

The Definitive Guide To Finding Your Passion

If you are struggling to identify your true passion so that you can create the perfect work at home business, or find that perfect work-at-home career, I have included a few questions to help you to get started on the journey toward identifying what truly excites and motivates you. If you're going to work from home, you want to wake up excited to start your work day. The only way to do that is to make money doing what you are passionate about, what you are naturally talented in, and what you truly enjoy.

Should you already know what kind of business you want to run, or job you want to apply for, you should hopefully find this worksheet insightful.

Should you have any questions, please feel free to reach me at Irene@aspiringmomprenneur.com.

Or you can join my new Facebook group Moms Desiring to Work from Home.

What are your strengths? _____

What do you enjoy doing? _____

What are your interests? _____

What skills are easy for you to perform (e.g. writing, crunching numbers, organizing, etc.)? _____

Of the skills that come easy to you, which ones do you really enjoy doing?

If you had the freedom to spend your time however wish, what would you be doing?

What specific activities or task in a past or current job, do you really enjoy and find engaging? _____

What tasks do you least enjoy doing? _____

If you asked your friends or relatives what you are good at, what would they say?

What types of jobs have you held? _____

What were some of your job responsibilities? _____

Which job/jobs did you find enjoyable? _____

What have your current and former co-workers complimented you on? _____

What have your current and former supervisors complimented you on?

Can you turn your passions and/or skills into a business? _____

Which hobby or skills can you turn into a business?

What is your ideal job or business?

Notes:

I would love to hear from you! Please let me know if this exercise was helpful. Did you come up with other questions to help you discover your passion? Did you find the perfect business idea or job opportunity to pursue as a result of reflecting upon and answering these questions?

Contact me at Irene@aspiringmomprenneur.com. Or you can join my new Facebook group Moms Desiring to Work from Home to share your thoughts and be a part of a group of moms who are also striving to work profitably from home.