DISCLOSURES

Financial Disclosures
Laurence B. Leonard and Patricia Deevy are employees of Purdue University. Some of the research cited in the article was supported by grants from the National Institutes of Health (National Institute on Deafness and Other Communication Disorders).

Nonfinancial Disclosures
Laurence B. Leonard and Patricia Deevy report no nonfinancial relationships to the content of this article.

Financial Disclosures
Ekaterina Tomas, Katherine Demuth, and Peter Petocz report no financial relationships to the content of this article.

Nonfinancial Disclosures
Ekaterina Tomas, Katherine Demuth, and Peter Petocz report no nonfinancial relationships to the content of this article.

Do the Hard Things First: A Randomized Controlled Trial Testing the Effects of Exemplar Selection on Generalization Following Therapy for Grammatical Morphology, by Amanda Jean Owen Van Horne, Marc Fey, and Maura Curran, published in Journal of Speech, Language, and Hearing Research

Financial Disclosures
Marc Fey received an honorarium from Georgia State University for a talk based on a study sponsored by the National Institute of Deafness and Other Communication Disorders and carried out at the University of Kansas Medical Center, where he was an employee. Amanda Jean Owen Van Horne and Maura Curran report no financial relationships to the content of this article.

Nonfinancial Disclosures
Amanda Jean Owen Van Horne, Marc Fey, and Maura Curran report no nonfinancial relationships to the content of this article.

Accentuate the Negative: Grammatical Errors During Narrative Production as a Clinical Marker of Central Nervous System Abnormality in School-Aged Children

ASHA Self-Study 3340
Assessing and Treating Grammatical Deficits in Children and Young Adults

With Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorders, by John C. Thorne, published in Journal of Speech, Language, and Hearing Research

Financial Disclosures
John C. Thorne reports no financial relationships to the content of this article.

Nonfinancial Disclosures
John C. Thorne reports no nonfinancial relationships to the content of this article.

Financial Disclosures
Jessica Hall received funding from NIH. Karla K. McGregor was an employee of University of Iowa and is now an employee of Boys Town National Research Hospital. She receives funding from NIH-NIDCD. Amanda Owen Van Horne and Thomas Farmer report no financial relationships to the content of this article.

Nonfinancial Disclosures
Jessica Hall, Amanda Owen Van Horne, Karla K. McGregor, and Thomas Farmer report no nonfinancial relationships to the content of this article.