

STEWARDSHIP OF MONEY

What does God say about how we deal with our money?

- Although stewardship covers all areas of our lives – not just our possessions but our faith, our time, our talents, our relationships, and our environment – money and how we handle it can affect and control all of them.
- We learn from the Scripture that whenever we deal with money, we are dealing not with a neutral medium of exchange but with the powers that operate behind, in and through money that seeks our devotion above all else.
- It does not say that money itself is not wrong. Money is used to fund everything – good and bad.
- In God's economy – money is a tool. But in the world's economy, money is a symbol and a power.
- But money is a powerful thing. If we fail to control it, it will control us and money, rather than God's still small voice, money will drive all key life decisions for us – where we live, what jobs we take, who our friends are, and more.
- Jesus warns us that this area would quickly become a source of pain and frustration and sometimes bondage - where we start to act as owners of our money and possessions and don't see how quickly they start to own us.
- Jesus warns us that our hearts will follow our money. And that we are then easily led astray from trust and devotion to God into areas of worry and even obsession over our possessions.
- This is why God has so much to say about how we deal with money (over 2300 verses). Jesus spoke about it frequently. About two-thirds of Jesus' parables make reference to our use of financial resources. Jesus tells us that where our treasure is, there our heart will be also.
- "No one can serve two masters. For you will hate one and love the other, or be devoted to one and despise the other. You cannot serve both God and money" (Matthew 6:24)
- When we try to separate our spiritual life from our finances, our work, our careers our possessions, we begin to serve two masters. As Christians, that puts us in a very dangerous position. Jesus warns us that we must not do this.
- Whenever there is a separate life that is owned and ruled by you, you cannot be a steward. Ownership and stewardship are mutually exclusive. As soon as anything becomes 'ours', it ceases to be an asset that can be stewarded and we are reenacting the sin of Adam and Eve in the Garden.
- As we teach people to resist the pull of the world culture and follow good money stewardship principles– to be generous, to save, to get out of consumer debt – we must do this:
 - Only in the context of a heart transformation
 - With grace-filled teaching, and
 - On a solid biblical foundation.
