

I start with a gallon of gesso, and then pour it into my jar.

I use a funnel to transfer the gesso from the jar to the bottle.

The paint will not drain through the funnel into the bottle if the bottle opening is closed off; be sure to tilt the funnel as you pour the gesso to leave air around the bottle opening.

I use the bottle to fill the applicator bottle.

Once you have the gesso in a pourable bottle, filling the applicator bottle is easy.
