PRESENTATION BIO

Celeste Roseberry-McKibbin, PhD, CCC-SLP, is a professor of speech pathology and audiology at California State University, Sacramento. She is also currently a part-time itinerant SLP in San Juan Unified School District, where she provides direct services to students from preschool through high school. She received her doctorate from Northwestern University and has worked in educational and medical settings with a wide variety of clients ranging from preschoolers to geriatric patients. She serves homeless persons in her community through direct work on the streets. Roseberry-McKibbin’s primary research interests are in the areas of assessment and treatment of culturally and linguistically diverse students with communication disorders as well as service delivery to students from low-income backgrounds. She has more than 70 publications, including six books, and has made more than 300 presentations at the local, state, national, and international levels. She is a Fellow of ASHA and winner of ASHA’s Certificate of Recognition for Special Contributions in Multicultural Affairs. Roseberry-McKibbin received the national presidential Daily Point of Light Award for her volunteer work in building literacy skills of children in poverty.

Financial Disclosures:

- Received financial compensation from ASHA for this presentation

Nonfinancial Disclosures:

- No nonfinancial relationships to the content of the presentation