

Library To Open In Minster Bank

The Francis J. Stallo Memorial Library, a branch of Blume Memorial Public Library of Wapakoneta, will open its doors to the public shortly after completion of the new bank building in Minster.

Efforts of James Eiting and Marvin Huber, backing of the Minster Civic Association, generosity of the Minster State Bank and its personnel, and fine cooperation of the board of directors of the county library have made the library here possible.

Idea of the library originated with members of the Minster Civic Association and received the firm backing of that organization. Upon discovering that approximately 1,300 square feet of basement area in the new bank building would not be utilized for some time, several members contacted the board of directors of the bank in relation to utilizing this area for a library.

The bank board gave full approval to the idea and advised that the area could be used for library facilities on a rent-free basis. Charges for utilities will be made.

Further contact with members of the state library board and the county library board resulted in granting of a charter to Minster as a branch of Blume Memorial Library.

Plans for furnishing the new facility are being made by a local board of directors with guidance and assistance of the board of the county library.

Board of directors members of the local branch are Ted Purpus, James Eiting, Marvin Huber, Joe Schlatter, E. G. Van Oss, Frank Brinkman, Mrs. Ray Bergman and Mrs. Ted Purpus. Anyone desiring to make a contribution to the library can get the necessary details from any board member.

Farm-Orama Moving To Auglaize County

Farm-Orama will move to Auglaize County in 1963 and will be staged on a 709-acre tract one mile southeast of New Knoxville.

It will mark the fifth year for the show which last September was held at Wilmington in conjunction with the national and state plowing matches.

The show is being extended from three days to four next year. Perry Clark, general manager, stated that the extra day was possible because of the increased number of acres available at the site.

The New Knoxville location has 709 acres and last year's show had 465.

Clark stated that the new location is expected to attract more people from Indiana and Michigan and with the attendance from three states, a need for the extra day at next year's show.

The show at New Knoxville will include four different dairy operations and barnyard automation equipment for the first time.

Emphasis will again be put on "education through demonstration," the theme of Farm-Orama.

The show will also include newly-developed techniques from soil testing, to new soil preparation methods, to new hybrids, to field harvesting by machine, and new drying and storing methods.

High School Addition Planned At Versailles

The Versailles Exempted Village Board of Education has launched an exploratory phase of a project to construct a new addition to the high school building.

Supt. A. E. Stoner has been instructed to secure architects' sketches.

Nearly 200 additional high school students are expected to be enrolled in the next three years.

At end of the first six weeks attendance period there was a total of 1,306 students enrolled in the entire school system compared to 669 in 1952.

The present high school building was first used in 1952 and had 194 students in the upper three grades. Now the junior-senior high school houses grades seven through 12 and students total 586. The original building, constructed at a cost of $410,000, and an addition completed in 1960 and costing $350,000, are designed for a capacity of 600.

Enrollment is expected to hit 663 in September of 1963, 712 in 1964 and 778 in 1965 and is expected to reach the 800 mark in 1968.

Supt. Stoner said estimated cost of the building, which would house about eight classrooms, is $150,000 and, if approved, would probably raise the tax rate less than one mill.

'Open House' Set At Retreat House

Civic and religious ceremonies will be held in conjunction with the beginning of an open house program at the new $700,000 Maria Stein Retreat House Sunday, Nov. 18.

The retreat house, operated by the Sisters of the Precious Blood, is located a half-mile north of Maria Stein. Activities will begin at 2 p. m. with dedication of a flagpole and presentation of the Stars and Stripes. This will be followed by solemn Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament outdoors, if weather permits.

Visitors then will have an opportunity to inspect the entire retreat house building. The recently-formed Retreat House Helpers Association will be in charge of parking and members of the group will serve coffee to visitors.

The public will see the center's 60 private rooms for retreatants, including double rooms for retreats for husbands and wives.

The chapel, spacious lounges, dining and kitchen facilities, and extensive art work completed and donated to the retreat house by the Rev. Lawrence T. Abbe of Fryburg will be inspected.

Nov. 18 marks only the beginning of the open house. The retreat house will be open to the public for the rest of the week and on the following Sunday, Nov. 25.

Hours will be from 1 to 5 p. m. daily except on Thanksgiving, when the building will be open for inspection from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

The sisters who staff the center are receiving the active support of a group of men who organized the Retreat House Helpers. The new organization raised more than $11,000 at a recent two-day festival. The men gave the nuns a check for $6,000 and set aside the remainder in a treasury required to promote future fund-raising activities.

The association has been incorporated under an arrangement that requires an operating fund and at the same time stipulates that no compensation can be given to any officer or member for services rendered.

Directors of the organization are making plans for special benefit events. One of these will be the presentation of the romantic comedy, "Rainmaker," Dec. 1 and 2 at the Crescent Theater, Minster.

Plans are being formulated for a horse show at the Mercer County fairgrounds next spring and for another event, as yet unspecified, at Hobart Arena, Troy.

The Helpers' Association, with a membership of more than 300, aims at enrolling at least 1,000 men. Dues are $1 per year.

Officers include Norbert Gudorf, Minster, president; Leo Stammen, North Star, vice president; Carl Mescher, Celina, treasurer; Virgil Moorman, Minster, secretary; Robert Burke of St. Marys, Ray Hoving of St. Patrick, George White of Piqua, Firmin Alexander of Russia, and Edward Kaiser of Fort Recovery, directors.

Mrs. Evelyn Fitzpatrick and Mrs. Adella Stangel of Dayton spent the week end with Victor Meyer and Leona Meyer.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Wetzel of Cleveland announce the arrival of a son Friday, Nov. 9. They also have three daughters. The new arrival is the 64th grandchild of Mrs. Urban Wetzel.

The Eagles' Auxiliary met last Thursday after church services. The $100 was won by Robert Kemper. Plans were made for the annual Christmas party. It will be a potluck on Dec. 13 at 7 p. m. at the Eagle Hall, with $2 gift exchange.

Committee for the occasion is Janetee Borges, Miranda Eiting, Rosetta Meyer and Dorothy Stukenborg. Birthday gifts were presented to Ann Melcher and Bertha Vandenbrook. The pot of gold was called for Betty Budde who was not present. The meeting was followed by a social hour.

Dairymen Of Two Counties To Meet

Shelby and Auglaize County members of the Miami Valley Milk Producers Association will meet for their regular fall district meeting at the K. of C. Home in Minster Monday, Nov. 19 at 8 p. m.

Each year the association holds a membership meeting in each of its 10 districts for the purpose of elections and to bring news of the cooperative to the dairy-farmer members.

This year the Auglaize-Shelby members will elect 16 advisory councilmen to represent them for the year 1963. The councilmen, elected at the ratio of one to every 20 members, must be active milk shippers and members of the association.

Present dairy farmers from this district serving on the association's advisory council, whose terms will expire in January, 1963 are: Leander Schmitzmeyer, Minster R. 1, president; Harold Hollenbacher, Sidney R. 5, vice president; W. R. Joslin Jr., Sidney R. 2, secretary.

Also William Allenbaugh, Anna R. 2; Frederick Berning, Minster R. 1; Carl Davidson, Sidney R. 4; Paul Eilerman, Sidney R. 5; Elton Eissas, Wapakoneta R. 5; Harvey Elkhoff, St. Marys R. 2; Roy Heiland, Anna R. 1.

Dan Hoelscher, St. Marys R. 2; Lawrence Hoving, Ft. Loramie R. 1; Edward Quellhorst, New Bremen R. 1; Harvey Schmiesing, Ft. Loramie R. 1; Lawrence Schroeder, New Knoxville R. 1; Joseph Stueve, Minster R. 1, and Joseph Wuebker, Minster R. 1.

John Koch, Wapakoneta R. 5, represents the district on the association's central board of directors.

The general manager, Leslie C. Mapp, will bring members up to date on association operations in his report. He will discuss general dairy activities and answer questions.

and developing more milk from the 'sacred cow.'

According to Chakraborty, a goal of India is to grow more food and fight hunger for the country's 438 million people.

While in Wapakoneta, he works side by side with the head Fisher cheese maker, Lloyd Peterman and his staff, learning management aspects as well as techniques of modern-day manufacturing.

The Fisher operation is one of the most modern facilities of its kind in the country and its products are marketed coast to coast.

A student of Ohio State University, Chakraborty is working toward his masters degree in dairy technology. Because of his personal interest in the manufacture and management of cheese-making plants, arrangements were made by Prof. T. Kristoffersen of OSU and Fred Fisher, president of the cheese firm, to gain first-hand experience.

The art of cheese making is not new to Chakraborty. He has a bachelor of science degree in botany, zoology and biology from the University of Calcutta, and has an India dairy diploma.

He has served as a lecturer at the Dairy Research Institute in Karnal Punjab, India, and upon completion of his studies in this country will return to a post with the National Dairy Research Institute.

The U. S. Agency for International Development (AID) enables students to learn and participate in exchange programs in the field of agriculture as well as other endeavors.

Forester Explains Why It Pays To Manage Woodlot

An increasing number of small woodlot owners are finding that it does pay, in one way or another, to properly manage their woodlands, reports Dave Schatz, the area state farm forester.

In addition to increased revenue obtained from the timber, Mr. Schatz says that a well-managed woodland will provide desirable habitat for various forms of wildlife, good soil protection against erosion by wind and water, good watershed protection, good water storage and greater recreational and aesthetic values.

First of all, according to the forester, good management will involve exclusion of all livestock and protection from fire so that straight, well-formed, defect-free trees can be grown.

He says that cattle that are allowed to graze in a woodland eat young seedlings and trample roots of other trees, causing injury to occur and decay to set in, and that cattle compact the soil, decreasing its permeability and ability to hold water.

Another good step in woodland management, he says, is the renewal or deadening of poor-quality trees and tree species to allow younger, more healthy ones to grow unobstructed.

"Mature trees should be harvested and either sold or used by the owner," advises Mr. Schatz, who added that if the mature trees are allowed to remain too long they will slowly decay and lose much of the value they once had.

He said one mistake commonly made by woodlot owners is the selling of trees that are not yet mature. Trees that have not reached maturity will increase in volume if left to grow, and be worth much more later, he observed.

In most cases, according to the forester, good woodlot management takes only a small part of the owner's time and can generally be taken care of during the winter, and in the end the returns will almost always exceed the investment.

Growers Warned To Plan Wheat Acreage

Farmers who are going to take part in the 1963 wheat stabilization program should be careful to sign up only as much acreage as they intend to divert.

Thomas A. Byrne, chairman of the Auglaize Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said.

The signed acreage for 1963 will be a binding agreement, the chairman explained, and farmers will have to divert the full acreage for which they sign up in order to be eligible for any payments—including diversion payments, the regular price support loans or purchase agreements, and the extra wheat price support payments.

"This is a change from the 1962 program," Byrne declared. "Under the 1962 wheat stabilization program, a farmer could sign up for 30 acres, and then divert only 20, and still earn payments on the acreage he actually diverted."

"For 1963, however, such a farmer would not be eligible for any diversion or price-support payments. His failure to divert the whole acreage he signed up would cancel his eligibility for any kind of wheat-stabilization or price-support program assistance.

"We hope that farmers will consider their plans carefully before they file their applications to take part in the wheat stabilization program, and that they will then sign up only as much wheat acreage as they intend to divert," Byrne concluded.

The sign-up under the 1963 wheat stabilization program for winter wheat is now under way at ASCS county offices. It will continue through Dec. 14.

WASHINGTON AND

"SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

There is a great deal of discussion over cutting income taxes. The nation's independent businessmen, voting through the National Association of Independent Business, has pointed out many times present system is paralyzing expansion of independent business.

No one seems to disagree with this viewpoint. Yet, such respected men as the venerable Sen. Harry Byrd oppose tax cuts. The question is why?

Sen. Byrd as well as many others, are undoubtedly becoming more and more alarmed over the new dogma preached by the bureaucrats which seems to run "Ask not what your government can do to cut expenses; rather ask what you can do to pay more to support more bureaucrats in a bigger and better style."

If the nation is going to avert complete bankruptcy, Congress must it appears, take over full powers of government employment.

Rep. Richard Poff points out that the federal civilian employment is now up to 24 million, an increase of 213,000 in two years with 44,000 more federal jobs asked.

What do all these people do to justify their salaries. That seems a mystery to Rep. Poff.

He refers to an Agriculture Dept. press release in which it is reported "when a tomato is dropped on a hard surface, it will be damaged more than if dropped on foam rubber." The report further stated a tomato is injured even more. Presumably these researchers will study egg dropping when they figure way to drop an egg more than once.

No one knows how much this idiotic piece of "information" cost the taxpayers. In bureau chief's time, in stenographic and mimeographing labor, in mailing and postage costs.

Then there is the case reported to Congress of a Federal Trade Commission mental wizard ordering a southern clothing manufacturer to quit using trade name "Red Fox" because FTC could find no red fox fur in the cotton garments.

And Rep. John Rooney had an interesting conversation with Thomas Estes, U.S. Ambassador to Upper Volta. The State Dept. is spending $255,000 on a building program in the town of Ouagadougou, population 55,000 natives, 16 Americans. Rep. Rooney said "you must make quite an impact on that town, then when we add in foreign aid and the UNIA, I guess they really know the Americans are here." Mr. Estes replied, "Our principal job there in addition to carrying out such instructions as the State Dept. sends us is to maintain the American presence."

This is a very fragmentary report on where the money goes. It goes for people bouncing tomatoes, looking for fox fur in overall, building lavish State Dept. offices in jungles.

In 1975 people revolted against taxation by tyrants. Perhaps time has come to revolt against taxation by pyroches.

YOU AND THE LAW

Ohio State Bar Association
TRADE SYMBOL IMITATION

Imitation is a form of flattery. But in business it can be unfair competition to take advantage of another's good will by imitation of his unique trade symbols.

The law of unfair competition not only protects trade names and marks, but also distinctive packaging or displays which identify the source of the product involved in minds of consumers.

Jones had a busy and nationally-known sandwich shop called "The Cat's Meow" in California. Thomas and other Ohio residents knew of it. One day Thomas opened his own "The Cat's Meow" in Ohio. He used a similar menu, with California style goodies in an obvious attempt to make people think that his shop was an Ohio branch of Jones'.

Jones had no registered trademark or registered name. But even so, he could stop Thomas from palming off his goods by trade symbol imitation as those of Jones to protect the public from deception.

Accordingly, a person can be liable for palming off goods even though he doesn't put out a similar product if the public in fact is misled by his act. Thus the makers of "Yale" locks with their well-known name has successfully prevented another maker from using "Yale" on his flashlights and thereby competing unfairly by passing off his products as if they were "Yale's" to deceive the public.

The law does not want to stifle competition. Yet a business has to protect its good will as embodied in its trade symbols. Protecting a businessman in this way assures consumers from being misled. And so the courts often stop a competitor who puts out his goods under symbols which may create confusion with another's products.

The competitor need not act in bad faith. Even a businessman who innocently chooses a product name which is likely to create confusion may be enjoined from using it. To help businessmen choose unique names, the state and federal governments continuously register and catalog many names each year. You can have a name checked for a business or product by your lawyer. It is advisable for a business to do this whenever it is going to spend money to market a new product.

(This article is based upon the law of Ohio. It is not intended to advise anyone on a specific problem. No person should ever attempt to apply or interpret any law without advice of a lawyer.)

THE MINSTER LUMBER COMPANY

Mark McElroy Speaks:
YOUR OHIO LAWS

Mark McElroy, Atty. Gen. of Ohio

DEFAULT JUDGMENTS

Some day you could be surprised to discover that a part of your wages was being withheld from each paycheck under order of a court. Such a withholding would be the execution of a judgment. If you had not appeared in court when the underlying debt was litigated it would be a default judgment.

A very common example of how a man may be surprised by money being withheld from his wages occurs almost daily in Ohio. A man bought furniture on a time payment plan. Later he could not meet the payments and the furniture was repossessed. However, repossession is not the end of the matter. The furniture company will re-sell the furniture as second hand and apply the amount to the bill of the original purchaser. Then the furniture company will sell the bill to a collection agency. The collection agency will try to collect.

Failing to collect, the agency will file an action for the amount of the bill due plus costs and fees. The paper which the purchaser probably signed when he bought the furniture was a cognovit note. Under Ohio law this means that the original purchaser need not be notified that an action has been filed against him and he has authorized an attorney to admit that the defendant does not ask to be notified and judgment is confessed for him.

If the original purchaser had a complete or partial defense to the furniture bill and did not present his defense in court when his case was heard he may not be able to reopen his case. If he had paid the furniture company he might have to pay the collection agency also. By signing the cognovit note and failing to appear in court, the purchaser will soon find himself without the furniture and with money being taken from his wages to pay the bill and costs. This happens not only in furniture purchases but also in the automobile business and many other items.

Each citizen must be careful to inform himself about all papers he signs. If you fail to meet time or installment payments be sure to discover what has happened to your note. Whenever one of these situations occurs it is wise to consult your attorney and seek his advice on what you should do under the particular circumstances of your case.

If you receive notice of litigation to which you are a party do not ignore or forget such a notice. If you fail to appear in court and fail to present evidence, the judge may award a default judgment to those who are suing you. This situation results where you have not signed a cognovit note, but owe money. By failing to appear before the court the judge must assume that the claims of those suing you are true. For if the claims were not true then you would have appeared. In order to protect yourself if you receive a notice that you are involved in litigation consult with a competent attorney immediately.

Default judgments are quite common in Ohio as elsewhere in this country. Each person should be careful in purchasing and in meeting installments on time. Otherwise an unexpected default judgment may be taken against you and an execution levied on your wages or property.

to a complete line of hardtops, station wagons and sports sedans for 1963. The five new models added to the line include two rakish new hardtops and three new family fun station wagons. The 1963 Fairlane incorporates many new engineering features, highlighted by elimination of the 1,000-mile inspection.
Included in the service-saving items are 6,000-mile oil change and minor lube intervals, 36,000-mile major chassis lubrication and long-life self-adjusting brakes.

be introduced in dealer showrooms on Friday, September 23.

Do You Know?

Reversing the universal trend to boost prices, fares have been slashed as much as 50 per cent to encourage rail travel in Eastern Canada.

In fact, folks who use lower or upper berth, roomette or room in sleeping cars are given an extra bonus of free meals in meal service cars - a history-making innovation in North American rail transportation.

This startling departure from the usual has been inaugurated by the Canadian National Railways on its line east from Montreal through Quebec Province to the Atlantic Provinces of New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia.

The one-year bargain fares, available 304 days of the year, are geared to promote business when travel is usually at its lowest ebb and are priced according to the day of the week and time of the year.

FORT LORAMIE NEWS

Mrs. Emma Blayney spent a week in Piqua with relatives.

Mrs. Clara Filburn left for Florida Sunday, for the winter. She was accompanied by her son, Granville, who will return by plane.

Catholic Ladies of Columbia Council 203 was saddened by the death of a beloved member of long standing, Clara Rethman, who passed away Oct. 29. The council held its memorial ritualistic services for her, and she was remembered with a requiem mass. The council also extends sympathy to Mrs. Albert Gaier on the death of her husband, and to Mrs. Howard Coble on the death of her father, Martin Rome. On Sunday, Nov. 11 the members received communion in a body for deceased members. The neighboring Minister Council extended an invitation to attend its auction. A friend of the council made 185 cord rosaries to be sent to the missions. Servicemen who are sons of members will be remembered with a cash Christmas gift. Mrs. Leo Eilerman was reported to be ill. Members were asked, as in former years, to bring new Christmas cards to the December meeting to be sent to the chaplain at the penitentiary. These will be given to the prisoners who otherwise have none to send their loved ones. Election of officers took place and Mrs. Leo Boerger will head the council as president the next two years; Mrs. Lawrence Eilerman as recording secretary; Mrs. Paul Eilerman, financial secretary; Mrs. Mary Vogelsang, trustee; Mrs. Clara Wehrman, inner guard. Installation will take place in January. A lunch was served at long tables decorated with fall flowers and candles. The attendance award was given to Mrs. Mary Vogelsang. The door prize was won by Mrs. F. J. Raterman. Committee for the Dec. 3 meeting includes Mrs. Albert Pleiman, chairman, Mrs. Anton Toller, Mrs. Anna Aselg, Mrs. Herman Albers, Mrs. Clara Wehrman, Mrs. John Barlago, Mrs. Mark Goetteneoeller and Mrs. Mildred Vonderhuel.

Knights of St. John meeting was held last Thursday evening in St. Michael's Hall. Nomination of officers was held. The $100 went to James Quinlin, and Harry Wendell was the special award winner. The door prize went to Leo Eilerman.

Enjoy your Thanksgiving dinner at the Town House in Minster. Turkey with all the trimmings, $1.50. Children's portions available. Make reservations by Tuesday, Nov. 20. Phone 628-2471.

The neighbor ladies celebrated the birthday of Mrs. George Orwerth Friday evening. Cards were played. Refreshments and lunch were served. Mrs. Orwerth was presented with a gift. The following guests were present: Mrs. Albert Pleiman, Mrs. Bud Heckman, Mrs. Milton Keiler, Mrs. Frank Seger, Mrs. Anton Toller, Mrs. Leo Bollheimer, Mrs. Adolph Bollheimer, Mrs. K. J. Eilerman, Mrs. Elmer Gaier and Mrs. Leo Griner.

Knights of St. John Auxiliary card party was well attended Sunday evening in St. Michael's Hall. The following won prizes in sheephead: Albin Pleiman, Evelyn Puthoff, Anthony Rethman, Ray Buchler and Ed Schmitz. Winners in pinocle were Frank Fleckenstein and Rose Willman. WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS" BY C. WILSON HARDER

California witnessed recently what is perhaps one of the most outlandish displays of brass in a long time.

The nation's largest operator in the field of trading stamps filed suit in a court against the California State Board of Pharmacy.

Early this year, the Board of Pharmacy which sets the professional standards for pharmacists made a ruling that trading stamps C. W. Harder are not to be given with prescriptions.

The State Board stated that handing out trading stamps with prescription drugs is unprofessional, undignified and unethical.

The stamp company charged that the State Board of Pharmacy was seeking to "prevent and eliminate competition."

The stamp firm's allegation becomes most interesting when the broad doctrine it sets up is closely examined.

For they say in effect, that anyone, no matter how engaged, who receives money from the public for goods or services should increase the price of that goods or services so that tribute is paid to a stamp firm.

For they say no such thing as giving out a few stamps. Each month a business that gives stamps must buy stamps with from 2 to 3 per cent of its gross volume.

If successful in court, stamps firm have an unlimited opportunity for expansion here.

For example, if professional men are barred from use of any regulation forbidding the practice, who knows but next thing doctors will be forced to give stamps. Thus, for instance, if a doctor's fee is $100 for a tonsil and adenoid operation, he will be forced to reschedule his fees so that operating bill will be $110. And a $10 dollar dental filling will become $10.20. But dental patients will have the sole of knowing at the drill buzzes away, they are pulling up trading stamps.

Perhaps in time, even morticians can be compelled to give trading stamps, after adjusting their prices to take care of the cost of stamps.

This eventual result will also bring fringe benefits to dying as they will have the comfort of knowing that when their funeral bill is paid, their survivors will get stamps that will get them a lovely set of hand engraved water tumblers.

Or as some w't suggested, perhaps the Internal Revenue Service is missing a bet. It should offer trading stamps on tax payments made at an early date. In fact, a tax increase of around 1 1/2 billion will enable the government to give stamps to all taxpayers. This thing has some real possibilities.
