Whether you’re buying or leasing, learn what type of agriculture suits your goals, resources, and property, and how to manage your land or open space.

Instructors include the educators below as well as guest lecturers, farmers and other CCE specialists:

- Christian Malsatzki, Small Acreage Farming, Field Crops and Ag Team Leader
- Jason Detzel, Livestock and Pasture Educator
- Jim O’Connell, Small Fruit Educator
- Brent Gotsch, Watershed Educator

Oct. 5: New and Aspiring Land Owners and Leasers

For current or prospective owners or leasers interested in better land management. We’ll provide information to broaden (or maybe narrow!) your perspective on what is possible and practical.

Oct. 12: Berry and Grape Production

Learn how to tell if a site is appropriate for what you want to grow. We’ll cover a range of topics from online tools and business plans to basic site requirements (nutrients, soil, access to markets), plus a grower panel with time for Q&A.

Oct. 19: Livestock Production

We’ll cover everything from keeping animals for domestic use to small and mid-scale commercial operations, as well as production and marketing considerations for the most common livestock types as well as less common, though potentially profitable livestock systems.
