EVIDENCE-BASED PRACTICE

It is the position of the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association that audiologists and speech-language pathologists incorporate the principles of evidence-based practice in clinical decision making to provide high quality clinical care. The term evidence-based practice refers to an approach in which current, high-quality research evidence is integrated with practitioner expertise and client preferences and values into the process of making clinical decisions.
Participants are encouraged to actively seek and critically evaluate the evidence basis for clinical procedures presented in this and other educational programs.

Adopted by the Scientific and Professional Education Board, April 2006

INTRODUCTION

This issue of Perspectives focused on the International Cluttering Association (ICA) represented by twelve different countries, fluency courses at the ELTE University in Budapest, Hungary, a variety of treatment approaches for cluttering therapy, cluttering treatment and assessment in Poland, international volunteerism and sustainability, and the collaboration between ASHA and PAHO/WHO.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

You will be able to:

- list conceptual and theoretical aspects of cluttering from the perspective of clinicians and researchers in the International Cluttering Association (ICA)
- tell about fluency courses in a Speech and Language Therapy (SLT) Program in Budapest, Hungary
- summarize four components of communication that can be used for a variety of cluttering treatment approaches
- define volunteerism and sustainability as it relates to the professional speech-language pathologist
- describe the collaboration model between ASHA and PAHO/WHO and the Global Disabilities Action Plan
