FACULTY

Kathryn Hardin, MA, CCC-SLP, CBIST, is a Colorado-based SLP and has been a clinician in neurotrauma working with adults and children post-concussion for more than a decade. Hardin is an Assistant Professor at the University of Colorado-School of Medicine and Clinical Lead at the Marcus Institute for Brain Health, which provides care exclusively to those with persistent symptoms of mild-moderate TBI. She was the 2013 recipient of Outstanding Clinical Achievement in the state of Colorado as well as an ASHFoundation nominee for the Louis DiCarlo Award for Recent Clinical Achievement. She was a pre-convention speaker at the 2015 ASHA Convention and was selected as a trailblazer for her innovative/transformational work on concussions. She speaks nationally on the changing roles of intervention in concussion and what tools are required to address this exploding area of need.

Financial Disclosures
- Financial compensation from ASHA for this presentation
- Employee of University of Colorado

Nonfinancial Disclosures
- No nonfinancial relationships to the content of this presentation