PRAYER, CONFERENCE ROOM 'G'

Throughout the conference a prayer room will be available (24 hours a day). Our prayer coordinator is Rev. Greg Langille - please see prayer insert for schedule and other information.

HOTEL

Please see your General Conference package for the hotel brochure which outlines general hotel information.

PARKING - $8 A DAY

Parking for the hotel is an independent operation which means that they typically do not give in and out privileges. However, if you indicate when you arrive that you are a guest of the hotel and the length of your stay, they will pre-charge you and give you a pass for that time. If you do this, then you are able to come and go at your leisure without penalty.

Remember that you will need to make this clear to the parking attendant upon entry.

RESTAURANTS, In the hotel
Regal Chinese • The Atrium

RESTAURANTS, in the surrounding area
Mr. Greek • Tim Horton's • Tucker's Marketplace • The Keg
Graffittis • Outback • Swiss Chalet • Perkins • Harveys

STANDING RULES OF ORDER

1. Schedule

The first session of the Fifth Canadian General Conference convenes at 7:00 p.m., Friday, May 31, 2002 at the Regal Constellation Plaza Hotel, Toronto, Ontario in the Plaza A/B room. The continuing schedule of the Conference is as contained in the published Agenda and distributed to the members of the Conference prior to the Conference convening.

2. Roll

Credentials for all elected delegates were to be submitted to the Canadian Ministry Centre prior to the Conference. The list of all such elected delegates having submitted credentials forms the roll of elected delegates. All ministers who are full members of the Canadian Conference are eligible voting members of General Conference. A list of all registered delegates and eligible voting members of General Conference constitutes the roll of General Conference for purposes of establishing a quorum. The roll is taken by inspection in each session by the Assistant Superintendents and appointees of the Secretary of the Conference. No member of Conference is to be absent from the Conference except due to illness or other emergency situations.

3. Honourary Seats

The following persons are granted honorary seats at the Conference

- Ministerial Candidates
- Appointed (Supply) Pastors
- Members of the Board of Administration who are not elected delegates
- Special invited guests of the Conference who shall be recognized by the Chair
- Denominational Executives
- Missionaries of the Canadian Church

All persons granted an honorary seat have a voice but not a vote.

4. Bar

All voting members of General Conference are seated at tables in designated seats. This area constitutes the bar of the Conference.

5. Presiding Officers

The Bishop presides at the sittings of the General Conference. The Bishop vacates the Chair at the time of the scheduled agenda item - election of Bishop. A designated representative of the Board of Administration presides over the Conference for this specific agenda item only. A parliamentarian is seated beside the presiding officer of the Conference.

6. Minutes

The Secretary of the General Conference prepares the minutes of the Conference and these minutes are reviewed and adopted by the Board of Administration. Copies of the adopted minutes of the General Conference are mailed to all members of the General Conference within 60 days of the conclusion of the Conference.

7. Robert's Rules of Order

The current edition of Robert's Rules of Order is the standard of parliamentary procedure.

8. Resolutions

The deadline for submitting resolutions to the General Conference was October 1, 2001. All resolutions received by that date have been submitted to the Study Team on Doctrine who reports to the Conference on the disposition of the resolutions so that all issues receive due consideration. No new resolutions are accepted on the floor of General Conference. Study Team reports were distributed to all General Conference members in January 2002 for review. Inter-active sessions are scheduled Friday and Saturday evenings of General Conference before recommendations are presented to the Body.

9. Resolutions Committee

The Study Commission on Doctrine (SCOD) will act as the General Conference Committee on Resolutions. It will evaluate and recommend adoption, amendment, merging (combining two or more related resolutions), referral to a Study Team, or rejection of those resolutions submitted to the General Conference. The rationale for amendments, merges, or rejections shall be reported to the General Conference. A recommendation to reject a motion may be overturned by a 75% vote of the General Conference. Such action would then permit the resolution to be considered by the General Conference.

Where resolutions propose substantive changes (changes which are extensive or involve significant changes in meaning), to The Manual, SCOD will consult with the body responsible for the related section of The Manual (e.g. BOA, MEGaP) or appropriate subject matter experts regarding the wording of the proposed revised text. Following the General Conference, SCOD will collect and prepare changes to The Manual approved by the General Conference and submit the edits to the BOA for final approval (to ensure consistency with the direction of the General Conference) prior to publishing and distributing them.

10. Debate

Debate is limited to three minutes per speaker and speakers are heard alternately for and against the motion, recommendation or resolution, up to a limit of three for each side. The Chairperson of the reporting Study Team may use up to three minutes to close the debate. This privilege is not cancelled by ordering the previous question. No member may speak a second time on the same issue except to provide clarification at the request of the Chair. The three-minute limit on debate may be amended by a majority vote of the Conference at any time and for any period of duration.

11. Demonstrations out of order

Any demonstrations approving or disapproving positions expressed by speakers during debates are considered out of order.

12. Quorum

Two-thirds of all registered delegates and eligible voting members of the Conference constitute a quorum to do business.

13. Tellers

The General Conference is served by Tellers.

14. Voting

Only the members of the Conference within the bar of the Conference at the time of voting are allowed to vote on any matter.

15. Voting

All ballot votes are counted by Tellers outside the body of the General Conference. The results of votes are reported to the Secretary of Conference who reports to the body.

16. Voting

A majority vote is considered the approval of any proposal, unless otherwise specified.

17. Suspension of Standing Rules

The Standing Rules of Order may be suspended by a two-thirds vote of the Conference Body present and voting.

18. Effective Date

All legislation of the General Conference becomes effective at the close of the Conference, unless otherwise specified.

19. Business Overlooked

Any matters overlooked by the General Conference are referred to the Board of Administration with power to act until the next sitting of the General Conference.

PARLIAMENTARY PROCEDURE

This information is provided as a précis of Robert's Rules of Order for the convenience of easy access.

The comments which follow are intended to provide information and clarification to delegates to the General Conference about the practices which govern the manner in which business is conducted. These comments assume the adoption of the Standing Rules of Order proposed for the 2002 General Conference as well as the adoption of Robert's Rules of Order as the standard of parliamentary procedure.

PURPOSE AND PRINCIPLES

The purpose of Robert's Rules of Order, as stated in the original preface (1876), is "...to assist an assembly to accomplish the work for which it was designed, in the best possible manner."

It is important that order, decency and regularity be preserved if the General Conference is to carry out its work as a parliamentary body. "To do this," Roberts declared, "it is necessary to restrain the individual somewhat, as the right on an individual in any community, to do what he or she pleases, is incompatible with the interests of the whole."

PARLIAMENTARY PRINCIPLES should be observed by the delegates in the plenary sessions (assembly of all delegates):

1. Consider one thing at a time. Only one matter (report, motion or vote) may be "on the floor" at any time. This is a fundamental principle in parliamentary procedure.
2. Stick to the issue at hand. The first principle evokes a second. Attention must be focused on the "one thing" before the body. Any comments, discussion or debate should be relevant to "the issue at hand".
3. Speak to the motion. Delegates participating in debate on a motion should indicate at the outset whether they are speaking in favor of or against the proposed action. They ought not to address other matters in their speech, except that which is pertinent to the issue at hand.
4. Debate motions, not members. Delegates are to address the chair, not one another. Their comments should be addressed to "the issue at hand", not other members.
5. Observe Christian courtesy. Being respectful, considerate and patient are Christian virtues. They also are basic tenets in parliamentary proceedings. They ought to be practiced at all times.

CERTAIN RIGHTS are protected by Robert's Rules of Order:

1. The individual delegate has the right to participate in plenary proceedings.
2. The minority has the right to be heard on all debatable motions.
3. The majority has the right to determine the outcome of most votes.

To facilitate the work of the General Conference, the following rules are proposed:

- 1. Times of speeches: Speeches are to be limited to three minutes. If a delegate continues beyond three minutes, the chair may call time. At this signal, the delegate should cease speaking and be seated.
- 2. Balance of speakers: If three delegates in order speak on one side of a motion, the chair will determine if anyone wishes to speak on the opposing side. If not, the chair may terminate the debate and call for the vote.

GUIDELINES

The making of a "motion" is the primary means by which a matter is brought before the body.

The making of a motion is a special privilege. Once a motion is made and seconded, it becomes the "issue at hand", and the entire body must devote its full attention to it. In a large assembly, every minute is valuable. The individual delegate, therefore, must weigh carefully his/her claim for attention, not only in offering a Main Motion for consideration, but in moving an amendment, entering the debate on a motion, or rising to a point of (personal) privilege.

This comment is not meant to limit delegate participation. It is meant to serve as a reminder that the purpose of an individual participating (which is the right of all delegates) is to assist the assembly to accomplish its work.

Outlined below for reference purposes, are the primary motions:

1. MAIN MOTION

When you want to bring to the body a particular proposal for its consideration, the proper motion is:

"I move that . . ." or "I move the adoption (acceptance/approval) of this report."

A main motion requires a second, is debatable and can be amended; it requires a majority vote to pass. The main motions of the General Conference will be introduced by the Study Team reports.

2. SECONDARY MOTIONS

A. When you want to modify a proposed action in some way, the proper form for minor change is . . .

1. "I move to amend the motion by striking out . . ."
2. "I move to amend the motion by inserting . . . between . . . and . . ."
3. "I move to amend the motion by adding . . . after . . ."
4. "I move to amend the motion by striking out . . . and substituting this: (read or state substitute)"
5. "I move to amend by striking out . . . and substituting this : (read or state substitute)"

A motion to amend requires a second and is debatable. It can itself be amended, by a motion to amend the Motion to Amend. This should be used sparingly! These motions require a simple majority to pass.

A more substantive change is sometimes called a "substitute motion". This form of amendment should be used sparingly!

B. Move to refer, commit or recommit

When you want to place the matter on the floor in the hands of a few delegates for later report and recommendation to the conference, the proper motion is:

"I move that this matter be referred to . . . committee (or a committee to be appointed by the chair.") Specific instructions as to the assignment or desired report may also be included.

Usually this motion is used when it becomes apparent that major changes are needed in the Main Motion. In most instances, the matter may be referred back to the originating committee for further work.

The Motion to Refer requires a second, may be debated and amended. It requires a majority vote to pass.

C. Move to table or postpone

When you want to propose the matter be laid aside for consideration at a later time, you may move either to table or to postpone. The proper form of motion is:

"I move that this matter be laid on the table . . ." or

"I move that this matter be postponed until . . ."

The Motion to Table (or Take from the Table) requires a second but is not debatable and cannot be amended. It requires a simple majority vote to pass. Later, the matter may be brought to the floor using the following motion:

"I move to take from the table (restate the motion)."

The Motion to Postpone, while accomplishing much the same purpose, works a little differently. It too requires a second but is debatable and amendable. It requires a majority vote to pass.

D. Move to close debate

When you wish to stop debate on the matter "on the floor", the proper motion following recognition by the chair, is:

"I move the previous question."

This motion requires a second but is not debatable and cannot be amended. It requires a two thirds vote to pass. If this motion passes, the motion is immediately put to a vote, without further debate. If this motion fails, the debate on the floor is to be continued as if no interruption has occurred.

Note: While a delegate may call out "Question", this does not constitute a motion (and may be disruptive). Neither the chair nor the body need to take any note of it. If you wish to terminate the debate, the proper procedure is to raise your hand and, when called on by the chair, to move the "previous question".

Privilege and Incidental Motions

These motions should be used sparingly, if at all, by the individual delegate.

A. Move to adjourn or recess

If you wish to have the meeting dismissed or to provide for an intermission, the proper form of motion is:

"I move that we adjourn/recess (while . . . or until . . .)"

B. Request a point of (personal) privilege

If you wish to get the attention of the chair at once, to ask a question extraneous to the matter at hand or attend to some other matter that cannot wait, the proper form of motion is:

"I rise to a question of privilege . . . (state petition)."

Defining Key Roles

It is important that the General Conference understand the role of the Chair. His/her primary duties are as follows:

1. To open the meeting at the appointed time by taking the chair and calling the meeting to order.
2. To announce in proper sequence the business that comes before the conference.
3. To recognize delegates who are entitled to the floor.
4. To state and put to vote all questions that come before the conference and to announce the result of each vote.
5. To enforce the rules relating to debate and to order within the conference.
6. To expedite business in every way consistent with the rights of the delegates.
7. To decide all question of order.
8. To respond to inquiries of delegates relating to parliamentary procedure.
9. To declare the meeting adjourned when the assembly so votes or at the time prescribed in the agenda.

The role of the Parliamentarian also needs to be clearly understood.

1. The task of the parliamentarian is limited to giving advice to the Chair. It is the duty of the parliamentarian to call to the attention of the Chair any error in the proceedings that may affect the rights of any delegate or may otherwise do harm.
2. The parliamentarian should be called upon to speak publicly on only the most involved matter. This practice should be avoided if at all possible.
3. Once the parliamentarian has expressed an opinion on a point, whether privately to the Chair or publicly to the body, the Chair has the duty to make the final ruling and in doing so has the right to follow the advice of the parliamentarian or to disregard it.

MEMORANDUM

TO: Members of Conference, Lay Delegates to the 2003 General Conference
FROM: Rev. Mary-Elsie Fletcher, Director of Ministry Advancement
DATE: February 5, 2002
RE: The Study Papers and Nominating Committee Report

Dear Friends,

Please find the draft reports from the General Conference Study Teams. These comprise the recommendations that the Study Teams will be presenting May 31-June 3, 2002.

I encourage you to review this material carefully to best prepare for the upcoming conference. As a member of conference or your church representative, how you vote will affect our denomination's future in each of these categories.

The objective of the Study Teams this time was to be more inspirational, informative and resourceful. You will find fewer recommendations overall. When the Study Teams report, they are not planning on repeating the information that you are receiving in advance. They have worked to find 'best in class' resources to serve your local churches.

If you have any comments or concerns that you would like to address to any of the chairs, please call, fax or email them directly. Your feedback should be given to the chairs no later than May 1.
