Stay Active This Winter
Winter in New York State can be tough. It’s snowy, windy, cold and often times grey. The winter weather does not motivate most of us to get outside and take part in winter activities. But, being physically active during the winter (and all year round!) can help to keep our minds and bodies healthy. Physical activity that increases your heart and breathing rate help to build endurance and keep you strong to do the tasks you need to do each day. Just getting outside can boost your mood and there are many winter activities that burn lots of calories. Many activities, like walking, shoveling snow or sledding, are free. For only a few dollars per person (the cost of renting the equipment), often you can snowshoe, cross country ski and ice skate. Check out what is available in your area. You may be surprised at just how inexpensive it can be to try a new winter time activity. Here is a short list of how many calories a 150-pound woman can burn doing these winter time activities for 30 minutes:

How much food equals 250 calories? One cup of toasted o’s cereal with ½ cup of fat free milk and a medium banana is 245 calories. You can see that these activities are a good way to burn calories and they are a great way to get your family off the couch and outside this winter!

In Season—Citrus Fruit
Citrus fruits are in season in January. Their bright colors are sure to perk up any meal or snack on a dull winter day! Look for good buys at the supermarket on orange, grapefruit, tangerine, Clementine, lemon, lime, kumquat, pummelo and Ugli fruit.
Head to the library with your child and borrow “Fruit Bowl” Mark Hoffmann. What belongs in a fruit bowl? Read this book and find out what’s a fruit, what’s a vegetable and foods are grouped as fruits or vegetables. After reading the book, have your child make a book mark and include their favorite fruit on the bookmark.
