

WINNER

Recruitment Agency of the Year (fewer than 100 employees)

Acre is focused on corporate responsibility, sustainability, environmental management, energy management and health & safety roles. Based in central London and with a team of about 25 employees, Acre's consultants deal with clients located around the world.

Acre's consultants go the extra mile to help bring about the success of clients.

Roles filled deliver a significant social or environmental impact.

Acre's consultants are experts in their field and 70% having studied or are now studying for a postgraduate qualification related to sustainability.

The panel said Acre was a clear winner through its different approach to the traditional recruitment model, which the judges felt was demonstrated in many areas. Acre is not afraid to be disruptive – in a positive way.

Take its online public database Acre Bench, for example. Acre profiles accredited senior interim professionals, giving direct access to clients who can self-select depending on the specific needs of their organisation. It is a risky innovation that has resulted in positive feedback.

Transparency continues in its third party-run feedback. Feefo publishes reviews both from Acre's candidates and clients for the world to see.

This total transparency shows Acre's brave approach in driving up standards in the industry – as well as highlighting the company's passion for recruitment.

Acre was a clear winner. A brilliant website, a great story and not only have they said they have a different approach – they do!

FINALISTS

- ▶ Academic Appointments
- ▶ Amoria Bond
- ▶ Eames Consulting Group
- ▶ Energize Recruitment Solutions
- ▶ Lawrence Harvey Group
- ▶ Montash
- ▶ Resourcing Group

SPONSORED BY

CV-Library is the UK's largest independent job board. Established in 2000, they offer a database holding more than 7m CVs across 70 industry sectors. The website continues to gain popularity with some 2.6m monthly unique users, 15m job searches per month and over 2m monthly job applications. All job vacancies are shared across their extensive network of more than 800 career sites, providing fantastic reach for any recruiter.