New Car, Same Principles: Using Language Development Theories to Drive the Design of Supportive Augmentative and Alternative Communication System Interfaces
Jamie B. Boster
Joann P. Benigno
John W. McCarthy
Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders, Ohio University
Athens, OH

Disclosures
Financial: Jamie B. Boster, Joann P. Benigno, and John W. McCarthy have no relevant financial interests to disclose.
Nonfinancial: Jamie B. Boster, Joann P. Benigno, and John W. McCarthy have no relevant nonfinancial interests to disclose.

Videos With Integrated AAC Visual Scene Displays to Enhance Participation in Community and Vocational Activities: Pilot Case Study With an Adolescent With Autism Spectrum Disorder
Tara O’Neill
Janice Light
Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders, The Pennsylvania State University
State College, PA
David McNaughton
Department of Educational and School Psychology, The Pennsylvania State University
State College, PA

Disclosures
Financial: This project was supported, in part, by funding from the (a) Penn State AAC Leadership Project, a doctoral training grant funded by U.S. Department of Education grant #H325D110008 and (b) Rehabilitation Engineering Research Center on Augmentative and Alternative Communication (The RERC on AAC), funded by grant #90RE5017 from the National Institute on Disability, Independent Living, and Rehabilitation (NIDILRR) within the Administration for Community Living (ACL) of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS).
Nonfinancial: The results of this investigation were previously presented at the 2017 Pennsylvania Speech-Language-Hearing Association Convention.