croods costar Nicolas Cage (when it is safe to do so, of course). Collider: You've done a lot of animated stuff recently. KELLY MARIE TRAN: Random, right? As a performer, what's the appeal of these projects? TRAN: It's almost like being a kid again, if that makes sense. It's also not tied to... This is going to sound so weird and actor-y. But because it's not tied to your face and I don't have to worry about what I'm doing, I can physically be jumping up and down while I'm voicing a character and it doesn't seem strange. I guess having the ability to just completely be unrestrained is very exciting to me.

But then do you watch some of the things and see those movements in the character? Was there anything like that on Croods 2 where you did a facial expression and then it wound up in the movie? TRAN: Oh, yeah. Yeah, absolutely. Absolutely.

And Croods 2, specifically, has been such a joy to work on because Joel [Crawford], who directed it, we just had the best time just improvising. Honestly, it got really weird, and I think that's good.

In some of those sessions... How did it get weird? TRAN: Yeah. In some of those sessions... Did you get a chance to watch it? Yes. TRAN: Okay, great. The whole thing with Dawn sort of going into this really intense, I don't want to say bro-y because I don't think it's the right word, but almost like intense wrestler voice was just from improvising and us having fun. And the scenes where she's under the influence of a bee sting, ha-ha, those scenes are just... It just was so much fun to find this character doing these things and just to be completely, again, unrestrained and just not... I guess, any time you can feel like you're in that mode of play without feeling judged is a really special thing, and I find that is particularly true with a lot of the animation stuff I've been able to do. I just feel this freedom, which I think I'm chasing at the moment. You started obviously in sort of improv and sketch comedy. Do you feel yourself tapping into that same well for these things? TRAN: Oh, yeah.

Totally. And I think that's another thing that has made it such a joy, and especially during COVID. I miss doing improv shows in random indie theaters in LA. I just miss doing weird comedy. I think that doing voiceover has really sort of tapped into that part of me and it's brought me a lot of joy. Were you a fan the first Croods? Did you know the world immediately when they came to you with the sequel? TRAN: Yeah. And also, when you audition for something, you get an audition notice, and then you look at something and you're like, "Oh, I know what this is." And I feel the same way about all the properties I've done when it comes to this kind of stuff, Star Wars stuff, all of it. You get an audition and you look at it and you don't think to yourself that you're actually going to get it. Do you know what I mean?

You think, "Oh, I know this world. This is awesome. This is going to be so much fun," and you just go in as an actor, you do the best work you can, you just leave it at the door. I used to do this thing before I was auditioning for things that were a secret that I couldn't even get the sides to. But I used to do this thing in auditions where I would just take the sides that I had for the audition and just toss them afterwards and just have this weird, okay, I had my fun in the room and I don't try to judge my fun based on whether or not I get a part, if that makes sense. I try to make the reward what happens in the room. Well, you keep getting hired, so you must be doing something right. TRAN: We'll see. You are in the Lego Star Wars Holiday Special that just came out as well. Do we think Rose had more lines in the Lego Star Wars Holiday Special than in Rise of Skywalker? TRAN: Oh my goodness. Do we think? Do we have to count? I think we have to count. TRAN: That was so much fun. I love Rose. I have such an attachment to my time playing in that world and being that character. I'm just excited for people to see more of her. So yeah, that was really fun. In this house, we stan Rose as well. We just watched The Last Jedi again this weekend, not even prompted by this. TRAN: Aw, I love that. Do you have a favorite Star Wars fan interaction or experience that you've had? TRAN: Yes. Absolutely. And this was actually... I was in London I think for the London premiere of the movie and I had brought one of my best friends, Caitlin, who also... She and I went through UCB together and Second City, so we're both improv weirdos. She was my roommate when I booked the part of Rose, so she sort of saw me through this whole experience. And we're sitting in this... I remember because I think we had just seen Cursed Child because we're also huge Harry Potter fans. This interview is going off the rails, by the way. I'm just totally... No, it's perfect.

TRAN: Okay. So we had just seen Cursed Child. Imagineus and we're in this little pub, in theupstairs, eating meat pies. So good. And we're sittingthere eating these meat pies, and Ihear this table of like 10 people to the right ofus who had just seen The Last Jedi and werefully discussing what they thought of this movie.I'm just sitting there with my friend,Caitlin, just eating these meat pies. So I just wentover there and I was like, "Hey, guys," andthey were like, "Hey." I was like, "I just wantedto say, I heard you talking about The LastJedi. I play Rose and I just wanted to say hi." AndI just think it's so exciting to be part ofsomething that people love so much that they wantto sit around a table in a pub and talkabout it afterwards. I always think about how muchof a privilege that is to be makingthings that a large amount of people want to see.It's sort of like a cultural touchstone. ThenI just hung out with them for a little bit, and thatwas one of my favorite experiencesbecause it just was sort of the encapsulation of me,for the first time, really working in thisworld and really experiencing being part of somethingthat is so much bigger than me. Andseeing the joy it brought other people was prettycool.I also love that it's a story about you going to someoneelse and not someone else comingup to you. TRAN: Yeah. I'm a total freak, yeah. I was just like,"Oh, I'm just going to causally interrupt ameal right now."I have to ask about Raya and the Last Dragon beforeI go, because everyone I've talked toyou at Disney Animation just says that you came inand knocked it out of the park andeverybody loves working with you, so just so you havea good reputation over there. TRAN: Oh my gosh. Wait, that's so nice. That meansso much.What has that been like for you? You're a Disney princessnow. TRAN: Yeah. I am so thrilled and freaked out. Obviously,it's such a privilege to work withthese incredible artists who truly... I grew up watchingDisney films, as pretty much, I don'twant to say everyone, but most people grew up on Disneyfilms and just being such a fan ofthat world. And then to be able to come in and workwith all of these incredible peoplewho... Sometimes I'll have a conversation with someoneand be like, "Cool, cool." I'll go onIMDB and Google and them and be like, "Whoa, theyworked on The Lion King," and allthese other things and it just freaks me out. It is just so cool. Yeah, I always say this, and I know it sounds so cheesy because it probably is, but I just think it's true, everything that I've been able to do in my career this far very much feels like an impossible miracle. I am not someone who had connections in this industry. I'm not someone who knew how to do that. I really feel like I was like the blind leading the blind, trying to figure out how to audition and this world. Everyone who has dreams as a kid watching these movies and wanting to be a part of it, if there's anything that can prove that it's possible to do anything, it's that somehow I am where I am continuing to do the things that I'm doing. Yeah, it means a lot to me that you, yeah, that you said that about the people that you know at Disney because I just love everyone there so much. I'm just grateful. Croods 2 leaves things pretty open. You could come back. Would you jump at the chance to return? TRAN: Yes. Yeah, absolutely. I had such a great time working on it. And also I still have not met Nic Cage and I find this to be a travesty. So I will do the third one just to meet Nic Cage. Make it happen, DreamWorks. Come on. I hope post-quarantine, you and Nic Cage go out for seafood buffet or something. TRAN: Like why hasn't this happened? Yes. Seafood buffet feels like just the thing with Nic Cage. The Croods: A New Age is in theaters this Friday and will hit PVD before Christmas.
