POVERTY AND INEQUALITY MUST BE CENTRAL TO PUBLIC HEALTH

Sir Michael Marmot
Director, Institute of Health Equity

Sir Michael Marmot, Director of the Institute of Health and Equity at the University College London, joins ASPPH’s slate of distinguished speakers. Marmot will discuss how health inequalities, the conditions in which people are born, grow, live, work, and age, as well as inequities in power are the fundamental drivers of sickness and inequality in health and healthcare delivery. Marmot’s understanding of the social determinants of health has immensely impacted the way we comprehend differences in health and how we develop interventions to address such challenges. Marmot advocates that, as a public health community, we apply what we know about the social determinants of health to not only improve individual and population health but also advance health equity.

SPOTLIGHT ON KEYNOTE SPEAKERS

HEALTH PROFESSIONALS FOR THE 21ST CENTURY REPORT: 10 YEARS LATER

Dr. Julio Frenk
President, University of Miami

Dr. Julio Frenk, President of University of Miami and a leading scholar in global health, champions a rights-based approach to tackling the challenges of equity in health. Frenk’s scholarship focuses on the immense differences in health between countries, specifically within developing nations, that are still struggling with common treatable infections and reproductive health disorders while simultaneously confronting the emerging challenges of non-communicable diseases and injuries. Frenk will discuss the actions we can take as both individuals and as an academic public health community to assist countries in improving their capacity to mitigate the toll of non-communicable diseases, mental health conditions, and injuries.
