FACULTY

Lauren Kravetz Bonnet, PhD, CCC-SLP, is an assistive technology specialist for Arlington Public Schools in Arlington, Virginia. She has served in several other roles during her tenure at Arlington Public Schools, including coordinator of autism services and speech-language pathologist. Bonnet owns and directs a private practice called Freedom of Speech, LLC, located in Arlington. She was also an assistant professor at the University of Virginia, where she taught courses and conducted research in the areas of communication disorders, augmentative and alternative communication, autism, positive behavioral supports, and adapted curriculum. Bonnet earned her Bachelor’s degree in teacher of speech and hearing handicapped from Ithaca College, her Master’s degree in speech-language pathology from George Washington University, and her doctorate in special education from George Mason University.

Financial Disclosures

- Received financial compensation from ASHA for this presentation
- Employee of Arlington Public Schools
- Owner of Freedom of Speech, LLC, private practice

Nonfinancial Disclosures

- No nonfinancial relationships to the content of the course